2-cent per gallon hike heads off shutdown

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Heading off a threatened shutdown by angry service station owners caught in a price squeeze, federal energy chief William E. Simon Saturday allowed a two cent per gallon increase in the price of gasoline sold by independent retail dealers, effective March 1.

Simon ended a day-long round of emergency meetings between gas station owners and federal officials by announcing the increase —which a spokesan said would affect 80 per cent to 85 per cent of the dealers in the United States.

Every one penny increase amounts to "something under" $1 billion a year for motorists, Simon said.

The Federal Energy Office (FEO), which Simon heads, also expressed a "reaffirmation" of support for state laws requiring motorists to purchase a minimum amount of gasoline.

Gas station dealers who journeyed to the Federal Energy Office (FEO) said Saturday their efforts were successful and they would urge an end to shutdowns caused by owners who said they were going broke in the energy shortage.

Representatives of dealer associations in six states, including Pennsylvania which was particularly hard hit by shutdowns, said they would ask their members to go back to work after winning a one to two cent increase in the price of a gallon of gas to motorists.

Tom Anderson, executive director of the Pennsylvania Dealers Association, said after the new regulations were announced: "We will ask our dealers to go along."

Anderson said he was not fully satisfied by the new program, but thought it was sufficient to end shutdowns.

Apparently toning down earlier orders that the service station owners could not give favored treatment to regular customers, the FEO called upon states to develop "community plans for priority customer treatment at the gasoline pumps."

At least six representatives of gasoline dealers, who appeared at a news conference with Simon, said the announcement would end any threat of shutdowns or "pumpouts" by stations owners whose profits were cut by diminishing allocations of gasoline.

"Im sure dealers now will push aside any thoughts of pumping out and will continue the job they've been doing," Lewis Haskell, president of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers said. "And I congratulate the FEO for the action that it has taken."

The dealers had been demanding higher profit margins, flexible rules for favoring some customers and a change in the allocation of fuel.

The FEO said the two cent price increase "replaces" the one cent a gallon hike which was granted last week to station owners who have been allocated less than 85 per cent of what they got in 1972 — meaning that they will reap only a one-cent advantage on each gallon.

It said that those who supply retail dealers also must implement all scheduled price increases based on increased wholesale costs by March 1, or wait until April 1 to do so.

Simon less than 24 hours earlier announced allocation of an additional 240 million gallons of gasoline to 26 states in hopes of relieving long lines at the gas pumps. He acted as some states reported most of their service stations closed for lack of fuel.

Between 70 per cent and 90 per cent of the gas stations were reported closed in Pennsylvania. Three out of every 10 stations were closed in Michigan and about half of them in New York.

In Maryland, officials were drawing up plans to designate 100 gasoline stations across the state for life and death emergencies.

Ex-Sen. Knowland takes own life

Gunshot wound in head

GUERNEVILLE, Calif. (UPI) — William F. Knowland, a former U.S. Senator who served as both the Republican majority and minority leader during his 13-year tenure and was known for his uncompromising idealism, killed himself Saturday at his summer retreat.

Sonoma County Sheriff's deputies said Knowland, 65, publisher of the Oakland Tribune, shot himself in the head with a pistol. His body was found by his family at 1:40 p.m. next to a dock on the Russian River in this Northern California resort area where he maintained a summer home.

Investigators said his body was half in the water and divers found the pistol he used in the water. They said no note was found.

Undersheriff Robert Hayes said Knowland died of "a self-inflicted bullet wound."

"We have definitely ruled out foul play," he said.

Knowland went to his summer home about 75 miles north of San Francisco Saturday after the Tribune concluded observations of its 100th anniversary with week-long events. The paper was purchased by his father, Joseph R. Knowland, in 1914.

The Tribune said in a brief statement that sheriff's investigators ruled the publisher "died of an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound."

Vice President Gerald Ford said in Washington, D.C.: "I am deeply grieved by the death of Bill Knowland. Bill was a close personal friend of mine. He was an outstanding American who served his country well in a time of great need."

A member of a pioneer California family, Knowland served the GOP both as majority and minority leader during 13 ½ years in the Senate.

He began his political career at the age of 12 when he spoke for the Harding-Colidge ticket. At the age of 16, he attended his first national convention and at 37 became the nation's youngest senator.

Knowland began his senatorial career in 1945 when appointed by California Gov. Earl Warren to replace Sen. Hiram W. Johnson, who died in office.

He was first elected in 1946 and re-elected in 1952 prior to being named GOP floor leader in 1953. He was majority leader when the Democrats again took over the Senate.

After retiring from the Senate and losing a campaign for the governorship of California in 1958, he returned to his family newspaper. He took over as publisher and president of the Tribune after his father, Joseph R. Knowland, died in 1965 at the age of 92.

Ford to head program against computer abuses

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon announced appointment Saturday of a Cabinet-level White House council headed by Vice President Gerald R. Ford to propose ways to safeguard the privacy of citizens against misuse of personal information stored in computerized data banks.

In a 15-minute radio speech from his White House office, the President said the council would have four months to recommend "direct, enforceable measures" through legislation or executive action to make sure that "man remains the master and never becomes the victim of the computer."

His address focused primarily on the need to protect the confidentiality of credit, tax, police and other personal information about citizens that are contained in government and private computers.

He said Ford's council would concentrate on:

—Recommending procedures to permit citizens to inspect and correct information about themselves contained in public or private computers.

—Proposing regulations on use of mailing lists and ways to prevent improper alteration or disclosure of personal information.

ATLANTA (UPI) — Atlanta Constitution Editor Reg Murphy Saturday identified a burly building contractor as the "American Revolutionary Army" colonel who kidnaped him and collected a $700,000 ransom.

The contractor, William A. H. Williams, 33, and his 26-year-old wife, Betty, were arrested in the pre-dawn hours Saturday just five hours after Murphy was set free. The ransom money was recovered from their home in suburban Lilburn, about 20 miles northeast of Atlanta.

The couple was being held under a total of $1.5-million bond.

Williams, a Navy veteran who received a medical discharge, was listed on the police blotter as having "suicidal tendencies." He was detained under a $1-million bond on federal charges of extorting $700,000 from the Constitution.

Mrs. Williams was held under $500,000 bond on a charge of having knowledge of a kidnaping and concealing it.

The government did not press federal kidnaping charges because it has not been established that Murphy was transported across state lines. State kidnaping charges are expected to be filed, however.

Murphy, appearing at a news conference at the Constitution Saturday afternoon, was asked if Williams was the man who came to the door last Wednesday night and tricked him into leaving home, claiming his help was needed in arranging the distribution of 300,000 gallons of heating oil to Atlanta's needy.

"There's no doubt about that," Murphy replied.

Murphy said, however, he had not been called upon by authorities to officially identify Williams. He probably had seen a picture of the suspect on television or in the newspaper.

Murphy said he didn't know exactly how the FBI picked up the trail of the Williamses so fast. But he said when he was interviewed by FBI agents following his release at 9 p.m. Friday, "They told me what I told them clicked into place with what they already had.

FBI agent John Maurer said Saturday it was "possible" that Williams and his wife made up the entire American Revolutionaary Army.

Asked about this, Murphy said, "My impression is there were more than two people, but remember I had lost my sense of sight" (his abductors blindfolded him).

Later in the interview, Murphy said he thought the "colonel was deliberately trying to mislead him about the number of people" in the American Revolutionary Army. "I haven't made up my mind about whether there was an accomplice," he said.

Pressed on whether he thought an "American Revolutionary Army" existed, Murphy replied: "It is conceivable there is. Frankly I am skeptical that there is."

Following his release Friday night, Murphy said the colonel had told him there were 223 members and six colonels in the right-wing group.

Asked why he thought he was chosen as the kidnap victim, Murphy replied: "At one point, he (the colonel) said that they had debated various and sundry people." He said the names of Atlanta Mayor Maynard Jackson, State Sen. Leroy Johnson and Don Elliott Heald, WSB-TV vice president, were mentioned.

"You go back and tell the mayor the reason we didn't select him was that he wouldn't fit in the trunk of a car," the kidnaper said, referring to Jackson's stoutness.

Murphy said he immediately tried to make friends with the colonel: "If you are ever in a situation like this, try to make friends with your kidnaper. I spent a lot of time trying to make him feel better."

He said the kidnaper told him at one time: "I like you" and when Murphy was released the "colonel put his hand on my shoulder and said: Great man."

Murphy said that early in his ordeal, the colonel threatened him with violence often—to shoot him and to chloroform him in the trunk of the car. He said he was warned if he made a sound when they were at gas stations, he would be killed.

The "colonel" said he was upset that so many Jews were in high governmental offices. He mentioned Henry Kissinger, William Simon and James Schlesinger. He said "even Ehrlichman was Jewish."

John Ehrlichman, President Nixon's former chief domestic adviser, actually is a Christian Scientist. Federal energy chief Simon is a Roman Catholic, a spokesman said Saturday; a spokesman at the Pentagon said Defense Secretary Schlesinger is not Jewish.

He said the colonel told him the ARA had originally planned to use plastic explosives to blow up radio and television stations but then decided on kidnaping.

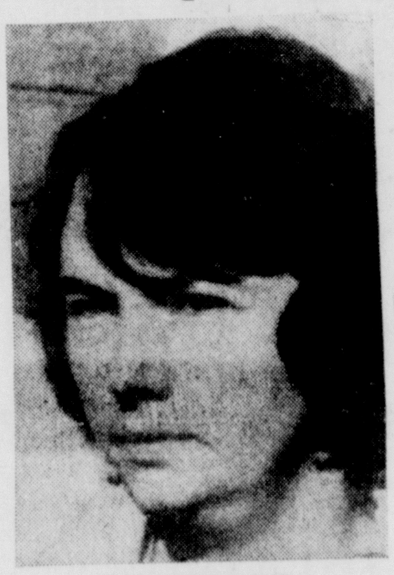
WILLIAM A. H. WILLIAMS



BETTY WILLIAMS

Find diary; believed Williams'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A diary purportedly belonging to William Williams, the suspected kidnaper of Atlanta Constitution editor Reg Murphy, contains Murphy's name and notations that Williams supposedly communicated with the Saudi Arabian embassy and a rightwing political leader, CBS news reported Saturday night.

CBS said there was no explanation in the diary for the communications, but the network said entries made earlier this month indicated Williams had telephoned the Saudi Arabian embassy at least twice, sent one wire and written a letter to Saudi Foreign Minister Omar Sakaff.

CBS also said one entry stated, "Called J.B. Stoner." Stoner, the head of the ultraconservative States Rights Party, told CBS he is not certain if he knows Williams.

The network said Williams entered Murphy's address and telephone number on Feb. 8, and three days later wrote: "As far as I'm concerned, today is the day that will start the fall of the federal government."

The network said the diary was located by CBS newsman Bernard Goldberg. The FBI in Atlanta had no comment on the document.

4 stranded on cliff rescued

CLAREMONT — Four Pomona Valley boys were plucked from atop a cliff in Evey Canyon Saturday by members of the San Dimas Mountain Rescue Team, after they apparently became stranded.

Rescued were Timothy Dison, 13, of 456 Chester Pl., Pomona, Donald Brown, 12, of 186 E. Jefferson Ave., Pomona, Vincent Rowe, 13, of Cucamonga, and Clifford Carter 18, of 1100 S. Valley Center, San Dimas.

Deputies said the boys panicked when they climbed to a cliff 150 feet from the canyon floor, and could not get down.

Five hurt in valley crashes; CHP car involved

As a California Highway Patrol car slowed alongside the westbound San Bernardino Freeway Friday night near CHP headquarters in Claremont, another car slewed across the freeway, slammed into the side of the patrol vehicle and knocked it from the road.

The Keystone Kops mishap was but one of five accidents reported in the Pomona Valley Friday and Saturday. Five persons suffered various injuries in the mishaps, four of whom were hospitalized.

No one was hurt in the crash on the Indian Hill Boulevard offramp Friday about 9:50 p.m. although CHP Traffic Officer Art Hatton, 43, nearly landed in his headquarters parking lot by way of the back fence.

Reports say Hatton was flagged down by a carload of young people as he approached the offramp. They reportedly had been chased from San Bernardino by a car driven by Michael Shane Henderson, 20, of Redlands and wanted the officer to help them.

Just as Hatton was nearly stopped, officers said, Henderson tried to follow the other from the center lane of the highway to the offramp. However, his car went into a broadside skid, slammed into the patrol vehicle, followed it off the ramp and went down the embankment.

Hatton then had to break up an altercation between occupants of the other two cars. Subsequently Henderson was booked on a drunk driving charge.

Roy Glen Flanagan, 9, of 11156 Surrey Ave., Montclair, escaped serious injury Saturday when he reportedly rode his bicycle into the path of a car driven by Jeffrey John Schultz, 24, 2219 Cathryn, Pomona.

Highway patrol officers said young Flanagan suffered minor injuries in the mishap at 1:10 p.m. in the intersection of Monte Vista Avenue and Howard Street, near Montclair. Reports say the boy, westbound on Howard, apparently failed to yield right of way.

Two Pomona teen-agers were injured earl, Saturday when their car rammed a tree on Orange Grove at Ganesha avenues.

Both Jane Esther Lone, 19, 967 Vassar Ave., and Robbie Tart, 15, 2239 San Carolos Drive, were taken, unconscious, to Pomona Valley Community Hospital, where they are listed in fair condition.

In two separate auto accidents in Ontario, two men were hospitalized, one after being struck by a car on Euclid Avenue, the other following a collision at Euclid and Maitland avenues.

Police said Pedro Gomez, 43, of Ontario was struck on Euclid by a car driven by Paul Costa north of Francis St. Saturday at 10 a.m.

Costa, of Corona, told officers Gomez suddenly darted out in front of his car and he could not avoid hitting him.

Gomez was reported in stable condition today at Veterans Hospital in West Los Angeles, after being transferred there from Chino General Hospital.

Kenneth Marvin Himes, 50, of Ontario, was in satisfactory condition at San Bernardino County Hospital after his auto collided with one driven by Steven DeMauro, 22, also of Ontario.

Officers said both autos were traveling northbound on Euclid Friday evening when DeMauro's car suddenly changed lanes and struck Himes' vehicle from the rear. The collison caused Himes' car to crash into a telphone pole at the corner of Euclid and Maitland.

$2,000 to $3,000 in tools stolen

CHINO — Burglars carved a hole in a maintenance shed at Western Hills Country Club Saturday, escaping with an undetermined amount of tools, sheriffs deputies said.

Initial reports indicated the tools to be valued at $2,000 to $3,000, but deputies said the figure could change later. The thieves sliced a hole in the aluminum shed, deputies added, and took chain saws, power tools, wrenches and welding equipment.

Kidnap suspects tabbed as 'good neighbors'

By CHARLES S. TAYLOR

LILBURN, Ga. (UPI) — Bill and Betty Williams were "good neighbors," people you could leave your children with when you went out to dinner or the movies.

Saturday, the neighbors awoke to find that the Williamses were suspects in one of the most sensational kidnapings in Georgia's history, the abduction of Atlanta Constitution Editor Reg Murphy.

"She was just as nice as she could be," said Mrs. Wayne Davis, referring to Mrs. Williams. Mrs. Davis recalled that Mrs. Williams used to sell cosmetics door-to-door.

"Bill," William A. H. Williams, loved deep sea fishing, the neighbors said, and just last October caught an 80-pound sailfish off the Florida coast. He had it mounted and hung on his living room wall.

The Williamses lived in a new subdivision of $35,000 to $40,000 homes just outside this little town of Lilburn, about 20 miles northeast of Atlanta. The subdivision also is about 20 miles from the spot where the Constitution dropped $700,000 along a roadway to ransom Murphy.

The Davises and their other neighbors, the Mike Dabneys, were awakened about 2 a.m. when about 10 or 15 cars loaded with police and FBI agents came swarming into the neighborhood with lights flashing.

At 2:02 a.m., five hours after Murphy was released, the Williamses were arrested and agents found the ransom loot in their home.

Two years ago Williams purchased his colonial-style home in the subdivision and put up a split rail fence around his front yard. A chain link fence surrounds the rear of the Williams home and there is an elaborate playset, including swings and a slide for their three children, a girl, Janet, 3, and two boys, Ricky, 9, and Allen 7.

Last summer when food costs began to rise, Williams planted a vegetable garden.

Of all their neighbors, the Dabneys apparently were best acquainted with the Williams'.

"They're nice people. We've taken care of their children and they've taken care of ours," said Mike Dabney.

"Needless to say," I'm surprised," said Dabney when questioned about the Williams family. "They're good neighbors."

Sheryl Dabney described Mrs. Williams as "very attractive, five feet three inches, black hair and weighing 125 pounds.

"She was a very pleasant, lovely person, interested in her children and their school. She was a member of the PTA," said Mrs. Dabney.

"She wanted to slim down to 120 pounds and joined a health club."

The Dabneys described Williams as "a big man with a booming voice."

"He seemed very gentle to me," said Mrs. Dabney. He liked my kids. He didn't like my dog but I don't hold that against him. I don't like my dog sometimes either."

The Dabneys declined to talk about the political beliefs of the Williamses. Dabney said only "he was a typical southern conservative." He said he had never heard Williams mention the American Revolutionary Army (the group that abducted Murphy).

"They were upset about Watergate and what was going on in the country, but so is everyone," Mrs. Dabney said.

She added that Williams did not drink.

Davis described Williams as "a strange man, who kept to himself.

"I don't guess he spoke 200 words to me in two years," he said.

But when he caught that sailfish, he invited me in and showed it to me. It was the first time he had hardly spoken to me. It was just like he had known me all his life."

IT'S ALL THERE

FBI agents in Atlanta Saturday count ransom money used in the release of kidnaped editor Reg Murphy. The entire $700,000 ransom was recovered with arrest of building contractor and his wife.

'People in Need' giveaway will go on, says Kramer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The head of Randolph Hearst's "People in Need" free food program said Saturday it will continue regardless of the response from the Symbionese Liberation Army, which holds Hearst's daughter Patricia.

Twenty-four hours after the Hearst Corp. made a take-it-or-leave-it offer of an additional $4 million in free food to the needy for 20-year-old Patty Hearst's safe return, there still was no answer from the terrorist group which kidnaped her 19 days ago.

A weary A. Ludlow Kramer, secretary of state of Washington State who is running the food program at Hearst's request, apologized Saturday for Friday's mass confusion and violence when the free food distribution centers opened for the first time. He said the program would be better organized by the next scheduled opening Tuesday.

Asked if the food program would continue no matter what happens to Miss Hearst, Kramer said: "Yes. This is a guarantee of the Hearst family and a guarantee of us that the food program will continue."

Kramer said "we believe very strongly that the SLA is correct in the sense that people need funds, people need the additional money." He said the Hearst family realized the complexity of trying to set up such a program in a short time.

"I think they were sorry to see some funds having to be used in a manner not getting food to the people," he said.

The Hearst family, Hearst Corp. and the William Randolph Hearst Foundation have now guaranteed a total of $6 million, the largest ransom in U.S. history, for the return of the University of California coed who was taken from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

On Friday, her father, who is chairman of the Hearst Corp. and president-editor of the San Francisco Examiner, responded to the latest SLA demand with a brief statement:

"The size of the latest demand of the SLA is far beyond my financial capability. Therefore, the matter is now out of my hands."

However, the Hearst Corp. said it would provide the additional $4 million demanded, but only if the girl is returned unharmed. And Hearst executive Charles Gould said no other funds would be offered or committed "under any circumstances."

Meanwhile, a television news reporter said that Miss Hearst was being held by an all-woman "combat unit" of the SLA because female members are used for the sect's "dirty work."

KQED-TV reporter Marilyn Baker quoted SLA sources as saying its leaders "basically don't want women to have equal authority. They are using the women to do the dirty work."

FBI spokesman John Kelly said the FBI has "no evidence of that type." He said there was nothing new to report in the kidnaping investigation.

Kramer said he expected the "People in Need" program to be better organized by next Tuesday's scheduled second day of food distribution, with double or triple the four outlets which were the scenes of pushing and shoving by recipients Friday, and in one case a fist-swinging, can-throwing melee.

"A one-shot food program does not work," Kramer said when asked why the confusion broke out. "We made a lot of mistakes, but by God, we're going to feed people."

Officials of the food program estimated that 14,000 people turned out for food Friday—less than the 20,000 Kramer said earlier he had hoped to feed— but only about 9,000 received the giveaway.

The Oakland distribution center, scene of the violence, did not officially open at all and only a small amount of food, thrown from a delivery truck, was passed out.

At least 21 persons were injured in Oakland, and police there arrested 35 persons. One food store near the Oakland center was looted.

Kramer said he expected the program, which he said could feed 100,000 people a month, "month after month after month," eventually to expand statewide in California, including Indian reservations.

Hijacker once held for threat on Nixon's life

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — The Secret Service disclosed Saturday that the man who killed himself and two others in an airplane hijacking attempt had been investigated for an alleged threat against President Nixon.

He was also known to Park Police in Washington, D.C., and authorities in Philadelphia, where he was briefly committed to a hospital for psychiatric observation a year ago while under investigation for threatening the President.

Meantime, the Delta Airlines pilot critically wounded in Friday's attempted hijacking at the Baltimore-Washington International Airport underwent surgery for a second time Saturday.

The condition of Reese D. Lofton, 40, of Fort Worth, Tex., improved slightly after the operation, a University of Maryland Hospital spokesman said, but he was still on the critical list.

In the early morning hijack attempt, Samuel J. Byck, 44, of Philadelphia, shot dead a security guard and a Delta copilot and then took his own life after being hit in a shootout with police.

The former tire salesman burst into the airliner ready to leave for Atlanta after shooting Neil Ramsburg of Howard County, Md., a security guard. Byck shot Lofton and copilot Freddie Jones, 32, of Dallas, when the pilot told Byck the plane could not take off without clearance. Jones died of his wounds a few hours later.

Secret Service spokesman Jack Warner said the agency investigated an alleged threat against President Nixon made by Byck in 1972.

The U.S. Attorney's office did not press charges after Byck was committed to Philadelphia General Hospital for psychiatric observation in January, 1973, and was released a short time later, Warner said.

Byck also wrote several letters to the Philadelphia Daily News.

"His letters usually dealt with politics and we published a number of them. President Nixon was no favorite of Byck and thus was the most frequent subject—and target," editor Rolfe Neill wrote in Saturday's paper.

Family's grocery bill hits new high

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The yearly cost of a typical family food market basket rose to a new record of nearly $1,680 in January, it was learned Saturday.

An Agriculture Department report due for publication within a few days is expected to be about $30, or 1.8 per cent, above the $1,650 level reported in December and about $27 over the previous record, $1,653, set in August of last year.

The market basket represents the cost of a collection of U.S. farm-produced foods in amounts enough to feed an "average household" of 3.2 persons for a year. The market basket figures do not show what any real family actually spends on groceries, but economists say month-to-month changes in the basket cost furnish a reliable clue to ups and downs in actual grocery bills.

Predictions that the basket cost in January would reach a new record were published weeks ago after economists studied daily and weely market reports of increases in the prices of cattle and other farm products, and noted continuing increases in marketing costs.

The indication that the January gain over December figures would be 1.8 per cent came when the Labor Department's monthly Consumer Price Index showed an increase of that amount in the January price of farm-produced foods.

Agriculture Department officials use the farm-produced food index to make monthly adjustments in their market baset retail cost figure. The market basket report, when published, also will show how much of the change from December was due to higher returns to farmers, and how much went into increased marketing costs.

New subpoena sent to Nixon

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A new subpoena seeking President Nixon's testimony in the Ellsberg break-in case was mailed Friday, this time by registered mail to avoid a delay in its arrival.

The new document changes the date when Nixon's appearance is requested at a hearing for former White House aides John Ehrlichman, David Young and G. Gordon Liddy. The three are charged with burglary in connection with the 1971 breakin at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Earlier this month, a subpoena signed by Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer was sent to the White House, requesting Nixon's appearance at a Feb. 25 hearing. It was the first time in history a president has been summoned to testify before a state court.

Nixon's attorneys announced the President would resist the subpoena. A March 15 hearing on the matter was scheduled in Washington, D.C., causing the pretrial hearing to be delayed from Feb. 25 to March 25.

Lester Maddox opens campaign for governor

ATLANTA (UPI) — Lester Maddox, dressed in red, white and blue and proclaiming "Ole' Lester Done it Again" will be heard after the election, launched his campaign for governor Saturday with a pledge to depose "government fat cats."

A crowd of some 500 persons, almost exclusively white, jammed into Maddox's headquarters at a plush Atlanta hotel, festooned with huge "Maddox for Governor" banners and hundreds of signs reading "This is Maddox Country."

Only soft drinks and cookies were served to supporters and newsmen, reflecting Maddox's teetotler philosophy. Many at the rally were carrying Bibles.

The posh surroundings and the visible signs of support were a sharp contrast to a wintry day in 1966 when Maddox first ran for governor. Then known only for his stand against racial integration of his fried chicken restaurant, Maddox's gubernatorial announcement eight years ago attracted only a handful of supporters and two or three newsmen.

But Maddox went on to win the Democratic primary and later was elected governor by the legislature when neither he nor his Republican opponent, Howard "Bo" Callaway, won a majority vote.

the ARA. "You've got to understand, this is the most bizarre kind of mind at work...If it is a political movement, it is the most doomed political group in history."

Murphy said he never spoke to anyone but the "colonel" or heard anyone but him. He said the "colonel" told him he had sold the $700,000 for $500,000 "to a foreign government." "Whether that was a ruse to make it seem political when it was economic, I can't say."

Murphy said the man "was not very smart" but was "very, very canny."

Murphy said he tried to keep a running dialogue with the man as much as he could. "As you go through the process of using your own mental effort, to relax him, you relax yourself." He said they began to develop a camaraderie. "There does begin to be a 'we're-in-this-together' kind of process." He hastily added, "Don't get the impression I like the guy."

Murphy said the colonel first mentioned his anti-Semitic beliefs before Murphy was forced to cut a tape explaining why he had been kidnaped. The tape was later sent to the Constitution and broadcast over stations throughout the country.

The editor said he and the colonel started making the tape after the kidnaping Wednesday. Murphy said the colonel talked for about 10 minutes at the end of the tape.

"But they made me take out the anti-Semitism when we retaped it the next morning (Thursday)."

Murphy said the colonel was very concerned when he did not hear the first tape he made broadcast over television and radio. He said the colonel got angry and called Murphy's wife from a pay phone and told her to get it on the air.

Murphy said when the tape finally was broadcast, the colonel, said "Gee, I wish your voice had a little more zip in it."

Murphy said the colonel made many, many calls. "He must have had 100 dimes in his pocket."

Murphy said the colonel loved hearing broadcasts about the negotiations. He fancied himself as a man of great daring."

The colonel, Murphy recalled, was anxious to be questioned about his political beliefs. "The guy wanted me to continue questioning him, but I was kind of disoriented."

He said when the colonel was asked about his political beliefs, the man "did not put things together in an ordinary sense."

Murphy said he left clues everywhere he could as evidence for the FBI. "I think I can help them reconstruct our path." He said he tried to put palm prints on furniture, left his wife's car key under the back seat cushion in the car and "picked up lint from things I was touching and stuffed it in my pocket."

Williams was asked by newsmen as he entered the federal courthouse for the arraignment whether all of the "army" had been captured. "Oh, yeah," he flippantly responded.

The burly, six-foot-three, 250-pound Williams — a drywall (plasterboard) contractor—said his wife was innocent, and when asked about himself, said: "Time will tell."

The Williamses lived in a neat, colonial style $35,000-$40,000 home just outside the little town of Lilburn, about 20 miles northeast of Atlanta.

Neighbors in the quiet residential area were shocked when they were awakend about 2 a.m. by the barking of dogs and the mad rush of about 15 patrol cars sweeping into the area with lights flashing.

At 2:02 a.m. police and FBI agents took the Williamses into custody. A search of the home turned up the ransom loot—two suitcases containing what the FBI described as a "voluminous amount of money in $10, $20, $50 and $100 bills."

A sister took custody of the Williamses three children, Rickey, 9, Allen, 7, and Janet, 3, after the parents arrest.

FEO official says nationwide rationing inevitable

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A regional administrator of the Federal Energy Office (FEO) predicted Saturday that increasing gasoline shortages possibly will rule out traditional vacation trips for many Americans this summer.

In a television interview with Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott for broadcast on Pennsylvania stations, FEO regional administrator Joseph LaSala of Philadelphia also said that gasolide rationing probably is inevitable.

Admitting that his answer was "flip," LaSala said that when he is asked how families should plan their summer vacations, he usually replies: "You should plan it so that the round trip does not use more than a tankfull of gas."

LaSala said that the gasoline shortage will worsen this spring and summer and the nation will experience "severe times" for automobile use until regulations and legislation dealing with the energy shortage are more firmly established.

He repeated FEO Administrator William Simon's predictions of a 20 per cent shortfall in gasoline supplies, meaning that one in every five trips made in the past by car will have to be eliminated.

LaSala said the gasoline shortage could be managed if Americans would voluntarily conserve fuel in their cars as well as they conserved energy in their homes this winter. But he agreed with Scott's analysis of the situation that Americans still have a "love affair with the car."

"We can tell them to do just about anything with their home," LaSala said, "but don't mess with their automobile. Don't restrict their movement. Don't tell them they can't go someplace on a Sunday. It's a very, very serious situation."

The energy official said an increasing number of salesmen and small businessmen now are asking the FEO whether they will have enough gasoline to stay in business.

As a result, LaSala said, "we're probably heading toward national gas rationing."

Describing the situation as "sad," LaSala said as more and more states adopt voluntary rationing plans for gasoline, the need grows for conformity.

"There has to be some way that a man can plan his business," LaSala added, "and I don't want to even guess at a time, but I think it (rationing) is coming."

Shortage of baling wire could affect Chino, Ontario dairies

Meat, toilet paper, fuel and now bailing wire.

Those metal strings used to hold together bales of hay could next be the item of short supply.

So predicts the California Farm Bureau, which reports the impact may be felt next April with the first full cutting of hay.

Should bailing wire be in short supply, this could have a strong effect on the dairy industry in Chino and Ontario. Dairies depend upon hay as a major feed source.

Some 1.7 million acres of hay, primarily alfalfa, are harvested annually in California. The crop is cut six times or more between April and November.

Failure to bale adequate supplies of hay would increase the cost of production for meat and dairy products with consequent increases in consumer prices, stated the farm bureau.

"A small portion of California's production is handled by other means, but because of machinery shortages, no significant changeover from bailing is expected."

Bureau officials blamed the crucial shortage of wire products on earlier price controls and energy problems in foreign steel producing countries. Limited returns resulted in the closing of two of California's three wire producing plants.

"Although the price controls were lifted Jan. 25 at the request of the Farm Bureau, the new pricing system may have arrived too late to avoid a 25 per cent shortage in 1974 needs," said Allan Grant, bureau president.

"Historically, farmers have relied upon foreign sources of wire, but with the current energy problems, aboard, we can't induce needed production at any price."

Grant said the most prominent shortage concerns bailing wire but also includes vineyard wire, steel posts and other steel products.

"We have been working in different areas to increase wire production," he added. "Securing the removal of the price ceiling was an important first step. We are now doing everything possible to encourage increased foreign and domestic production."

Reagan praises Lt. governor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Calling Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke a "fine lieutenant governor," Gov. Ronald Reagan says he had seen "no evidence of wrong-doing" by Reinecke.

At a news conference Thursday, Reagan was asked whether Reinecke's troubles in the federal investigation of the ITT case had cast any reflection on him because he appointed Reinecke.

"No, and I don t see it as a reflection on him," the governor replied.

"I've seen no evidence of wrong-doing on his part," Reagan said. "I appointed a man who has done a good job as lieutenant governor.

More buses to join Dime-a-Ride program

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — About 165 buses will be added to scheduled lines to handle increasing use of the Southern California Rapid Transit District's Sunday "Dime-a-Ride" program, the RTD said.

County Board of Supervisors Chairman Kenneth Hahn said the extra buses should result in less waiting time at scheduled stops.

More than 350,000 riders took advantage of the special 10-cent, one-way fare to any point within Los Angeles County last Sunday.

"We estimate at least 200,000 gallons of (auto) fuel are being saved every Sunday under this program," Hahn said.

Orange County has also implemented a reduced fare program.

Not southern plants

Lilacs are suited to grow in all parts of the United States except the deep south where winters are too mild to give the plants the seasonal "rest period" they need.

MORE GAS FOR SOME STATES — The government has allocated 240 million gallons of gasoline to 26 states and the District of Columbia and energy chief William Simon said the emergency move would end long lines at gas stations. New map shows which states are to receive additional gasoline.

Northwest gas men hit allocations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Service station representatives from Washington and Oregon met with Federal Energy Office officials Saturday and said the Oregon rationing plan had "worked beautifully" until the government started allocating gasoline by states.

Bill Hardcastle, of Olympia, Wash., and Dick Scott, Portland, Ore., spoke briefly with newsmen before meeting with Deputy Energy Chief John C. Sawhill and White House labor negotiator W. J. Usery. The meeting followed one with Indiana and Illinois station owners, who later predicted major concessions from the FEO in prices, allocations and other areas.

Hardcastle was critical of last week's announced one cent markup in the per-gallon price of gasoline. It applied only to stations receiving less than 85 per cent of their 1972 gas supplies.

"We don't need that 85 per cent tail, and want to have this thing apply across the board," Hardcastle said. He is vice president of the Evergreen Service Station Association.

Scott, a representative of the Oregon Gasoline Dealers Association, said that "previous to the federal government's wholesale allocations, the rationing system in Oregon worked beautifully." But he added that "now the dealers as a group are very unhappy and are looking for changes."

Scott said he also believed that increased fuel allocations were not actually getting down to the corner station owner where the customers were lining up for gasoline.

The two state organizations claim a total dealer membership of 1,800.

Central Plains, northeast under snow

By United Press International

Heavy snows, swirling and drifting in winds gusting to 40 and 60 miles per hour, hit the central Plains and Northeast Saturday.

Northeastern Nebraska was blanketed with 2½ inches of new snow and travelers advisories were posted for Nebraska and northwestern Missouri. Strong northwesterly winds gusted to 35 and 40 miles per hour from the eastern slopes of the Rockies to the central Plains and temperatures dropped to near zero at the northern tip of the storm.

Another storm, caused by an intense low-pressure air mass centered over New Brunswick, Canada, brought snow and high winds to the Northeast, from Maine to Pennsylvania and Maryland. Wind gusts were gauged at 60 miles per hour in Boston, Mass.,and 51 miles per hour in Portland, Maine. Booneville, N.Y. received nine inches of new snow.

In Illinois, Wisconsin and Michigan, there still were lingering effects of a snowstorm which blasted the region Friday, causing at least two deaths and, in Wisconsin, claiming at least 5 heart attack victims who were felled while shoveling heavy snow.

Winds gusting over 40 m.p.h. in New York City shattered windows in the upper floors of several skyscrapers and expanded a small brush fire into a three-alarm blaze. Two persons were slightly injured by debris blown away from a construction site in midtown Manhattan.

Cloudiness increased over the Gulf Coast states and the Mississippi Valley and skies were partly cloudy in the northern Rockies and along the Pacific Coast. The sun shone over the northern Plains and from Kentucky and Tennessee to the Atlantic Coast.

West Covinan charged

U.S. airmen held by Turks claim beatings

ERDEMLI, Turkey (UPI) — A group of U.S. airmen jailed on drug charges said Saturday that Turkish narcotics agents beat them with rubber pipes until they confessed to taking drugs at a Mediterranean beach party.

In an interview through the bars at Erdemli's two-story, mud-brick jailhouse, Air Force Sgt. Charles Spencer, 21, of Cypress, Calif., asserted: "They beat us and threatened us until we signed a confession." Spencer is one of 11 airmen being detained. The group denied using drugs at the party.

A police spokesman at Mersin, where the airmen alleged the beatings took place, denied the charges and said the confessions were obtained voluntarily.

Erdemli public prosecutor A. Yener Bediz said Spencer and nine other airmen would be brought before a court March 7 on charges of smoking ezra, a drug made from hemp. They were arrested Feb. 16.

Under Turkish law, the charges carry a maximum penalty of three years imprisonment.

Flies can take more than men

MELBOURNE, Austraila (UPI — A university professor says a common garbage fly could outlive man in a nuclear holocaust.

The newspaper The Australian said Peter Parsons, professor of genetics and human variations at La Trobe University, found that the vinegar fly, usually found buzzing around decaying fruit in trash cans, can survive more than 100 times more radiation than man.

Motel color, sign approved in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The city Architectural Commission has approved ceramic beige as the stucco color and a 12½-foot-high sign for the proposed 112-unit Motel 6 complex on Foothill Boulevard, west of Padua Avenue.

The commission earlier had approved a 60-square-foot sign, and John Schiedemen, representing the applicant, requested consideration of a 72-square-foot sign because, he explained, that size was the stock size. He said the firm does not have a stock 60-square-foot sign, and would have to size down to 49 square feet.

The commission did not see any reason to modify its original decision on the sign.

In other actions, the commission approved replacing the existing Beef 'n Barrel sign with a new sign 8½ feet high.

The new sign will consist of a 57-inch oval cask end on which the head of a bull has been carved, a white spigot extending from the sign, and copy reading "Beef 'n Barrel Co." and "Restaurant."

Montclair High shop increase plan rekindled

ONTARIO — A plan to expand the metal and welding program at Montclair High School and develop a certified welding program within the school's vocational arts area will be discussed at Monday's Chaffey Unified School District board of trustees meeting.

To implement such a plan, an increase in the power supply to the industrial arts building would be needed.

Dean Smothers, principal of Montclair High, and members of the school's vocational advisory committee will attend the board meeting to discuss the plans. The committee presented similar recommendations to the board in October, but the matter was deferred because of the electrical energy crisis.

The district has now ben assured that the additional power supply to the vocational arts department would not be in conflict with existing energy regulations.

CLAREMONT — Is your car really going as fast as the speedometer indicates?

There's an easy way to check, said Capt. W. C. Jones of the California Highway Patrol.

By driving through a measured mile and calculating the elapsed time, actual speed can be determined.

"The key figure is 65 seconds," he said. "This is how long it takes to move one mile at 55 miles per hour. If it takes less than 65 seconds, you are exceeding 55 m.p.h."

There are 40 locations on state highways where measured miles are "sign-posted." But any location can be used where two landmarks—such as freeway ramps—are known to be a mile apart.

Drivers can even use mileposts, the small black-on-white signs which indicate mileage from the county line. By identifying two posts which are a mile apart, the driver can thus check his speedometer the next time he goes through, added Jones.

He gave this chart where elapsed time can be converted to the speed traveled:

70 seconds, 51.4 m.p.h.; 69 seconds, 52.1 m.p.h.; 68 seconds, 52.9 m.p.h.; 67 seconds, 53.7 m.p.h.; 66 seconds, 54.5 m.p.h.; 65 seconds, 55.3 m.p.h.; 64 seconds, 56.2 m.p.h.; 63 seconds, 57.1 m.p.h.; 62 seconds, 58 m.p.h; 61 seconds, 59 m.p.h.; and 60 seconds, 60 m.p.h.

S.B. County official given advisory role

SAN BERNARDINO — County Supervisor Daniel Mikesell of Ontario has been appointed to serve as one of three county representatives on the California Council on Intergovernmental Relations.

The council, one of eight agencies reporting to the governor, is designed to provide a framework for communication, cooperation and coordination between all units of government for increased responsiveness to the solution of interstate, state, local and interlocal problems.

It is composed of 19 members representing state, regional, county and city governments, school districts, special districts and the public-at-large.

Mikesell was appointed by Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Blind need lift from drivers

POMONA — Pomona residents are needed to drive blind students to the Braille Institute in Los Angeles.

Volunteers serve on an as-needed basis.

Braille Institute also needs volunteer aides to assist instructors in creative crafts, decorative arts, leathercraft and knitting at the Los Angeles educational center for the blind.

The institute, headquartered at 741 N. Vermont Ave., Los Angeles, is supported entirely by private gifts. For more than 50 years it has offered retraining and educational programs for the blind.

Blind couple adopts four

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — There are four children in the home of Ethel and Jim Lee, and none of them is quite like any of the others.

Chrystopher is the oldest—an eager 8-year-old, willing to help his mother as best he can to take care of the younger ones.

Andria Jean, 4, known as Bunny, is a pretty, quiet little girl. Wally, 4, is a wide-eyed child with short blond hair and an unobtrusive manner. Melodee, 2, attracts the most attention with her dark curly hair and her quick smile.

Ethel and Jim Lee have been blind since birth. Their children are not their own but were brought into a home that shows so much love that an outsider has difficulty in understanding why 18 adoption agencies didn't want to give the Lees a chance.

New organization

The Lees maintain that handicapped persons need someone to stand up for them and show adoption agencies that the handicapped are just as capable as anyone of giving unwanted children the love and the home they need.

The Lees also know that despite the fight, the waiting, the frustration and the humiliation, their struggle was worthwhile.

After they found they could not have children of their own, the Lees decided to adopt. They were turned down by 18 different agencies, one of which kept them on the string for more than two years before rejecting them.

Finally, in June, 1968, they became the parents of Chrystopher. They were the first blind couple in Missouri to adopt a child.

Learn to do without

"People would ask us, 'How can you handle yourselves, much less a family?' We told them that, if you've never had candy, then you never miss it. If you've never had sight, you just learn to get along without it," Mrs. Lee said.

Lee teaches piano technology at the Missouri School for the Blind a few blocks from the family's home on the city's south side. He walks to work with the help of his guide dog, Shayna.

Mrs. Lee stays at home with the children, aided by her dog, Sheilla. Chrys is partially sighted and attends the school for the blind but is also involved in other activities with sighted youngsters his own age.

Once they had adopted their first child the Lees found the road to adopting other children a little easier—and just as rewarding. Bunny came into the Lee home in 1970 when she was just 51 hours old—a normal, healthy child. "When the social worker brought her in, I just went to pieces completely," Mrs. Lee said.

Later that year the family took in Wally as a foster child. He had been considered retarded and emotionally slow, but with the Lees he has shown remarkable progress and will soon attend a nursery school with children his own age.

The latest challenge has been Melodee Hoang Hoa Lee. Mrs. Lee said she was asked by a social worker in 1972 whether she and her husband would be interested in adopting a Negro-Vietnamese war orphan. "We told them we are not only blind —we're also color blind," Mrs. Lee said. At the end of a year's struggle with red tape, Melodee made her way into the Lee household.

Knows her limitations

Now the Lees want to help others learn the joy that they have had with thier new family. Their growing organization, with branches in 10 states, is trying to act as liaison between adoption agencies and handicapped persons who want to adopt.

"We're not fighters," Mrs. Lee said, "but we just thought we should have our rights. Jim and I have had to prove ourselves all along. We took foster children without pay in the beginning just to show we could do it."

The children fidgeted as their parents spoke but Mrs. Lee was in firm command at all times, knowing exactly where each child was and what each needed.

There is a need for adoptive parents, she said, and handicapped persons can fill that need just as well as anyone—maybe better.

"There are a lot of cases where a child might be institutionalized when a hanicapped couple could take him," she said. "The child would at least have a mother and a father instead of just a bed and a dresser."

Mrs. Lee doesn't want sympathy and she's not kidding herself about her limitations.

"It isn't the best thing in the world," she said. "Jim and I would love nothing better than to be able to see our kids. But we can't—so we have to do the best we can."

Cougar wears solar collar in DFG study

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — An 80-pound, 3-year-old mountain lion has become the first such animal in California to be fitted with a sun-powered radio telemetry collar.

The state Department of Fish and Game recently said the cougar was captured, tagged and released this weekend in a remote area of Monterey County as part of the second phase of the department's mountain lion study.

The study was launched three years ago to determine the number of lions in the state as part of an effort to develop a sound management program.

The department said that since the lion's release a signal from his collar was picked up in a flight over the area. The collar will help researchers chronicle the lion's movements and habits.

The department also said five lions had been fitted with battery-powered radio collars in the earlier phase of the study, but this cougar was the first to get a solar-powered collar.

Department biologists expect the collar to retain its power longer than the battery-powered units, which have a useful life of about six months.

Oregon sees rebirth of downtowns

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — A population expert for Oregon believes the energy crunch can, and may if it lasts long enough, bring rebirth of downtown residential areas in cities where populations have fled to suburbia.

Portland and many other cities where the automobile has been the chief means of commuting are likely to see an about face to the city central areas, said James Weiss, director of the Department of Population and Census at Portland State University.

"If the gasoline shortage continues as at present, or worsens as may be likely," he said, "then people, especially the young adults between 18 and 30, will look to living closer to their work. That, for most, means nearer the city's center."

"If we assume this energy crisis is real," he added, "then the population census of the 1980s will be unrecognizable. The flight to the suburbs will come to a screeching halt."

While admitting his "crystal ball" is somewhat hazy because of myriad reasons for population movement and the uncertainty of the gasoline crisis, Weiss believes the suburbs are not going to become instant ghost towns—at least not right away.

"There's going to continue to be a market for the four-bedroom house for some time," he said.

"We may see in the long term the rich guy back in the city and the poor guy pushed out into the dying suburbs," he said.

But those who react the best to such a huge change are in the 18-to-30 age group. And they are also the easiest to move, he said.

Between 1960 and 1970, Weiss said the city of Portland's population, auto registration and tax returns dropped, yet the number of persons between the ages of 18 and 30 increased.

What draws the young into a city like Portland? Weiss says cheap housing, higher employment rates, Portland being Oregon's largest city and a drawing point for those who live in rural or distant areas of the state.

But the biggest reason to move into or closer to the city will remain a shortage of gasoline, Weiss added. No one, he said, wants to wait on a street corner in the cold, then sit 45 minutes on a bus and not have the mobility of driving his own car. They'll move into town, ride the bus for 15 minutes and possibly save the gas to go skiing or for a trip to the coast, he said.

The shortage of gasoline in turn will skyrocket the cost of operating the automobile.

"I don't look for the auto to die," Weiss said. "It's just going to be damned expensive to operate."

"If you push current trends out, more people who have been priced out of housing will also get priced out of the auto market," he said. If gasoline once again becomes plentiful —even at $1 per gallon—Weiss said the return to the city will be slowed. But once again the poor and the aged would be priced out of the market.

If the suburbs and outlying smaller towns could be saved by mass transit, those communities would tend to cluster around their own stores and transit centers. And if large cities go back to fixed rail mass transit, development will be along those lines—like the old "star-shaped formation of railroad towns," he said.

But Weiss believes the energy crisis will usher in and stimulate a whole new lifestyle. This change is just starting and will be marked by three patterns, he said. They are:

—Much less personal mobility.

—Economics will squeeze consumption patterns.

"And it's going to be a helluva hard adjustment for some people," Weiss said.

Cut your own taxes

Contributions: keep a record

By RAY DE CRANE

No longer will your income tax return have to show a specific figure representing your contributions to your church, another amount for your contribution to March of Dimes, United Torch or a long list of other recognized charities.

This year you will be asked to provide only a single lump sum figure for all your contributions for which you have canceled checks or receipts. Although proof is not required with your return, and you report only the total amount of your cash contributions, be sure to preserve your records.

It is the only way you can support your deduction if your return is audited.

Remember that you are permitted to claim as a deduction only gifts to recognized charities. Gifts or contributions to individuals are never deserving the cause.

Keep these points in mind:

A donation of used clothing, furniture or appliances to Goodwill Industries, Salvation Army, or any other recognized charity is claimed at its fair market value. This means what you could have received for it in a sale.

Purchase of bingo, raffle, or lottery tickets are not charitable contributions. They represent wagering losses if you do not win. If you win the prize, the value of the prize is taxable income.

Checks made payable to a church to cover tuition payments (generally in the case of parochial schools) are not deductible.

If you serve as a volunteer worker for a charitable organization — such as a Red Cross volunteer or a United Torch collector — you may claim transportation expenses for such activity at the rate of six cents a mile, plus parking fees and tolls and the cost of necessary meals.

Potent new mosquito pesticide

PAL ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — A powerful new insecticde that wipes out breeding mosquitos without harming any other life will be available for large-scale use this summer, the Zoecon Corp. has announced.

The company said it has obtained permission from the Environmental Protection Agency for large-scale experimental use of Altosid SR-10, a non-toxic spray chemical, one ounce of which controls mosquitos on three acres of water.

Altosid SR-10 is a replacement for petroleum substances that have been widely used to control insect breeding on stagnant water, Zoecon said.

The company also disclosed that it has obtained approval from the EPA for experimental use of Pherocon-CM, an insect sex-attractant for control of the coddling moth, the major worm pest in apples. The product has already been used widely by growers to detect the presence of the coddling moth in apple orchards, but was not previously approved for "control" purposes.

Pherocon-CM is so powerful that one liquid ounce can be distributed on 25,000 tabs for placement in moth traps.

A spokesman said the two products are the first to be approved for wide-scale use in a series of "third generation" insecticides that effectively control pests while causing no environmental damage.

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Patricia Hearst, singled out by the Symbionese Liberation Army as a representative of capitalistic society, may be one of the least typical children of the rich.

"She's completely unpretentious," said one friend of the Hearst family. "She's the kind of girl who could be anybody's daughter, sister or granddaughter."

She's not capitalistic at all," said Menlo College professor Patrick Tobin. "Nothing that she wants has to be taken from anybody else."

Instead of following the traditional San Francisco Bay Area society role, Patricia, or "Patty" as she is called, declined the role of debutante. After a year at Menlo College, she transferred to the University of California at Berkeley— hardly an exclusive upper-crust institution. And she has even been known to hitch-hike.

The pretty, sandy-haired young woman who spent her 20th birthday Wednesday in the custody of her captors has also been described as bright, serious, sometimes quiet, poised, reserved, mature for her age, independent and fully in control.

She is the third of five daughters of Randolph A. Hearst, chairman of the board of Hearst Corp. and president of the San Francisco Examiner, and Catherine Hearst, a regent of the University of California.

She attended Santa Catalina, a private Catholic school in Monterey, as a youngster, and later went to school at the Crystal Springs School for Girls near the family home in Hillsborough.

It was at Crystal Springs that Miss Hearst met Steven Weed, 26, now her fiance, who was a mathematics teacher at the school.

She was graduated when she was 16 and then enrolled at Menlo College in the first class at the private institution in which female students were accepted.

At Menlo, Miss Hearst chalked up a straight "A" record in all subjects and won the school's "highest scholarship award."

Tom Black, assistant to the president of Menlo College, said she was "considered by her teachers to be bright, curious-minded — a delightful person." Her faculty adviser describes her as "the ideal student."

Black said Miss Hearst wasn't involved in "the mainstream of campus life' and spent quite a bit of time at home and dating Steven Weed.

Humanities professor Patrick Tobin led Patricia and six other students — all male — on a month-long trek through Italy and Greece in a credit course at the school. He remembers her as a self-reliant, strongwilled young woman with some of the characteristics of her colorful grandfather, newspaper publisher William Randolph Hearst.

"She is a real fighter. She is very much her own woman," Tobin said. "I think the trait is an inheritance from her grandfather, a man she greatly admired."

Tobin said he encouraged Patricia in her choice of an art history major at U.C. because art history "is a Hearst tradition."

He noted that the late William Randolph Hearst had "one of the best art collections in the United States—if not in the world."

Tobin said that besides his student's general determination and a sympathy to the women's liberation movement that didn't allow her to accept help from her stronger male companions on their European junket, Patricia had no strong political views that he knew about.

"I don't think she is politicized in the sense that Berkeley political science students can be," Tobin said. "She never revealed any political views to me if she had them."

Tobin also said that Patricia didn't reveal a very materialistic nature—buying only two small items on their trip while the male travelers larded their bags.

The tapes sent from her captors' hideout, Tobin said, were representative of the Patty Hearst he knows. "She s logical—the way she was on tape," he said. "Patty's not impulsive in conversation, she's deliberate—I think she's mature that way."

Barbara Warriner, 21, who knew Miss Hearst when the two attended Crystal Springs School and traveled to the Far East on a school trip, agreed that the tapes reflected her personality.

"She talks carefully and in a monotone," Miss Warriner, now a student at Pomona College, said. "She is careful about what she says. She's not particularly emotional but rather passive. I always had the feeling that she had a lot in her head that she wasn't telling people."

She felt that if anyone could hold up through the ordeal of kidnaping, it would be Patty Hearst. Miss Warriner said Patty had once described an experience that would have left any other teen-age girl greatly rattled. But Patty "had control of herself," Miss Warriner said, "so it didn't surprise me at all when I heard the tape and she was taking it so calmly and seriously.

"She doesn't lose her cool."

LOSE A POUND A DAY AND MORE

Vitamin 'E' Discovery Offers Fast Weight Loss

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Chewable (candy-like vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that guickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderous benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical test, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

WASHINGTON WORRIED — There is understandable worry in Washington about a meeting of major bauxite producing countries tentatively set for March 5 in Conakry, Guinea. Some see it as the possible beginning of an era of cartels controlling raw materials essential to industrialized nations. Here bauxite pours onto stockpile at Weipa on Australia's Gape York peninsula.

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is understandable worry in Washington about a meeting of major bauxite producing countries tentatively set for March 5 in Conakry, Guinea.

Some see it as the possible beginnng of an era of cartels controlling raw materials essential to industrialized nations, one that could set back the United States economy more than 40 years.

The meeting was called because of Arab success in jacking up oil prices and their political power.

Preparation for the bauxite meeting has been conducted amid great secrecy and some indecision. Originally, the meeting had been set for Feb. 26. Then, on Feb. 13, the Guyana government announced in Georgetown that legal officers from Australia, Jamaica, Guyana, Yugoslavia and Surinam would meet at an undisclosed site on Feb. 28 to organize a bauxite cartel. Ministers of the five governments, according to the Georgetown announcement, are tentatively scheduled to ratify the agreement March 5 at Conakry.

Different line-up

Reports from government sources in Kingston, Jamaica, confirmed the plans but gave a diffferent line-up of nations committed to the organization. Jamaican sources said Jamaica, Guyana, Surinam, Guinea, Ghana, Malawi and Malaysia had confirmed they would join, but Australia, the world's biggest bauxite producer, had not yet made up its mind. Jamaica and Guayana rank second and third behind Australia.

In a related development seen as a decks-cleaning action, the Guyana government announced it is conferring with the U.S. Reynolds Metals Co. on the company's Guyana operations. Three years ago Guyana bought out a large bauxite operation owned by Aluminum Company of Canada, leaving the smaller Reynolds subsidiary as the only private bauxite company in the country.

If bauxite, essential in production of aluminum used heavily in autos and aircraft, goes the way of oil, nations controlling other vital raw materials could hop on the cartel bandwagon. That could damage such industries as rubber, auto, aviation, steel and the country's space and defense programs, because the U.S. no longer is self sufficient in many raw materials.

The Interior Department says the U.S. imports more than 50 per cent of seven of the 13 raw materials it considers essential to industrial health. Pentagon officials say it's more like 69 of 71 materials it considers vital.

Cartel action could "at its worst roll back the U.S. to Stokeld, international trade

Three governors exploring Canadian gas possibilities

SEATTLE (UPI) — The governors of Washington, Oregon and Idaho said that they were looking into the possibility of setting up state agencies to buy Canadian gas and oil.

The idea was suggested by Premier David Barrett of British Columbia. He met with Govs. Dan Evans of Washington, Tom McCall of Oregon and Cecil Andrus of Idaho to discuss energy problems in the Pacific Northwest.

Barrett said his government preferred to deal with the states on a "people to people" basis instead of going through private oil companies.

McCall said he was considering buying extra gasoline from British Columbia through a Los Angeles broker "who says he can deliver six million gallons every month for 40 cents a gallon, dockside at Portland."

expert for the U.S. Chamber of Commerce.

He noted that the aviation industry would have to "shut down and become a ward of the government," if the U.S. could not get titanium, platinum and columbium used to manufacture strong alloy metals.

Manganese, 95 per cent imported from Brazil and Gabon, is essential to the present structure of the iron and steel industry. Pig iron and steel could not be made under present technology without manganese.

Without mentioning the bauxite countries directly, President Nixon in his annual international economic report to Congress on Feb. 6 said nations supplying important raw materials other than oil would have a tougher time raising their prices radically than the Arabs did with oil. Nixon also noted, however, that the U.S. had moved "from an era of near self sufficiency to one of rising dependence on foreign resources."

U.S. dependent

It currently has no reserves or poor-quality sources for chromium (Rhodesia, South America, Russia), nickel (Canada, Philippines, Indonesia, Dominican Republic), natural rubber (Malaysia, Liberia), manganese, titanium, columbium, platinum, strontium and tantalum. Titanium, columbium, platinum, chromium and natural rubber are imported 100 per cent, nickel 90, manganese 95.

Bauxite, copper, zinc, tin and tungsten could be mined domestically at exorbitant prices but currently are heavily imported. aBxuite, imported 92 per cent, does exist in Alabama, Arkansas and Georgia. Copper, imported 80 per cent from Chile, Peru, Zambia and Zaire, is found in Arizona, Montana, Utah, New Mexico and Michigan. Zinc, 59 per cent imported, is used in galvanized steel, home siding and roofing, household appliances, industrial machinery and cars. Canada, Russia, Australia, Peru, Japan and Mexico are its major producers.

Tin, 79 per cent imported and used for cans and in the chemical industry, comes mainly from Bolivia and Malaysia.

Tungsten, 50 per cent imported, strengthens high-speed cutting tools and is used in light filaments. It comes from Korea, South America and China.

Australia has indicated it may be represented by Senator Don Willesee, the special minister of state. Private government sources, however, doubt that Australia would go along with anything on the scale of the Arab oil ultimatuf. They noted that Australia would have difficulty in fixing export prices since its bauxite experters principally are the same people buying it overseas.

Jamaica, the number-two bauxite producer, is cautiously more aggressive about the possibility of a cartel. Its deputy prime minister, David Coores, says it would be a "tragedy' if a bauxite cartel is formed. But both Coores and Douglas Fletcher, Jamaica's ambassador to the United States, think some such arrangement is inevitable.

"The dollar has gone up; gold has gone up; wheat has gone up; oil has gone up," said Fletcher. "Why should bauxite be discriminated against?"

And that's the nitty-gritty question most countries controlling vital raw materials ask. Take Jamaica as an example. The price for its oil imports alone has soared to about $85 million, and the island exports only some $75 million. When imports of wheat and finished products from the United States, Europe and Japan are considered, Jamaica would be bankrupt without higher bauxite prices.

Actually, countries controlling bauxite, manganese and the like have less chance of imposing their wills on the Western World's industrial complexes than the Arabs. Unlike the oil situation, there is healthy competition in their marketplaces. Secondly, there are ready alternative sources if the consuming nations want to spend the money. There is no political glue that will stick the "have" nations together in a common purpose such as the Arabs have found in the conflict with the Jews. And they have less money to start with than the Arabs.

Elhadj Omar Bongo, Gabon's president, recently talked of manganese producing nations getting together and said, "We will try not to increase prices as long as others don't."

Tin prices are set by world markets and Thai officials admit they are helpless to change them. An official of Bolivia's mines minstry said this was especially true as long as the U.S. holds its strategic reserves.

In the area of chrome, a Rhodesian official noted how India tried to raise prices in the past and "buyers went elsewhere. It took India eight years to get back into the exporting business." Turkey and Russia have enough chrome, according to the experts, to keep the world going for 100 years.

Nations rich in natural rubber are reluctant to force the issue because the United States and other industrial nations could turn to synthetic rubber, as they did during World War II. This, of course, depends on oil supplies, but that situation seems to be easing.

Despite the economic brakes on such cartels, the official position is one of careful watching and analysis. It's an economic fact that underdeveloped nations hit by soaring energy costs and higher charges for manufactured imports need money to pay for them. And why not, they ask, get it from the materials western nations need just as much as they need the higherpriced Arab oil? Why shouldn't any cartels we create be just as accepted, just as successful as the Arab oil combine?

Economic and political factors may not give them the leverage that the Arabs, who sat on plenty of capital amid soaring demand for oil, had in the current energy war of nerves. But some underdeveloped nations with vital raw materials think they have the right and the might to demand and get more money for them.

The United States, for one, is watching this development.

Lester Brown, consultant to the United Nations and the U.S. Agency for International Development, said the economic result of cartels would be "convulsive.'

"From a position of being very much in command since World War II," said Brown, "the nations of capital and technology suddenly find the raw material producers taking a commanding position."

Brown believes the Unted States must change its foreign poicy to put nations controlling vital raw materials on a political pleateau with Japan and other industrial countries.

C. Fred Bergsten, former adviser to Henry A. Kissinger and senior fellow at the Brookings Institution, said recently that "tin could be so prohibitive in price that a child could not have a toy."

It also might mean that the child's parents wouldn't have airplanes to travel in or aluminum foil to wrap around leftover hamburger.

Aerosols like 'hand grenades'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A research group said today some aerosol spray products should be banned because they can explode "like a hand grenade" and also pollute the air.

The Center for Science in the Public Interest singled out spray-on oven cleaners and air fresheners as two types of aerosol products which it said should be taken off the market.

The center told a hearing by the Consumer Safety Product Commission that all aerosol products should be put under tighter government controls. The aerosol industry disputed the group's claims, saying aerosols are convenient and safe and that no cases of an explosion during normal use had been recorded for four years.

Barbara Hogan, a researcher, testified that aerosol cans can explode "like a hand grenade (and) the can becomes shrapnel and flies through the air."

"People have even bled to death from this injury," she said.

She also suggested that labels should carry warnings such as "not safe to breathe" or "ventilate the room after using"—or perhaps even a skull and cross bones. She testified for the science center.

Priest feels Idaho safe from Satan

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — Satan would have a devil of a time making headway in Idaho, according to a Jesuit priest who has fought him.

The Rev. Karl Patzelt, who said he recently performed an exorcism in the San Francisco Bay area, suggested recently that possibilities for demonic possession were limited in Idaho.

He said the mentality or general climate of the area led him to doubt Satan was very active in Idaho. The priest said he had seen no indications of spiritualism, satanism or study of the occult during his visit to the state.

Petzalt said there was a definite relationship between occult activities and the devil. He viewed voodoo, Ouija boards, tarot cards and the like as "hooks" used by the devil to snare people.

Social Security benefits for widow are obtained

My father died four months ago. My mother gets $88 a month in Social Security benefits, which nowadays is nothing.

She has never received a burial payment or a widow's Social Secuity allotment.

We have gone to the Social Security office many times with proof of my father's death. We are always told, "It takes time."

Honestly, she needs the money. I hope you can help her. —Mrs. R. S., Pomona.

We contacted the local Social Secutity office and your mother has received $848 in retroactive benefits. The lump sum death payment is expected to arrive soon.

Officials at the Pomona office said they began the procedure to obtain both benefits for your mother less than a week after your father's death.

Something went haywire and the procedure had to be initiated again after our inquiry.

I thought you might be interested in this letter from Alyeska Pipeline Service Co., based in Anchorage, Alaska. —J. P., Upland.

Addressed to you as a "Friend of Alaska," the letter warns people thinking of going to Alaska in search of pipeline construction jobs not to do so.

John F. Patterson of Alyeska estimates that 600 people go to Alaska each month because they think construction has begun. As a result, entire families find themselves stranded.

Legal and administrative hurdles remain in the way of the beginning of construction. When these hurdles are crossed, various construction companies will do the hiring.

Job-hunting people should be certain before going to Alaska that work is available, warns Patterson.

The state's unemployment rate is the highest in the nation and its winters are the most severe. Any job seeker venturing to Alaska will get a cold welcome in more ways than he expects.

The company is the Cornwall Corp., Udico Division, in Canton, Miss.

The handle broke on a can opener I had. I didn't know where or how to get another. I took a chance and wrote to the manufacturer listed on the bottom of the unit.

I requested that the part be sent c.o.d. if possible or I be told where I could get one.

In less than a month I received the new part absolutely free. Isn't that great?

If you have space, I'd like to see this in print. It's nice to read about the good ones once in a while. — Mrs. P. M., Pomona.

RELAXING Catcalls and stones greeted the photographer as he snapped pictures of the rubble wall at the north edge of the Claremont High School campus. City and school district officials are seeking solutions to complaints of students harassing citizens, littering the wall and Cahuilla Park, and vandalism to park property. City and school district staff members recommended removing the stone wall and the rubble wall below it and replacing it with a three-foot-wall and three-foot fence.

Campus capers cause complaints

By GEORGE MacLAREN
P-B Staff Writer

CLAREMONT — A three-foot high wall topped with a three-foot-high chain link fence may replace the 1,245-foot-long debris-littered rubble wall along the northern boundary of the Claremont High School campus if the city and the school district approve the recommendations of their staffs. The wall has served as a resting spot for some students.

The suggestion of the proposed wall will be considered by the city Parks and Recreation Commission Monday night. The commission, in turn, will make recommendations to the City Council before a planned joint meeting with the school board.

An informal meeting is scheduled Monday afternoon between City Councilwoman Claire McDonald, district board president William Anderson, and staff members of both agencies to discuss a possible session with students who have been accused of causing problems in the vicinity of the wall and Cahuilla Park.

The City Council has several items concerning the rubble wall on the agenda for its meeting Tuesday night.

For the past two years, the wall has become the relaxation spot of high school students before, during and after their classes.

The problem was discussed at a joint meeting of the city youth commission and Parks and Recreation Commission, but no solutions were forthcoming.

In an effort to solve the problem, the school board suggested the scchool district and the city divide the expense of paying for a grounds proctor for the remainder of the school year to work with the errant students. The council tied 2-2 on the request, and suggested a meeting between a council member, a school board member, staff members, and the youths.

Former Parks and Recreation Director Jim Higginbotham recalled that the original stone wall must date back to the 1920s. The slope south of the wall once contained stones, weeds and debris. Sometime during the city managership of Jay Michael, 1964-66, a cooperative effort between the city and the school district had Neighborhood Youth Corps members ccarry stones to the site. They were gunited into place and the result was the eight-foot-wide rubble wall.

"We preserved the wall because it was artistic," recalled Higginbotham. "There were also drainage problems along the slope."

The school district property goes six feet north of the wall. North of that is six feet of an Edison Co. easement which contains underground electrical conduits. Formerly the Edison easement was the location of 12,000-watt high lines.

Both city and school district staffs feel that the rubble wall is a major problem to both agencies, and that it is "ugly esthetically."

William Abbot and William Montgomery of the school district staff and Fred Hawkins and Tom Taylor of the city agreed after several meetings that a new wall and fence may be the suitable solution.

The wall would reduce the manpower now needed, particularly by the school district, to pick up trash at the present wall.

The fencing would eliminate the hazard to park users by keeping balls and other equipment from rolling into the parking lot driveway and possibly of keeping persons from slipping off the wall into the park.

The fencing would also prohibit park users from sitting on the wall, dangerously close to passing traffic.

A three-foot wall would not require extensive engineering and state inspections.

The wall and fence would be a considerable improvement esthetically over the present wall and still would not block the view of the mountains from the high school campus.

A possible timetable has been suggested. If accepted by the city and school district, the new wall and fence would be completed by the start of school in September.

Manny Edwards, community aide, in a memo to city human resources coordinator Pete West, reported the solution to the problem is not so difficult as "some of us" have been led to believe.

Edwards explained that a special proctor would only make the "so-called trouble-makers" react in a "very negative manner."

He suggested that a smoking area with benches "that cannot be moved" and grass be added to the Cahuilla Park area next to the wall.

He said that card games are also played in the area, "but the stakes are not high, and it is more or less something to do." Edwards urged that tables be set up for such games as cards or dominoes.

Edwards said that a meeting would be excellent for setting down ground rules, but not for preaching nor "talking down" to the youths.

He said the youths in question probably would police themselves "if they feel they have a vested interest in the area."

Valley briefs

Variety show slated at Palomares JHS

POMONA — The Palomares Junior High School PTA will sponsor an all-school variety show Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

It will involve many students displaying a variety of talents. Refreshments will be served.

Airport foe to brief Hacienda Heights group

HACIENDA HEIGHTS — Barry Schaeffer, representative from Prevent Airport Through Chino Hills (PATCH), will speak at the general meeting of the Hacienda Heights Improvement Association Monday.

The meeting will be held at Newton Junior High School at 8 p.m. All residents are invited.

Schaeffer is a director of PATCH. He said he is "deeply concerned about the issues involved in the proposed Chino Hills Airport and the effects of such an airport on the surrounding areas."

Schaeffer said that what is being proposed would be "a major airport facility, used by big jets," and that Hacienda Heights would be directly in the flight path and possibly the holding area for aircraft using it.

He said such an airport would affect the environment and the community.

New directors elected in January will be introduced. They are M. David Sterling, Earl Marshall, Vern Grimshaw, Jerry Kiose, Ruth Dryden and Rosemarie Schmidt. They will serve two-year terms.

Fireworks show tickets on sale

POMONA — Members of the Pomona Firemen's Association are calling local businesses for presale of tickets for the sixth annual 4th of July Fireworks Show at the Los Angeles County Fairgrounds.

Stan Handziak is in charge of the presale. Children's tickets may now be purchased for half price at 50 cents.

Members of the association, which sponsors the annual event, will make the telephone solicitations to area homeowners in the next few weeks.

POMONA — The Parks and Recreation Department will sponsor classes in ballroom dancing for senior adults starting Monday at 6:15 p.m. at the Palomares Park Community Center.

Ben Jacobson of Los Angeles will teach the waltz, foxtrot, Latir dances and others desired by students. The fee will be 50 cents for each evening.

Following the dance class, the weekly senior adult dance will be held from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the center. There is a $1 donation per person for the dance which includes live music.

Afro queen crowned during MSAC event

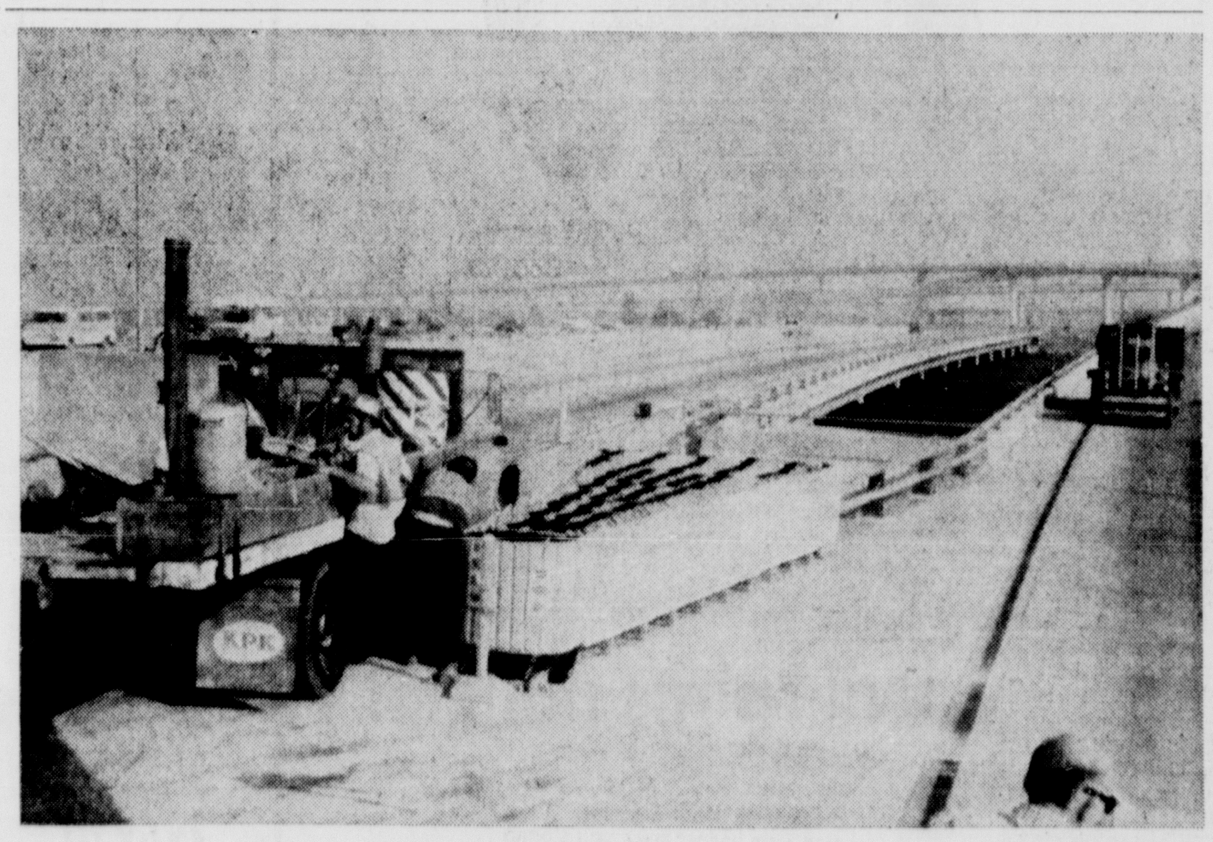
Miss Howard was chosen Friday from among five candidates during the college's Afro History Week—Phase II, sponsored by the Black Students Union and the Associated Students.



FREEWAY WATER CUSHION State workers complete a traffic attenuator which provides a water cushion for vehicles at the San Bernardino and Riverside freeways intersection. The $32,000 device absorbs a vehicle's impact.

Water cushion protects car, driver in crash

Freeway safety device: a splash hit

COLTON — A new water cushion installed where the San Bernardino and Riverside freeways intersect could spell the difference of live and death for motorists.

It is possible for a car to hit the interchange's lane divider at 70 miles an hour with only minor damage to the car and its driver, said officials of the State Department of Transportation.

This is made possible by a simple series of water-filled tubes, technically known as a hydraulic impact vehicle attenuator, placed between the car and the probable point of impact, they explained.

The $32,000 device is the first of several devices to be installed in the area.

The attenuator stops a vehicle by using water inside plastic tubes to absorb the impact. When a vehicle hits it, plugs at the top of the tubes pop out and the vehicle's forward energy is absorbed in a massive upward spurting of water.

Such a device in Los Angeles has saved several lives, including a woman whose large sedan hit the attenuater at a speed of 71 miles an hour. The woman escaped injury and her car had only a minor dent in one fender.

Wtihout the device, the car would have hit reinforced concrete, said officials.

Putting the attentuator back into condition after an accident is simple and inexpensive. You just pull back the frame and replace the water in the tubes, they explained.

Y giving lessons in karate, judo

Kempo karate classes meet on Wednesdays from 6:30 to 8 p.m. and on Saturdays from 11:30 to 1 p.m.

Judo lessons for both beginning and advanced students will be offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The class for 7-to 15-year-olds will meet from 6:30 to 8 p.m. with older students meeting from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

Both classes run for a period of five weeks. Cost is $10 for YMCA members and $15 for nonmembers.

Oil deals: every man for himself

One good thing can be said for the latest Mideast war and the subsequent Arab oil embargo: We as a nation have been disabused of a number of illusions or misconceptions, some of them rather dangerous.

Take the so-called Atlantic alliance. Had it not been for the war and the embargo, we would never have known that it is not worth the paper it is written on. The illusion that it was could have proved mighty embarrassing in the event of a showdown with the Soviet Union in Europe.

Our allies first denied landing rights to our supply planes bound for Israel, then fell all over each other in the scramble to secure special oil deals with the Arabs.

The United States, to be sure, still exercises enough leadership that it could call a conference of 13 oil-consuming nations. But the foreign ministers gave the impression of coming to Washington only reluctantly while signalling frantically behind their backs to the Arabs not to pay any attention to anything that was said at the conference.

(It would be interesting to watch the scramble were our Western European allies to be left to work out special deals with the Soviet Union, which is hungry for Western technology—an automobile factory in return for the right to exist, perhaps.)

As for the Soviet Union, it has demonstrated that "detente" has about as much real existence as NATO. Only by forbidding Israel victory in October and declaring a worldwide military alert were we able to prevent Russia from intervening directly in the war in a way that could have had frightful consequences.

Or take King Faisal of Saudi Arabia. ("Please," as a certain comedian might say.) Faisal, we're told, is at heart basically pro-American. Only he can't show it for fear of compromising his position of leadership among the Arab states.

Thus at the height of the crisis, Faisal called in American oil company executives and forbade them to supply the U.S. Navy with any oil from his sandpile. It was later revealed that the oil companies had been given multi-million-dollar tax incentives in the 1950s to ensure that in an emergency, the United States would have a source of "friendly" Mideast oil.

It's nice to know that in the crunch, one can count on one's allies and friends—to look out for themselves.

Another extinct species?

Passenger railroad service began in the United States in the early 1830s, when the "Best Friend of Charleston" huffed and puffed onto the stage of history. Within 75 years, it was a small hamlet indeed that could not be reached by rail.

Such is the sad state of decay into which the passenger train has fallen since then. Today, however, nearly a century and a half later, a publisher of travel books has found it necessary to answer such questions as, "What is it like to travel by rail?" "How do you make reservations?" "What is a roomette?" "What is a lounge car?"

The questions are answered in "Baxter's USA Train Travel Guide," subtitled, "How to Travel by Train and See the USA and Canada," which is available at major bookstores.

For the person who has seen pictures of railroad trains and has always been curious about them or the person who has heard of Amtrak but has not been quite sure just what it was or whether it really existed, and for the adventurous in spirit (or the gasoline-poor), Baxter's guide may be just the ticket.

Goldfish swallowing is long gone.
So is phone booth cramming.
The new campus caper? Cheek to cheek dancing! Actually touching and holding your partner! Wow!

The tribal twitches, as they have been called, are giving way to the rumba, fox trot, waltz, Lindy, tango, Charleston. Romance, not rock, is the new kick. "Lover Come Back to Me" has more appeal than "Yeah! Yeah! Yeah!"

Revival of the old dance forms is turning into a national craze. UC Berkeley has enlarged its ballroom dance classes to meet the demand. Other universities and colleges are following suit.

Thought for today

No art can conquer the people alone—the people are conquered by an ideal of life upheald by authority.—William Butler Yeats, Irish dramatist.

Saudis want bigger slice of pie

RIYADH — The next victim of the Arab oil squeeze will be the biggest oil producer of them all, the giant Arabian American Oil Company (Aramco).

This is the word of Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the smooth Saudi Arabian oil minister, who told me his government soon will demand a greater share of Aramco.

His government is also willing, he told me, to increase production to meet the world's oil needs. The Saudis are under pressure to boost production one million barrels a day each year through the rest of the 1970s.

After the Arab oil embargo, the daily output was cut back from last year's nine-million-barrel peak. Yamani told me it is now back up to 8.6 million barrels and could reach 10 million barrels next year.

There is plenty of petroleum, he said, under the hot Saudi sands. The proven reserves are estimated over 60 billion barrels and he believes the available supply could be doubled by exploration.

The abundance of petroleum in Saudi Arabia adds emphasis to my own findings that there is no real shortage under the ground. There is a shortage, apparently, of refined petroleum products. This has been caused by a tightening of refinery capacity.

Saudi Arabia now owns 25 per cent of the great Aramco complex in partnership with Exxon, Mobil, Texaco and Standard of California. Yamani would not say how large a share he will seek. But he mentioned the example of Kuwait, which recently took over 60 per cent of Gulf Oil's operation in that country.

Other sources close to Yamani suggested that the Saudis may seize full, 100 per cent control of Aramco. In return, the consortium would be paid for their assets and would be offered Saudi oil at a discount.

The takeover will come as no surprise to Aramco, whose secret papers have been forecasting the move for months. In fact, the corporate brass had expected to sit down with Yamani this month to discuss the "restructuring" of Aramco.

Yamani told me he isn't ready to negotiate with Aramco officials just now, but he implied that it won't be long.

As czar of the world's largest oil reserves, Yamani wields tremendous economic power. Oil barons from Texas to Tokyo have been flying into this sandy, remote Saudi capital to consult with him.

He is as disarming as he is powerful, with a soft voice, soulful eyes and a gentle manner. In his persuasive way, he told me of Saudi Arabia's willingness to ease the world's oil hardships. Not only will his government try to relieve the shortages, he said, but will exert its influence to roll back prices.

I challenged the 20-million-barrel daily output he had promised in public statements. As evidence, I showed him a secret corporate document, which declares:

"Severe technical problems have been encountered by Aramco in the Saudi Arabia fields . . . (in 1973), production was increased from 6.5 million barrels-day to 9 million barrels-day to meet increasing U.S. demands.

"The reservoir pressures fluctuated so greatly that corporate engineers now estimate production will be stabilized at no more than 7.5 million barrels-day, far below the 20 million barrels-day projection."

Yamani expressed quiet surprise but intense interest in the Aramco papers. He said his technical experts keep close watch on Aramco's production. The alleged "severe technical problems" couldn't have developed, he felt sure, without his knowledge.

He agreed it will take a few years to reach the 20-million-barrel goal. It will also require a huge investment. Development of the Saudi fields surpassed $600 million last year and could reach $1 billion a year, he said.

Despite the Arab oil embargo, meanwhile, Saudi production has gone steadily up. The cutback during the Arab-Israeli war last October merely reduced the output from nine million to 7.5 million barrels daily. This was still one million barrels a day more oil than came out of Saudi Arabia at the height of its production a year earlier.

U.S. oil companies, meanwhile, have misinformed the government about the true amount of oil in their reserves. Sources on the inside have told me that the figures submitted to the government consistently have understated the amount of available oil.

Additional billions of barrels could also be extracted economically from the oil sands at today's market price. The real issue, in other words, is not supply but price. The oil companies can come up with plenty of oil when the price is right.

There is a legitimate shortage, apparently, of refining capacity. But this, too, is the fault of the oil companies. They have built no refineries in the United States since 1969.

Refineries were neglected because the profits were low. But now that refineries are vitally needed, the cost of building them has doubled. In the end, of course, this will be added to the Pike's Peak cost of petroleum products.

FOOTNOTE: Oil industry spokesmen admit they underestimated oil demands and, therefore, didn't gear up for it. They deny charges that they deliberately created the shortage to boost prices and profits.

Evil spirits not Hollywood tradition

It's amusing when TV's Flip Wilson grins and says, "The devil made me do that!" It's terrifying when the child victim in the movie, "The Exorcist," screams, "The devil made me . . ."

The demonic possession of humans is not something Hollywood invented. It is quite as old as the Old Testament.

Jesus exorcized demons. Clergymen of the 1970s, Catholic and Protestant, can relate experiences very similar to those chronicled in the book and shown with such ghastly realism in the movie.

The fallibility of the movie rating system is brought sharply into focus when a naked human breast keeps children out while across the street they are admitted in to see the gangrenous soul of a little girl.

In every city where "The Exorcist" has been shown, some youngsters have fled the theater screaming — many into hospitals; some are under restraint as a result of that terrifying graphical portrayal of demon possession.

The Church of England has 20 priests who carry out exorcist rites. The Rev. Mr. Neil-Smith has performed 2,000 exorcism in the last five years.

The vicar concedes that one in 20 who seek his help is suffering from a too-vivid imagination, but the other 19 he considers to be genuinely possessed by evil spirits.

Once an ex-priest came to him, said he had been dabbling in "black magic" and asked the vicar to perform the ceremony of exorcism.

"As I raised my hands above his head," the vicar says, "I felt the spirit being transferred from the ex-priest to me. It was a strange, terrifying experience."

He was then forced to seek help from another Anglican clergyman before he was "freed" from the "possessor."

The vicar is a part-time crusader against involvement of young Britons in "black magic." He says they must be warned of dangers; that if you invite Satan to enter your life and take over your body he will.

The Church of England researched demon possession as recently as the 1960s and, after eight years of diligent study, recommended as recently as 1972 that every diocesan bishop should appoint a priest as diocesan exorcist.

San Francisco's Father Karl Patzelt has described a family of husband, wife and 2-year-old son who struggled with Satan for 29 days last fall — a situation with many similarities to those subsequently included in the movie — until the last of 14 ancient Christian rites finally "set them free."

But they offer no explanation for the levitation involved and other manifestations of a supernatural presence which responsible clergymen report.

Most of the world's religions assume that God and the Devil struggle for degrees of possession of each of us until each of us surrenders himself to the will and the ways of one or the other.

Gossip for today

Most anthropologists agree that man has inhabited this earth upwards of 100,000 years. And yet it has been less than 100 years since Edison demonstrated the electric incandescent light—since Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone—since the gasoline powered internal combustion engine was first used to propel an automobile. — It was less than 80 years ago that the Wright Brothers showed us how to fly—that Marconi sent the first wireless message. —Only about 50 years that we have enjoyed radio—and less than 30 years that the average American home has had television.—So why worry about energy shortages? After all, the human race was able to survive for 99,900 years without all those goodies—and if we did it once we can certainly do it again.

Graft, favoritism charged

L. V. candidate forum lively

By BOB NAGEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — Six candidates for City Council seats told a sparsely populated public forum that if they are elected to office March 5, they'll make La Verne a better place in which to live.

There are three vacancies.

The forum was arranged by the chamber of commerce and the junior chamber, but the 60 persons who attended Friday night barely filled a third of La Fetra Hall in La Verne College.

The presentations were enlivened by Mrs. Danita Peterson, one of the three mayoral candidates, who accused the present council of "graft and favoritism" and charged that the council has been making "agreements behind closed doors with Lewis Homes to make the area residential."

Although she said she would go into more details later, she never did. All of the incumbents running for office denied her accusations after the meeting.

Although the other two candidates for mayor, incumbent Mike Morales and Councilman Harrison Sanborn, stood pretty much on their records in the council, each presented a new issue in the campaign.

Sanborn attacked a proposal by the city staff to build a new $265,000 city hall. He contended that such a project would cost at least twice as much as estimated. He suggested, instead, the city look at the possibility of leasing or buying an existing office building.

He also criticized the money the city was spending on its data processing and on consulting fees for a city engineer.

Sanborn said if he is elected mayor, he will establish regular hours twice a week during which he and concerned citizens "could talk face to face."

Morales, in turn, attacked Sanborn for running for mayor without resigning his council seat which still has two years to run. "Councilman Sanborn has nothing to lose," he charged. "If he doesn't make it March 5, he can go back to the council."

Morales also took issues with the two-year mayoral term which the voters approved two years ago, contending that it was not enough time to do a good job. He said if he is elected, he would work toward a four-year term for mayor.

Mrs. Peterson, in addition to her graft charges, accused the council of favoring developers and "ignoring the little people." She charged that the "only way we can protect ourselves from this council is to get a new mayor and council and start over fresh."

Mrs. Carlina Griffiths, one of the candidates running for the two vacant council seats, also criticized the present council for permitting "incompatible developments" in the city.

She charged that the council has been allowing builders to "fill up every available lot, and then leave. They don't have to live here; we do. Is it fair to permit such excessive building when we're not sure we can supply the energy for the new homes?"

Incumbent Councilman Frank Johnson gave a low key presentation. He said the city's growth during his 12 years in office went from 6,000 to 16,000 persons, and pointed out that the city's tax rate has gone up only 21 per cent.

He said experience was very important for a councilman to be effective.

Another quiet presentation was made by council aspirant D. Allan Mackay, who said if he is elected, he will work toward the establishment of open forums at which "we could report our progress to the people and we could listen to their ideas. There is a lot to be said for the Town Hall approach to city government."

He said such a forum could get people on the north side and the south-side of Foothill Boulevard to "talk to each other and to know each other."

BOYS HAVE THEIR DAY IN COURT

Quimby backing drive for PUC to control oil firms

Assemblyman John P. Quimby, D-72nd District, has announced his support of an initiative petition drive which would place California's oil industry under State Public Utilities Commission regulation.

"I've always felt that the initiative process should be used only when the legislature fails to act on critical problems," Quimby declared, "and I now think we're faced by such a situation.

"There have been several legislative attempts to bring the petroleum industry under PUC control, but all such attempts have failed. Only last week such legislation was killed in a Senate committee."

Quimby said the objective of the initiative is not to harm the oil companies, but only to prevent them from making unreasonable profits at the expense of the public.

"I don't foresee any great damage to the oil industry by it coming under PUC regulations," Quimby noted. "The telephone and electric companies and other utilities have long been regulated by the PUC, and they seem to be doing quite well."

Quimby explained that under the proposed initiative, all phases of the oil industry in California, including drilling, refining, shipping and retailing, would be placed within the PUC jurisdiction.

It will require at least 325,504 valid signatures to qualify the initiative for the November general election.

Rodney to lead parade for Ontario 500 event

ONTARIO Television and recording celebrity Rodney Allen Rippey will lead the Ontario 500 Festival Association "Wheels Make the World Go Round" parade on March 9.

Rodney will act as grand marshal of the event which travels down Euclid Avenue and features bands, other celebrities and California 500 drivers. The parade will start at Fifth Street at 10 a.m. and disband at B Street.

Immediately following the parade the finals of the "Mini 500" soap box car race will be held between D and F streets in Ontario.

On March 8 the Celebrity-Drivers' golf gournament will be held.

The three events are sponsored by the Festival Association and precede the running of the California 500 for championship cars at Onatrio Motor Speedway on March 10. All events are open to the public.

Cox resigns from water district post

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Municipal Water District has accepted with regrets the resignation of former Mayor Arthur H. Cox as a member of the board. He is moving to Auburn.

Cox was president of the board and director for Pomona Division 1 of the PVMWD. Currier H. Thatcher, co-owner of Allied Dental Laboratories, was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Cox, ending in January of 1975.

Cox has accepted the position of executive vice president of the Heart of California Corp. in Auburn.

"I am especially sorry to be leaving the district as we approach the coming major expansion projects that are so very important to all the agencies and people of the Pomona Valley Municipal Water District. These are projects we have labored hard on the last two years," Cox said in his letter of resignation.

Thatcher is a member of the Pomona Host Lions, Elks Lodge, Toast Masters, serves on the boards of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, LeRoy Boys' Home, and the YMCA.

He and his wife, Jean, and four daughters live at 764 Altura Court.

Mariner 10 model displayed at college

CLAREMONT — A model of Mariner 10, the spacecraft now zooming toward the planet Mercury for a rendezvous on March 29, can be seen at Harvey Mudd College any day during library hours for the next couple of weeks.

Walnut school bond backers to hold community sessions

WALNUT — Backers of the Walnut School District's March 5 bond election are hosting 13 coffee gatherings this week to air pros and cons of the issue.

In asking voters to approve the $5 million bond issue, the district seeks to finance a five-year construction program to match a rising student population. The coffee meetings will be held in homes around the district's neighborhoods under the sponsorship of Make Room for Kids, a pro-bond issue campaign committee.

Monday two meetings are scheduled in the Vejar school area, both beginning at 8 p.m. One will be held at the home of Dave and Melba Olson, 290 MacAlester Drive, and the other at the D. J. Houlihan residence, 3439 Hilltonia St., West Covina.

Voters in the Walnut School area can attend two morning sessions Tuesday, or an evening meeting Wednesday. At 10 a.m. a gathering will be held at the home of Marge Jeffreys, 1034 Capen Ave., while another at the same hour will be hosted by Marlena Eastman, 20508 Calpet Drive. Wednesday's session at 8 p.m. is at the residence of Pinky Reynolds, 20850 Lycoming St.

For those living in the Collegewood area, meetings will be held Thursday and Friday evenings. The Collegewood Community Club has a program slated at Collegewood Elementary School's multipurpose room at 7:30 p.m., while Friday the gathering starts at 8 p.m. in the home of Allen and Lilly Thompson, 20324 San Gabriel Valley Drive.

In The Hills tract in Diamond Bar, Lee and Joan Basson begin the week's activity with a gathering Monday at 8 p.m. They reside at 1674 Aspen Grove Drive. Thursday morning Sonja Higgins, 1308 Desert Willow Lane, hosts a 10 o'clock session.

Carole Harrara, 20909 Ambushers St., will hold a 7:30 p.m. meeting Tuesday for the Castle Rock School area.

Three meetings are slated in the Evergreen School vicinity. Wednesday one will begin at 10 a.m. at the home of Barbara Amend, 2009 Chestnut Creek Road, while another has been set for 8 p.m. in the residence of Jane and Rene Gagnon, 1847 Tintah Drive. Another will take place Thursday at 8 p.m., hosted by Ellie Stanton, 2660 Crooked Creek Drive.

Fourteen speakers have been lined up for the meetings, including the entire district Board of Trustees and most of its top administrators. Citizens contributing their time to speak at the meetings include Berge Minasian, City Manager Andy Lazzaretto, Pat Schaarsmith and Gretchen Sullivan.

Barbara Yoder, coordinator of the coffee meetings, says any voter is welcome at the discussions, whether or not the voter favors or opposes the bond issue.

Ganesha High ends Backwards Week spiritedly

By MELINDA ROBERTS
Ganesha Reporter

POMONA — "There's No Business Like Show Business" was the theme of Ganesha High School's Backwards Week which ended with a backwards dance in the student center at Mt. San Antonio College in Walnut.

Backwards Week, sponsored by Ganesha's Z Club started Tuesday with a tug-of-war between the Ushers and the Z Club. The Z Club won.

There were skits and songs at the backwards rally Friday to promote spirit for the Ganesha-Garey game that night. Boys in the court were announced at the rally.

Wilson was crowned at the dance.

Pomona councilmen to hear plea on drive-in restrictions

POMONA — The City Council Monday night will hear an appeal on conditions imposed by the Planning Commission in granting a conditional use permit for the conversion of an existing gas station into a drive-in dairy.

After a lengthy hearing Jan. 9, the commission granted the permit 6-1 subject to 12 conditions and also voted against allowing the sale of beer and wine.

Mikhail is appealing the commission's actions on the sale of wine and beer and on four of the conditions.

Other matters included in the agenda for the council's 8 p.m. meeting are:

—Resolution setting a public hearing on changes to city ordinance to extend the period given to Nation Wide Cablevision Inc. for construction of a cable television system.

—Three resolutions authorizing the mayor to sign agreement with Lawrence Halprin and Associates, with Gerhard N. Rostvold for planning services, with Charles R. Stapleton for planning services.

—Resolution declaring as public nuisance and ordering abatement of all weeds growing upon streets, sidewalks or private property.

—Recommendation from Parks and Recreation Commission approving a request for the removal of two camphor trees from the parkway in front of a residence at 358 E. Pasadena St.

—Resolutions from the Redevelopment Commission supporting the expansion of runways at Ontario International Airport and stressing the importance of a major transportation terminal in Pomona as part of the Rapid Transit District's master plan.

—Resignation of G. C. Fowler Jr. from the Community Life Commission.

Pomonan back after year there

By KEN SWART
Pomona Reporter

POMONA — Carol Rusler, now a senior at Pomona High School, is back after spending almost a year in Brazil as an American Field Service exchange student.

Carol says she became quite a celebrity in Americana and was popular both in school and in the community. Before she left, Carol was given a statue of the Pomona Goddess by the City Council. While in Brazil, Carol met Americana Mayor Ralph Biasi and presented him with the statue as a goodwill gesture.

Mayor Biasi returned the compliment by presenting Carol with a Brazilian rose quartz ashtray. This gift was given to Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire.

While in Americana, Carol continued her high school education in Presidente Kennedy School. There Carol studied Portuguese, mathematics, biological sciences, psychology, social studies, moral and civic education, drawing, English and physical education. Carol said she liked the school because she learned so much about Brazil and the Portuguese language. She was also glad to be studying the culture with students her own age.

Carol liked the consistently used module system because, although she was studying nine subjects at one time, she participated in only five of the nine each day. Carol disliked, however, the relationship between the teachers and the students, the large class size (45-50 students), and the lack of books. Notes, information and assignments had to be constantly copied from a blackboard.

This Brazilian school was very different from Pomona schools because student government was almost nonexistent and not very influential. Also, few activities were sponsored by the Brazilian school itself.

There were no sports leagues in Americana although tournaments were held occasionally. Carol became a soccer fan since soccer is the main sport of Brazil. Handball, basketball and baseball are also played.

Veysey proposes bill forcing IRS to speed up tax refund

Congressman Victor V. Veysey, R-43 Dist., has introduced legislation intended to force the Internal Revenue Service to speed payment of income tax refunds, if a taxpayer's return is filed by March 1.

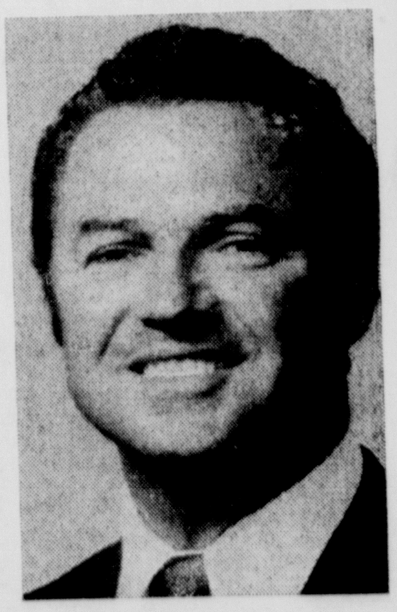
This legislation would require that the IRS pay interest to all such taxpayers on refunds not paid within 30 days after filing.

"Last year, millions of taxpayers were checking their mailboxes every day for months before they finally received their refunds. And the problem was even more serious than normal last year because of the fact that refunds were far larger than ever before. The average refund due in 1973 was $100 greater than it was in 1972," Veysey said.

"Today, if a taxpayer filed his return on Feb. 1, the Internal Revenue Service can sit on it for a full four months and pay him back nothing. I believe that to allow that to happen is absurd, and totally unjust.

"There is no mercy, on the other hand, if a taxpayer makes an honest mistake and underpays his taxes, of if a taxpayer files late. The IRS wants the full interest paid to the penny, and they charge him for every day.

"My bill would simply force the IRS to comply with the same ground rules now demanded from the public. It would prevent the government from holding a taxpayer's money without paying a fair interest. It is high time that equity is established."



GARY WEST of General Telephone Co. will speak Tuesday at a meeting of the Mt. Baldy Chapter of the California Credit Union League. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at Orlando's Restaurant, Pomona. West's speech will be entitled "See Yourself as Others Hear you." He is the education services representative for the utility.

GLACAA fue formada con el fin de coordinar proyectos que ayuden a solucionar los problemas de los pobres en el vasto condado.

Spanish is as easy as "A, B, Si!"

Beginners in the study of the Spanish language will find comfort in learning that every letter retains its general pronuuciation regardless of position and syllabication.

An A is "ah", an E is "ay," and I is "ee," an O is "oh" and U is "oo." So the popular phrase, "Buenos Dias is pronounced "boo-ay-nos dee-ash."

The vowels are smoothly run together and the language is melodious and easily understood.

The Spanish alphabet has 28 letters, dropping out K and W and adding a CH, double LL, N with tilde over it and a double R. (Although in almost every Spanish dictionary you will find one word listed between V and X — "Whiskey.")

The RR has a rolling sound and the LL is pronounced like an L-Y together. There is also the N-Y sound to N (with tilde over it) as in the word canyon, while CH has a soft character unlike the German.

Other consonants' sounds that vary from the English but are fundamental in Spanish are the similarity between B and V, the vigorous sounding of T, and the slight "th" sound to a D before an R or vowel.

An H in Spanish is silent and the J is more an aspirated H. And a G or C assumes its strenght from the following major or minor vowel. . soft before an E or I and hard before an A or O.

Spanish syllable stress is equally static as words ending in vowels, N or S are accented on next to last syllables. All others are accented on the last section or bear a written accent mark to designate stress.

Buena Suerte, estudiantes.

Consejo dado en como tratar con los 'bullies'

Por RAFAEL ESTUPINIAN
Director
Fremont Junior High

Al reflejar sobre el comienzo de mi segundo ano como director de escuelas en esta, nuestra communidad, encuentro preciso expresar mi agradecimiento por el apoyo de mis amigos, vecinos de la comunidad, mexico-americanos y hispano-parlantes.

A la misma vez, siento la tentacion de precisar sobre algunos problemas que existen en nuestra comunidad academica y los cuales impiden el progreso y el exito de una cantidad considerable de nuestros alumnos e hijos.

El que se destaca como sobresaliente enrte todos ellos, es el problema de personas quienes abusan de la seguridad fisica de otros jovenes y quienes por el hecho de que nadie puede acusarles directamente o identificaries, "salen con la suya," como decimos en nuestra idioma nativo.

Queda entendido que el bienestar de todos nosotros resta en poder hacer algo, tomar acciones, definitivas para atren las escuelas.

Quizas les esombre a alrestar este tipo de ambienta gunos de nuestros padres, pero si existen en nuestra comunidad otros jovenes que abiertamente tratan de intimidar por amenaza, tratan de quitarles los centavitos a los chamacos mas jovenes que ellos, y quienes se prezentan cotidianamente como mas que molestia y picardia, porque aunque parezcan no ser acciones graves en efecto representan el comienzo de acciones criminales.

Se espera que, de vez en cuando, recibamos queja de algunos ustedes, los padres, cuando ocurra uno de estos incidentes.

Generalmente, los administradores de escuela pueden asegurar el vigilo de la juventud durante el dia escolar, pero esto solo con la cooperacion complete de una comunidad unida.

A lo que me refiero es que, el miedo de la venganza, o el temor que la situacion se ponga peor, a veces nos detiene en decir los nombres de aquellos individuos, los culpables.

Y por que existe esta psicologia, bastante natural, efectivamente, resultamos protegiendo a los que nos danan. La tarea de nosotros sus servidores y administradores de escuela se hace mas dificil y nos enfrentamos con la imposibilidad de tomar acciones punitivas o disciplinarias.

La mayoria de la gente no sabe lo que la experiencia nos ha ensenado a nosotros — que en cuanto se enteren los abusivos, que los adultos, y sobre todo la policia, se da cuenea de esto, entonces casi milagrosamente, el problema se desvanece.

Por esta razon quisiera pedirles a mis amigos, vecinos, compatriotas, y padres de mis alumnos, que sin la ayuda de ustedes no realizaremos una disciplina efectiva en las escuelas. Y tambien por esto les ruego que tomen ustedes estas pequenas acciones que en el pasado, si han resultado efectivas:

—Si esto ocurra despues del horario normal de la escuela, acuerdense que nosotros estamos en la escuela hasta las 4 y media de la tarde y siempre hay alguien quien pueda hablar espanol (En la Fremont son el Sr. Juan Gutierrez, el Sr. Antonio DeLa-Paz, y su servidor, el Sr. Estupinian).

—Lo mejor es hacer un reporte inmediato a las autoriadades de la policia, pero si por pena de no saber el ingles no quieran, los administradores de escuela, todos estamos dispuentos a ayudarles en esto.

6 2 2 —Lo principal es no tener miedo y aconsejarles a sus hijos que no tengan miedo tampoco. Los abusivos (bullies, como les llamen en ingles), se nutren y aumentan en sus males si se dan cuento que uno les tiene miedo. Al cambio, una comunidad unida representa una fuerza formidable, la cual puede hacer muchisimo.

Termino en advertirles, que nosotros, sus servidores, estamos dispuestos a servirles y nos encontramos aqui para ofrecer nuestras facilidades y tiempo para el bienestar de la comunidad.

Tambien nada mas hay que levantar el telefono a venir personalmente a la esuela, y si no podamos resolver todo, haremos todo esfuerzo para servir como ayuda.

Lo que les aseguro, es que hay mucho poder en una comunidad, instruida, alerta y lista para atacar juntos nuestros problemas.

Disturbios sacuden Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Un joven miembro del partido peronista del ala derecha murio 18 de febrero a consecuencia de una explosion mientras caminaba por la calle, dicho joven traia una bomba en su portafolio, segun informaciones policiacas.

La explosion lesiono tres personas — dos personas que estaban cerca de un puesto de periodicos y un mesero que pasaba en ese memento.

Giovenco habia atendido una junta de lideres de la juventud unos dias antes, junta a la que asistio el Presidente Juan D. Peron, quien dijo entonces que su revolucion seria "sin golpes ni bombas."

Una organizacion de guerrillas izquierdistas anuncio el dia 18 de este mes que le habian perdonado la vida a un coronel del ejercito que fue secuestrado porque la organizacion esta satisfecha con la declaracion del ejercito argentino de no saber el paradero de dos camaradas.

Una comunicacion del Ejercito Revolucionario Popular citado en el periodico Cronica dijo que el grupo de guerrillas estaba "satisfecho con la informacion del ejercito hecha publica por medio de la prensa," y no ejecutara al rehen, Col. Jorge Ibarzabal.

EL ERP, en una conferencia clandestina del dia 14 de este mes, dio al ejercito 48 horas para decir si habia arrestado a dos guerrilleros durante el ataque a una guarnicion del ejercito el dia 19 de enero pasado, o ellos ejecutarian al Coronel Ibarzabal.

Ibarzabal fue secuestrado en la misma incursion a la guarnicion Azul en la que el comandante de la base, su esposa, un soldado y un guerrillero fueron muertos.

Desde el dia 24 de septiembre pasado, el Ejercito Revolucionario Popular fue puesto fuera de la ley por lo que se considera estar en guerra con el gobierno del Presidente Peron.

Dear Jim:

I am enclosing your 1973 Federal and State Income Tax returns and accompanying financial statements.

I must bring to your attention the Balance Sheet for the period ending January 31, 1974:

Your merchandise inventory is far too high for you to maintain a satisfactory balance of cash on hand!

In order to keep your selling prices as low as they have been in the past and as they are now, you must raise additional cash to continue taking advantage of the manufacturers' discounts. In addition, you must reduce your inventory drastically before March 1st in order to avoid paying enormous property taxes on the furniture.

I cannot over-emphasize the need for you to lower your inventory and to raise cash.

Yours sincerely

Joseph J. Chicarelli

THROUGH THE SPECTRUM — The Chamber Singers and University Chorus of Cal State Los Angeles will present their winter concert in the Campus Music Hall at 4 p.m. March 10, admission free · · · an exhibition of Japanese posters is being held at the Riverside County Art & Cultural Center in Cherry Valley . . . the Mathison Ensemble will give a free concert at the county Natural History Museum, Exposition Park, Los Angeles, at 2:30 this afternoon . . . Los Angeles is having an orgy of ballet—the American Ballet Theater now at the Pavilion, the San Francisco Ballet at the Ahmanson next month, and the National Ballett of Canada (with Rudolf Nureyev) at the Shrine in April.

FEATURED ARTIST — Julie Gregory, Laguna Beach artist, will give a demonstration of oil painting at a meeting of the Chino Art Association at the Chino Community Building at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. The former resident of Hawaii will donate the painting to the association.

Asian art exhibit due at Honnold

CLAREMONT — The Dorothy Adler Routh Collection of Asian Art will go on exhibit next Sunday in the Founders Room of Honnold Library of the Claremont Colleges.

Mrs. Routh of Los Angeles recently gave Scripps College the collection of antique oriental cloisonne and funds to maintain it. The cloisonne will be displayed in the Honnold Founders Room on loan from Scripps.

The public is invited to view the Collection from 2 to 5 p.m. next Sunday.

The collection contains 40 select pieces of Chinese cloisonne dating from 1400 to the present as well as more recent Japanese cloisonne. Pieces range from a miniature altar set to a six-foot place vase. Many are in animal forms — horses, dragons, elephants, pandas, rabbits, water buffalos and birds.

Cloisonne begins with a copper vessel or sculpture to which copper wires (cloisons) are attached. The spaces are filled with colored enamel, a ground-glass paste that revitrifies when fired in a kiln. Generally the pieces are fired several times to achieve the desired effect.

'An evening of Music' planned at Cal Poly

POMONA — The teachers' section of the Musicians' Club of Pomona Valley will present "An Evening of Music" in Room 101 of the Cal Poly music center at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Taking part will be Gerhard Singer, cellist, and the Cal Poly Trio, made up of Kathreen Prout, piano; Alice Corbeil, violin, and James Mooney, clarinet.

The program will consist of Milhaud's Suite for Violin, Clarinet and Piano by the Cal Poly Trio; J. S. Bach's Suite in C Major for Cello by Singer, and Fuleihan's Sonata No. 1 by Mrs. Prout.

Singer holds a Ph. D. in musicology from USC. He played the French horn with the Indianapolis Symphony, and the cello and French horn with the Louisiana State University Symphony. He taught instrumental music for the Pomona Unified School District for 18 years.

Miss Corbeil studied voice with Otto Morando and violin with Vera Barstow. She attended Mount Saint Mary's College, UCLA and the Claremont Graduate School. She taught music in the Claremont school district for 26 years before retiring in 1972. She now teaches at Cal Poly.

Mrs. Prout earned her bachelor's degree in music at the University of the Pacific and her master's degree at Indiana University. She taught piano and theory at Indiana Uviversity and was organist and pianist for a Stockton radio station for several years. She teaches piano and music for elementary teachers at Cal Poly and is choir director at the Pomona Presbyterian Church.

Mooney is also on the music staff of Cal Poly. He holds a bachelor's degree from Arizona State University and a doctorate from Brigham Young University. He was soloist with the Phoenix Symphony Orchestra for 18 years. He teaches woodwinds and musicology at Cal Poly and also conducts the university orchestra.

Laguna artist Chino guest

CHINO — Laguna Beach artist Julie Gregory will give a demonstration of oil painting at a meeting of the Chino Art Association at the Chino Community Building at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Miss Gregory was a resident of Hawaii for 15 years and one of the state's foremost marine painters. She now has a studio and gallery in Laguna Beach. She has had numerous shows in both Hawaii and California.

Her finished painting will be donated to the association.

Postmen's hazards

Mailmen in the United States have difficulty with dogs, but things could be worse — Egyptian mailmen complain of being nipped by camels, postmen in Brazil have been bitten by jaguars, a Tongan Island letter carrier was killed by a shark and Afghanistan had to suspend rural deliveries because leopeards ate the mailmen.

Poets read works today

GLENDORA — Dorothy Turnour of Montclair will be one of the poets reading their works in a program at a meeting of the Allied Arts Council of San Gabriel Valley this afternoon.

The meeting will be held in the Glendora Gallery of the Warshauer Ballet Arts Academy, 165 N. Glendora Ave., at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Turnour has written and published many poems and has won prizes in contests. She is a member of the California Federation of Chaparral Poets, the Pomona Valley Writers, the New York Poetry Society and the California Poetry Society.

Mexican-American artists to show work at museum

LOS ANGELES — An exhibition of work by four Mexican-American artists goes on view Tuesday in the Hammer Wing of the county Museum of Art.

The exhibition, titled "Los Four," includes over 100 works in various media by Charles Almaraz, Robert de la Rocha, Gilbert Lujan and Frank Romero. Although each artist has a distinctive style, for the past two years they have formed a close association, exchanging ideas and working together to evolve a style and subject matter that manifests the culture specific to the Southern California Mexican-American.

Central to the group's search for identity is the degree to which it can express the joy and humor of Mexican-American life while a struggle for dignity and equality continues. According to Almaraz, the principle behind the group's solidarity is brotherhood (carnalismo) and its driving force is cultural survival.

Highlights of the exhibition include a section of a '52 Chevy "low-rider," illustrative of the distinctive Mexican-American approach to customizing and decorating cars, and an enduring symbol of Mexican-American youth. Also included in the exhibition is a large cooperative mural measuring 10 by 32 feet incorporating hearts, skulls and other symbols peculiar to Mexican-American graffiti. The mural is executed in scrawling "garavato" style reminiscent of boyhood murals painted in the streets of East Los Angeles.

Another important work is a "Pyramid Altar" assembled by Lujan. The "altar" incorporates objects belonging to all the artists, religious artifacts, or mundane objects used in daily home life and particularly representative of Mexican-American comunity culture.

In addition to the collaborative pieces, each artist is represented in the exhibition by approximately 30 works expressive of his personal style and involvement with Mexican-American culture. Almaraz often works directly in the tradition of "protest art" making large political banners as well as smaller more delicate works. Romero and De la Rocha each incorporate the particular symbols of Mexican-American graffiti art in their rich, complex drawings. Lujan is more preoccupied with reaching back into the past and transforming ancient symbols into expressions of contemporary social needs.

Art expert to talk on Rembrandt

CLAREMONT — Wolfgang Stechow, visiting professor of art at UCLA and an authority on 17th Century Dutch painting, will talk on "Rembrandt and the Old Testament" in Galileo Hall-McAgister at Harvey Mudd College at 11 a.m. Tuesday.

The lecture is sponsored by the college and the art galleries of the Claremont Colleges. It is open to the public without charge.

Stechow, professor emeritus of Oberlin College, is the author of books on Van Ruysdael, Breughel and Rubens. His "Dutch Landscape Painting of the 17th Century" is the standard work in the field.

Just wasn't Mary's day

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UPI) — Wednesday was a bad day for Mary Varner, 35, of Pine Bank.

She had to go to the hospital here to visit a friend. To make the 20-mile trip from her home southwest of here she borrowed an old car.

After her visit, she went to the hospital parking lot where she left the borrowed auto. As she began to drive out of her parking spot, the brakes failed on the car.

By the time she had gotten the car stopped six other cars in the parking lot were damaged. She then decided to back up. Bang, she backed into two more cars.

For Sunday, Feb. 24

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is not a good day to rehash an old issue you and your mate have disagreed on before. Let the matter rest.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You don't work very well in team efforts today. If something needs doing, better try to do it alone.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) One of your friends has a grudge against another mutual friend. You may be drawn into this awkward situation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Something you didn't want someone else to know about you is likely to surface today. Be on guard.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try not to decide an issue of importance in anger. You'll have to stand by your words. It will later require some unwinding.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you loan anything today be sure the other party knows exactly when you expect it returned and in what condition.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Avoid companions who insist upon having their own way. Chances are they'll want to do just the opposite of what you want to do.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone to whom you'll be lending a helping hand may try to dump their full problem in your lap.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are likely to concentrate a trifle too hard on enjoying yourself today. Be moderate, not overindulgent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't be so impressed by what others may have that you lack. You wouldn't trade places if you could.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) In discussions today, if you run into one who opposes your ideas, back off a bit. This person has a chip on his shoulder.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Old obligations unattended have a way of popping up at the wrong time. One may do just that today.

your birthday February 24

Your interest will be concentrated this year in accumulating more of the material things that life has to offer. Others will be impressed at your enterprise.

For Monday, February 25

ARIES (March 21-April 19) For best results today deal strictly in accord with your highest ideals regardless of how others may act toward you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A financial transaction you'll be involved in must be handled with finesse so that it doesn't appear you want more than your share.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be prepared to compromise today and make concessions. Good intent on your behalf will assure like treatment from another.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You will win the admiration and respect of others once they see your aims are unselfish and compassionate.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Act upon any inspiration that will benefit one close to your heart if you feel strongly about it. Thinking is not enough.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Expect some favorable activity regarding a financial interest you're involved in with someone else. An opportunity will pop up suddenly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This is a good day for you to iron out agreements with others that will in some manner improve conditions that affect your work.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're very creative today in both the aesthetic and practical senses. This will reflect favorably on your household budget.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There is a certain glow about you that you may not be aware of but others will. It will contribute to your popularity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your greatest pleasure today will be through something you'll share in collectively with your family. It comes unexpectedly.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something can now be done about a good idea you've been toying with. Don't wait too long to get things started.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Conditions that relate to your finances look very promising today. Seize upon a situation where another offers you something out of the ordinary.

your birthday February 25

Important contacts will be developed this year, bringing with them special advantages that will advance your self-interests. A long trip you've been thinking about may become a reality.

Philippine growth

The Philippine Population Commission, established in 1969, hopes to cut the current 3.5 per cent annual population growth rate of the Philippines, one of the highest in the world, to 2.5 per cent by 1975.

Oregon, other states show adoptions drop

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — Howard Roberts and his wife, a childless Portland couple, are looking for a baby to adopt.

Despite the existence of five private adoption agencies in the Portland area and the state children's services division, they have been unable even to put their names on a waiting list —most which have been closed for a year.

Oregon, as well as all other states, is in the midst of a decline in adoptions. And with this decline, many say is the increasing possibility of black market adoptions.

The Oregon Children's Services Division handled a record number of 439 adoptions in fiscal 1969-70, but has seen that number drop off steadily to a low of 206 at the end of 1972-73. Private agencies are no exception. Catholic Charities ad a peak of adoptions in 1968 of 107, but saw that drop to 29 last year.

Both Claire Jackson, head of adoptions for Catholic Charities, and Barb Davis of the State CSD give three reasons for the drop in the number of adoptable infants.

—Better methods of contraception.

The CSD has had its waiting lists closed for more than a year. At Catholic Charities the name at the top of the list first signed up in June, 1971.

"We no longer take applications because we think it foolish to have people wait that long," Miss Jackson said.

This unavailability in adoptable infants through agencies is causing increasing pressure on obstetricians, attorneys and others to provide for independent adoptions.

A prominent Portland obstetrician, who preferred to remain unnamed, said sometimes he will get mimoegraphed letters asking for infants. The letters have been mailed to doctors all over town.

Independent adoptions have not gone through the same rapid decline as private adoptions. In fiscal 1969-70 there were 411 independent adoptions, and a low of 364 through last June, for which figures are available.

Only two states —Connecticut and Delaware —prohibit these "gray market" adoptions. In Oregon the CSD is required to do a home study of the independent adoption 45 days after the parents take the child home.

While the obstetrician interviewed is not the only doctor in Portland who arranges adoptions, he said he sometimes receives criticism from other physicians who refuse to take part in the adoption process.

And though the Oregon Medical Association hasn't laid out guidelines for its physicians handling adoptions, its president, Dr. Clinton McGill, said he is personally in favor of agencies handling the adoptions.

Barb Davis of the Oregon CSC agrees.

"Sometimes there are legal hangups or they are placed with the wrong family," she says of independent adoptions. "The majority turn out well, but when they turn out badly, they turn out very badly."

TODAY'S Women

Involvement is story

A small group of young women, organized as the Pomona Junior Women's Club, has dedicated untold hours of service and financial aid to help their neighbors as well as the underprivileged in the City of Pomona.

Le Roy's Boys' Home, Santa Claus Inc., Volunteer Vital English, Pomona Psychiatric Hospital and the David and Margaret Home are a few of the recipients of service or funds from the group.

During the year the club held a Las Vegas Night party and an Indian Summer social as a means of raising funds for its philanthropic activities.

At Le Roy's the Juniors have a one-to-one program with the boys which includes assistance with reading, ecology and personal development. They provide educational games for the boys. The women direct two classes for the educationally handicapped for the boys. They have given Halloween, Christmas and valentine parties for the various cottages at the Home.

The Juniors, always ready to provide help in any civic undertaking, made and filled 200 marble and jack bags this year and donated used toys and helped with the distribution of the toys for Santa Claus Inc.

Three of their members have won acclaim in the California Federation of Women's Club, Junior Membership, district arts and crafts this year.

The group will bring its year to a close with attendance at the district convention in San Diego and at the state convention in Los Angeles in May.

ONE-TO-ONE PROGRAM

Mrs. Anthony LaFetra helps young Casey, who resides at Le Roy's Boys' Home, with his school work.

Consider changing climates

NEW YORK (UPI) — You want to change your base of operation to get a climate that is more healthful for you. The American Medical Association says sometimes a change of climate helps. Sometimes it does not. Consider:

—The human body functions best at a temperature of about 66 degrees.

—Babies and older persons have more difficulty adjusting to drastic changes in temperature.

The AMA's hint for anyone contemplating a change of scene for health reasons:

"Consult your family doctor first.

"He knows your family's medical history and emotional patterns.

"He may suggest four or five different spots that might be helpful for you. Or he might tell you that, as far as your health is concerned, you might just as well stay home."

JUNIORS REPAIR TOYS

Mrs. Fred Bellows, Mrs. Caren Pope and Mrs. Diane Knarr view toys they will repair and present to Santa Claus Inc. for disposal at holiday season, a project of the Juniors.

If car pooling investigate your policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The energy crisis is driving an increasing number of Americans into car pools. If you're one of them, now might be a good time to check your insurance policy.

Both riders and drivers of car pools can face tricky legal situations. In some cases the car pool organizer's liability or injury insurance might even be invalid in the event of an accident.

The laws vary from state to state and the practices differ among companies. The only sure way to know where you stand is to find out from your insurance company. If you're a car pool rider make sure the driver has done the same thing, and you know where he stands.

—If the car pool is operated for a profit (taking in more than it costs for gasoline, oil, maintenance and depreciation) the insurance may not be any good.

—If as a rider you want to reimburse the driver for more than his out-of-pocket costs, the Insurance Information Institute suggests a gift on the side might solve the problem.

—If you've abandoned your own car completely to join a car pool you may be eligible for the lower insurance rates offered to drivers of cars used for "pleasure only."

IT'S RICK'S FIESTA

Richard Petterson, retiring from Scripps College art faculty, is serenaded by Mrs. Casilda Thoreson and members of the Mexican Players at Padua Hills Theater. Mr. Petterson will be honored at a fiesta on Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m. at Padua Hills. Proceeds will aid college art department.

The Padua Hills Theater and adjacent area will be the setting for a gala Mexican fiesta on March 3 honoring Richard Petterson, who is retiring from the Scripps College art department faculty after 25 years to become a consultant to the Mexican Secretariat of Commerce and Industry.

The fiesta will benefit the Scripps College Art Department and is being sponsored by the Fine Arts Foundation of Scripps College, the Padua Institute, the Charro Association of Los Angeles and Mexicana Airlines.

The salute to Mexico will focus on Guadalajara, Jalisco, and will include a charreada rodeo, strolling musicians, a musical stage show by the Mexican Players, games and refreshments booths, and the display and sale of Mexican stoneware from the Guadalajara region.

Mr. Petterson has been working with the Ken Edwards studio in Tlaquepaque, Mexico, for the past few years assisting with the development of new glazes and refining techniques of manufacture and production. Samples of this work will be available.

The fiesta from 2 to 6 p.m. at the theater in the foothills north of Claremont will also be highlighted by music by the popular mariachi, "Los Tilines" from 4 to 6 p.m

A special event, new to the valley, will be the traditional show of horsemanship called a charreada sponsored by the Charro Association. A special ring, called lienzo by the charros, has been built to rigid specifications on a flat area near the Padua Hills fire station below the theater.

The exhibition, dating from the Spanish conquest of Mexico in the 16th century, consists of nine events, including roping from foot and horseback. A charro is a member of a proud and elite group. In the ring, the performers wear a traditional wide-brimmed, ornamented hat, short jacket and silver-studded narrow trousers. The charreada is a festive affair augmented by traditional Mexican music. There will be a separate admission for this event.

Fine Arts Foundation members will staff booths in the patio offering tacos, punch, music, and crafts items.

A special guest will be Juan Matute, a member of the Board of Trustees of Padua Institute and regional sales manager of Mexicana Airlines He and his wife, Manuela, were both members of the Mexican Players at Padua Hills Theater and attended Pomona College. Mr. Matute is a native of Guadalajara.

Mr. Petterson, associate professor of art at Scripps College and director of the Clark Humanities Museum at Scripps, also taught at Pasadena City College, USC, and University of Chicago Summer Art Workshops.

He is director of Los Angeles County Fair Art Exhibitions and served as director of design for the State Department-sponsored Taiwan Handicraft Development Program and chairman of a committee to study the preservation of art treasures of Tlingit and Haida Indians of Alaska.

He has lived and traveled in China, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Japan, Peru, Mexico, Alaska and other countries.

The public is invited. Tickets may be obtained at the door on Sunday or by calling Mrs. George Gibson, Upland, 982-5102.

Travel Film series sets Friday program

The Claremont Travel Film Series will present "Cape to Kenya" as its fifth presentation of the year at 2 p.m. and again at 8 p.m. Friday at Garrison Theater.

A long time favorite of the Claremont audiences, Thayer Soule will be the narrator.

The film takes one from Cape Town to the top of Table Mountain, to Durban, north to the game reserves, to Pretoria, Johannesburg, to the mines and then to Victoria Falls in Rhodesia and Kampala and Nairobi.

THAYER SOULE

Thayer Soule graduated from Harvard with high honors in languages, geographical studies and public speaking. He served as a Marine Corps photographic officer at Guadacanal and Iwo Jima.

His first professional appearance was in a church basement in Cambridge, Mass., in 1936. Today, he is recognized as a leader in the photography-narration field and is a member of the International Platform Association.

The Travel Film Series is sponsored by the Mt. Baldy Council of the Women's Campus Club of Pomona College and is a benefit project for the college development fund.

Single tickets for the production may be purchased at the box office for each performance.

Gold Star Mothers set luncheon

The Pomona Valley Chapter of American Gold Star Mothers will meet for a luncheon on Wednesday at the Naval Training Center, 1700 E. 1st St., at noon.

The public is invited and reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Edith Penn, 987-4038, or Mrs. Rheta Wilson, 984-3834 by Monday.

A pink lady

The pink lady is a large deciduous shrub brought from Chile in 1924. It is useful for windbreaks, wildlife habitats, highway beautification and noise barriers. The light green leaves of the pink lady turn to pink, red, yellow or brown in autumn and its brilliant reddish-pink fruit stays on well into winter.

Church Women United chart Day of prayer

The Bonita Unit of Church Women United will present a worship service prepared by the women of Japan for the observance of the 88th World Day of Prayer on Friday.

World Day of Prayer is the most widely observed eccumenical celebration with women in 168 countries uniting in prayers for peace.

One service will be held at 10 a.m. at St. Ambrose Episcopal Church, Claremont. Mrs. Cynthia Strathmann is chairman for the day.

Mrs. Earl Cranston, a member of the United Methodist Church and mother of three children, will be the speaker. She is a graduate of the University of Illinois and received a PhD. from Boston University. She has been a member of the World Council and exective committee of the YWCA. She is now an honor member of the National Board of YWCA where she served 16 years.

Another service is scheduled at Claremont Manor, 650 W. Harrison Ave., with Mrs. Dorothy Weeks as chairman. Mrs. L. Ada Mae Warner will be the speaker at 10 a.m.

Also, a group will meet at 10:30 a.m. in the Pilgrim Place Health Facility under the chairmanship of Mrs. Hazel Huebner.

Groups will meet at Mt. San Antonio Garden where the chaplain, is chairman, and a fifth group will meet at Hillhaven Convalescent Hospital, 590 S. Indian Hill Boulevard with Miss Ellen Studley, chairman.

In La Verne Dr. Mari Sommerville will be the speaker at 9:30 a.m. at United Methodist Church, 3205 D St.

Dr. Sommerville was born in Calcutta, India, and attended Isabella Thoburn College in Lucknow. She was later a faculty member and administrator of the college. During a sabbatical, she taught in New York and in South Carolina. She is now a resident of Pilgrim Place. Mrs. Sandie Bitner is chairman for the meeting.

At Hillcrest Homes women will gather in Breon Chapel, 2700 Magnolia Ave., at 2 p.m. Mrs. Barbara Enberg is chairman.

San Dimas Community Church, Congregational, 216 San Dimas Ave., will hold a service at 10 a.m. with Mrs. Margaret Beckman, assistant pastor of Wesleyan Church in San Dimas as speaker. Mrs. Margaret Parker is chairman.

The San Dimas Retirement Center at 834 W. Arrow Highway will also have a service. Mrs. Marguerite Ikenberry is chairman.

The offering will go toward the Intercontinental Mission Fund through which the needs of women war victims can be met and to help women in the Caribbean area improve their social, economic and religious life. A training center will be rebuilt in Eastern Nigeria where church women are working on rehabilitation tasks from the Biafra-Nigeria conflict and other church Women United sponsored programs.

Currently CWU is sponsoring a program, Christian Causeway, in which 40 women from this country are traveling to six Asian countries to study questions of justice and peace.

The meetings are open to women in Claremont, La Verne and San Dimas.

Babysitter's course set by YWCA Teens

A free babysitter's instruction course will be conducted by the San Gabriel Valley YWCA Teen Department on March 7 and 14 from 6:15 to 8:15 p.m. at Sunkist School, Covina.

A certificate of completion will be earned by those attending both sessions. The course is open to all girls in the area. For additional information, call Joan Horrigan, teen director, at the San Gabriel Valley YWCA, (213) 962-3209.

CAROL RATHBUN

Rathbun, Lizama troth told

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald S. Rathbun of Pomona announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol Eileen, and Lester N. Lizama.

A 1967 graduate of Pomona High School, Miss Rathbun received a B.A. degree in sociology at the University of California at Santa Barbara in 1971. She was active in musical organizations on the campus.

The son of Mrs. Faust P. Lizama of Atwater and the late Mr. Lizama, the groom-to-be also attended UCSB where he majored in theater arts and music.

Don't cut

Tempting as it may be, don't cut your cuticles. Push them back with an orange stick after soaking fingers for a few minutes in a mild soap and water mixture. Use clear polish on nails until cuticles are in good enough shape to attract the attention that dark polish brings.

Luncheon and show charted

"Buttons 'n' Bows" is the theme for the annual spring fashion show luncheon to be presented by St. Denis Council of Catholic Women of Diamond Bar Saturday at Pomona National Golf Club.

The show will begin at 11 a.m with a social hour. Luncheon will be served at 11:30 a.m.

Commentator for the afternoon fashion show will be Mrs. A. A. Pawlak from Hinshaw's Department Store.

Tickets may be obtained by calling Mrs. Ann Potticary, 595-8989, or Mrs. Evie Argelica, 595-3153.

For hair with a sunny disposition. Have a frosting! Ours is special. Only $14.88

Your hair takes on a bright new life with hair painting or frosting. Includes shampoo and style set. Now 14.88. Choose a whole new style or just some extra body with our 'Festival' perm. 9.50. Shampoo, cut and style set included. Not recommended for tinted hair.

The West End Family Service Auxiliary has scheduled a meeting at 9 a.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. T. J. Case.

A representative of the American Cancer Society will present a film and discuss "Cancer's Seven Warning Signals."

The American Cancer Society provides transportation for medical care, counseling, direct assistance or, if indicated, referral to other community agencies. Sick room equipment is loaned for the cancer patient upon doctor's approval and trained volunteers will visit patients after surgery.

UCLA professor set as Baha'i lecturer

Dr. Amin Banani, professor of Islamic Studies at UCLA, will be the speaker at the second in a series of three free lectures planned in Claremont.

"And God Created Woman: the female as Religious Afterthought" will be Dr. Banani's topic at the Tuesday program at 8 p.m. in the McAllister Center, 10th Street and Columbia Avenue, Claremont. The series, sponsored by Haha'is of Claremont, will conclude on March 5 with a lecture by Dr. Dorothy Nelson, dean of the USC School of Law.

Dr. Banani was born in Persia and received his early education in Tehran. He attended Columbia and Stanford Universities where he obtained a doctorate in history. He is an author, editor and contributor to many books and articles.

The speaker taught at Stanford University, Reed College and Harvard University before joining the faculty at UCLA. He is also chairman of the graduate program in Islamic Studies and associate director of the Near Eastern Center at UCLA

Dr. Banani served as the representative of the Baha'i International Community to the United Nations Conferences of International Non-Governmental Organizations at New York and Geneva.

The public is invited to attend the lecture. Theme of the series is "Women Attaining their Birthright."

Miss Lopez is a student of Margaret Schaper at the University of Southern California. Mrs. Jack F. Wilson of Glendora was chairman of the annual award committee.

Auditions for the scholarship were held in Pattison Recital Hall, Scripps College, Claremont.

YWCA schedules tea honoring its patrons

Patrons of the YWCA will be honored at an informal tea Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Robert Wentz, 2025 Yorba Drive.

The 2 p.m. affair is the Greater Pomona Valley YWCA's fourth such event. Patrons are those individuals who support the Y program with contributions above the basic membership fee. The affair will mark the beginning of the Y's 1974 sustaining membership drive.

As a part of the brief program, Mrs. Ellen Lepp, a patron and member of the program development committee, will discuss community needs and the YWCA's role in meeting the needs. Mrs. Ruth Fasnacht, sustaining membership drive chairman, will be introduced.

Entertainment will be provided by Mrs. Lorraine Harris. She will sing to guitar accompaniment.

Mrs. Ferne Schechter is chairman for the tea and is assisted by Mmes. Phyllis Sievers, Verda Carl, Pauline Brown, Hazel Snoke, Mayme Marris, Judy Woodruff, Joan Youngblood and Wentz.

Literature program scheduled

"Children's Literature" will be the subject of a talk to be given by Mrs. Winifred Ragsdale, librarian of the George G. Stone Center for Children's Books, Tuesday at 10 a.m. in Room 110, Harper Hall, on the campus of the Claremont Graduate School.

Included in her discussion will be suggested books to own, reading together in the family and sexism in literature.

A bibliography of recommended books will be available.

The program is sponsored by Campus Women of the Claremont Colleges and is open to guests.

Rancho Santa Ana Botanic Gardens in Claremont was the setting for the Saturday morning marriage of Miss Jane Ellen Wilson and John Liston Pease.

Mr. and Mrs. Pease will reside in Los Angeles after a week-long honeymoon.

Baptists schedule meeting

The American Baptist Women of the First Baptist Church will meet Tuesday at the church. Each of the eight circles will display its work for the year under the direction of Mrs. Charles Roe, White Cross work chairman.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Ray Clouter, members of the Neighborly Circle will prepare the noon luncheon and present the 1 p.m. program.

A special feature will be the presentation of a group of patriotic songs by students of the First Baptist Elementary School, directed by Mrs. Priscilla Lovegren.

Mrs. Ruth Hoyt, president, will conduct the business meeting at 1 a.m. in Room 212. Women are invited to join the White Cross sewing in the church gymnasium from 10 to 11 a.m. Child care will be provided. Reservations are not needed for the 75 cent luncheon.

Keep away

Unless permission has been given by the owner or tenant, a hunter in Nebraska may not hunt within 200 yards of an inhabited dwelling.

Republicans to attend seminar

Attending from the Walnut Valley Republican Women, Federated, will be Mrs. George Harvey, president, Mrs. Marshall Huff, Mrs. Ray Sevilla, Mrs. Joseph Luce, Mrs. Ronald Lumary, Mrs. William Wentworth and Mrs. Maurice Varney.

The speaker will be Mrs. Norman Armitage, president of the National Federation of Republican Women.

Workshops will be conducted in the morning session.

Cabaret party slated

"Come to the Cabaret" will be the theme for the ninth annual casino party of Casa Alegre Auxiliary of the Children's Home Society.

To be staged on March 2 at Griswold's Indian Hill Inn, Claremont, the evening will include dancing to the music of the Berger Brothers.

Songs from the famed musical "Cabaret" will be sung by Thom McAleer, entertainer who has appeared in "Cabaret," "Oklahoma," "Auntie Mame," "40 Carats" and other summer stock, community theater and college productions. Mr. McAleer has also appeared on television in The Dating Game, Room 222, Dialing for Dollars, Talent Party and Teen Temple.

The "Casino Alegre" party is an annual event based on an evening in Las Vegas. Proceeds will be donated to the Children's Home Society which assists children and parents with counseling, foster care, adoption and home care for babies.

WICs slate dinner meet Thursday

Carl Johnson, exective coordinator of California Construction Industries will be the speaker at the dinner-meeting of Pomona Valley Chapter, Women in Construction, Thursday in the Presidio Room at Griswold's Inn, Claremont.

Dinner will be served at 7 p.m. following a brief social hour.

Reservations for the dinner are to be made with Mrs. Bruce Allyn.

Energy crisis is topic

An "Up-date of the Energy Crisis" will highlight the dinner meeting of Pomona Valley Chapter, Executives' Secretaries, Inc., when the group meets at Jurupa Hills Country Club in Riverside.

Louis Yeager will be the speaker at the 7:30 p.m. dinner. A social hour will precede the dinner on Feb. 28.

Mr. Yeager retired from Shell Oil Company earlier this year after 28 years of service. He will present his interpretation and analysis of the current situation.

Breakfast with kids

By ERMA BOMBECK

There are three things that are overrated in this country; sex, the FBI, and mothers who get up to get their children's breakfasts in the morning.

Several weeks ago, I made public the fact that once a year at Christmas I had breakfast with my children, passed out a few candy canes and told them if they were good they would seee me again next year.

The mail was positively threatening. It seems there is something un-American about sacking in while your children run barefoot through the breakfast cereal and the plastic toys.

Pressured by public opinion, I decided this week to get up and have breakfast with my kids. I put on a robe, shuffled out to the kitchen, steadied myself on the door frame and announced, "I am here."

"Who is it?" asked one son.

"Snow White lives!" observed another

"Are you all right?" asked my daughter. "Or is your mattress on fire?"

"What do you want for breakfast?" I asked numbly.

"I already got it. Leftover pecan pie and catsup sandwich."

I opened a window and breathed deeply.

"Will you gt the phone?" shouted my daughter.

"It's Gloria," I related, "she wants to know what you're wearing."

"She said she's wearing bright green and you'll clash when you walk down the hall."

"Then tell her the gray skirt and the yellow sweater set."

"She said those are Beaverbrook's school colors and there's a game after school."

"Then tell her . . ."

"Tell her yourself," I said, slumping in a chair.

"Can you iron this?" asked a son. "It's my gym clothes."

The stench made my eyes smart. "Where did you get these?"

"In the clothes hamper, but they were on top."

Someone was hammering on the bathroom door. "Will you get out of there so I can get my bike lock out of the pants I wore yesterday?"

"Not until you pay me the 20 cents you borrowed for lunch."

"Hey, Mom, we're running late, could you give us a ride?"

Numbly, I forced a cup of coffee to my lips. My hands shook.

"I knew she couldn't hack it," said one.

"See you next Christmas," said the other two.

Students big operators in Finland

HELSINKI (UPI) — Twenty years ago Finnish university students complained they had nowhere to sleep or eat —and they did something about it. Today they own their own hotels, eat in their own restaurants, shop in their own stores, are treated in their own medical centers and as a group are among the richest capitalists in Finland.

The state owns the universities, but the students own all their own services and it is big business. Turnover for the Helsinki Student Union in 1973 was 26 million marks ($6.5 million) and at the neighboring technical college the turnover was 20 million marks ($5 million).

Seppo Heikonen, manager of the Helsinki University Student Union, said the union owns two hotels, 12 restaurants, three stationery shops, a book publishing company, apartment blocks and several office buildings along the city's most expensive street.

Lars Wendeslen, restaurant manager for the Dipoli Technical College, said the students there own the largest convention center in Finland, several restaurants, summer hotels, a publishing company and a driving school.

The story is similar at other universities in major Finnish cities. Although all are separate entities, if their business activities were taken as a whole they would rank towards the top of all Finnish business.

The student unions have cooperated on some projects, so now all students have their own medical centers and a national health insurance plan.

"The state did not take care of housing for students so the student unions about 20 years ago began collecting money from the students and we constructed our own buildings. There was nowhere to eat (at the University) so we built our own restaurants.

"As business progressed we needed office space so we bought our own offices. The students complained stationery and text books were too expensive so we opened our own shops and three years ago began our own publishing company."

Profits are returned to students in the form of subsidies on all services. Membership for the country's 50,000 students is compulsory in their student union and membership can cost between 50-150 Finnmarks ($13-$50) a year.

The facilities have become popular with the general public. Many of the finest and most expensive restaurants in Helsinki are owned by the students. The government rented the convention center at the technical college for eight months last year for the preparatory talks for the European Security Conference.

And the students continue to make money even while they bask in the Mediterranean sun on their holidays.

Energy world

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — Thermonuclear fusion, which could fuel industry, city power systems and possibly transportation system, may be usable within 20 years, if the engine ring problems can be mastered.

Dr. Magne Kristiansen and Dr. Marion Hagler, electrical engineering professors at Texas Tech University, are heading a $59,300 National Science Foundation grant for experimental studies in radio frequency plasma heating.

"A phrase like 'RF plasma heating' may not do much for small talk, but it could be vital to the world's long-range energy supplies," said Kirstiansen.

Kristiansen and Hagler agree that there is new confidence in controlled fusion as an economical, safe source of power.

Will Use Water

"Most people believe the physics will work, but we still have uncertainty in regard to the engineering of the problem," Kristiansen said.

The prototype of a thermonuclear fusion power plant may be in operation by 1995, five years earlier than was predicted two years ago and 20 years after the first breeder reactor —which depends upon fission for energy —is expected to be operable.

Hagler said fission reactors use uranium for fuel, and there is a limit to the amount of raw fuel available because only about .7 per cent of the world's supply of uranium is of the right kind and can be used for this purpose.

"Fusion reactors will use water as a basic source of energy," Hagler said. "As conceived by the world's scientists and engineers who are working on the problem, a plasma of the hydrogen component of water would be heated to 100 million degrees Fahrenheit and held there for about a second."

Heating Theory Developed

This would cause fusion and, as a result, neutrons would blast out of the plasma like bullets shot into a surrounding molten slurry, Hagler said. As the slurry —possibly of molten lithium —becomes hot, it would be used to heat water, to create steam, to drive turbines which create electric power.

The Kristiansen - Hagler team is concerned with heating the plasma. They have developed a theory for coupling radio electromagnetic waves with 50 to 100 million oscillations per second into the plasma.

This would cause a physical excitation of the particles in the plasma, and in turn would create heat.

No one yet has found an error in the analysis of the problem by the Texas Tech researchers. But neither has anyone done the experimental work to verify the theory.

Fusion Is Safer

"A part of the problem is in coupling the waves into the plasma in the place where they are wanted,' Kristiansen said. "By laws of physics, the particles in the plasma have a tendency to form a shield against the outside disturbance of the energy waves. We must find a way around this problem in order to get uniform heat throughout the entire volume of plasma."

Kristianen said fusion is safer than fission because there is less radioactive waste material. Either fission of fusion is cleaner than fossil fuel energy production, he said.

Kristiansen said power developed by fusion would not work directly in motor vehicles unless an electric motor and storage system could be devised to give vehicles long range capability.

"More fossil fuel could be diverted to highway and farm machinery use, however, if cities and inudstry could switch to new energy sources," he said.

Former puppy still depending on clock

By Dr. Frank Miller

DEAR DR. MILLER: Joni is hardly a puppy anymore. Yet she insists on this stupid alarm clock every night before she will go to sleep. We got into this trap the night we got her. A neighbor said a ticking clock in bed with her would make her less lonesome. It worked all right then but she would never let us take it away from her. She still has to have it to go to sleep and I am tired of winding the blank think. How can I get her (and me) unhooked? H. G.

Dear H. G.: Rather than go through the trauma produced by a "cold turkey" clock withdrawal, take the timepiece away gradually. Each night move it up slightly further away from her bed until eventually it is up and out of sight in another room somewhere. By that time, should you forget to wind it, the results should be less upsetting.

DEAR DR. MILER: I have been told that because Slinky is a long-haired cat she will get hairballs quicker. This sounds bad to me because my short-hair gets many hairballs in a month even though I comb her some. Hairball medicine seems to help her some. Should Slinky get it? — A. K.

Dear A. K.: They both should be groomed as frequently as possibly, preferably daily. Slinky should receive hairball laxative as needed. Whether she would have more problems or fewer would depend (1) on how good a grooming job you do and (2) how fastidious she is. Some long-haired cats don't have hairball problems but have severe matting on the surface of their coats. They avoid internal problems by simply neglecting to do any grooming themselves.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Why would a parakeet suddenly develop the habit of bobbing his tail up and down? At first I thought he was just excited, but — all the time? — E. V.

Dear E. V.: Your budgie's continual tail bobbing is usually an indication of trouble in breathing. If you have not already had him checked out by his doctor, do so immediately. Transport him in a carrier well insulated againt cold and wind. Obviously, any chilling would further lessen your parakeet's chances for survival.

DEAR DR. MILLER: The giver won't tell me. What's the easiest way for me to find out whether little Frederick, here, is a grown mouse or a young rat? — H. M.

Dear H. M.: Meet his mother.

California welfare reformed—Reagan

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Three years ago Gov. Ronald Reagan branded welfaare "a $3 billion moral and administrative disaster" and vowed to bring it to heel.

Now a frontrunner in the polls for the 1976 Republican presidential nomination, Reagan declares welfare in California "reformed."

The latest administration figures show welfare rolls have been pared by more than 38,000 persons from a high of 2.29 million in March, 1971. That represents an official drop of one-sixth to the December, 1973, level of 1.91 million.

Reagan credits administrative changes and a compromise 1971 welfare reform bill, hammered out between Republicans and Democrats, for the reductions. He warned then if nothing were done Californians faced "a tax increase every year into the future as far as anyone can see."

In 1970-71 fiscal year, welfare and related Medi-Cal benefits cost taxpayers $3.03 billion, excluding administrative expenses, the state Health and Welfare Agency says. The comparative total is expected to increase to $3.59 billion during the current fiscal year.

Yet the wide-ranging programs that make up the reforms remain challenged.

"I think the real fraud in welfare is the belief that by passing a law we can solve the problems of the poor and the problems faced by the taxpayer," says state Sen. Anthony C. Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, who carried the compromise legislation.

Beilenson and others believe two factors, not reform, primarily were responsible for the welfare decrease—rising employment and smaller family sizes among recipients.

"Reagan was lucky," says Mark Aaronson, a political scientist at the University of California at Berkeley, who is studying the impact of welfare reform as part of his Ph.D. dissertation.

Aaronson argues the early 1970s provided "favorable conditions" for a welfare decline, reform or not. He cites reduced employment plus a complex series of social changes that ushered in the decade.

But Aaronson agrees that without reform "costs undoubtedly would have been higher.'

Critics now say an employment slump resulting from the energy dilemma will send welfare rolls up again.

David B. Swoap, the administration's director of benefit payments, said late last year the caseload decline had "bottomed out," in essence signaling that reform had cut about as deeply as possible into the rolls.

Now, he says, welfare reform is entering the "second mile" where administrative machinery must be fine-tuned to keep costs down.

The governor's proposed budget for the coming fiscal year foresees no significant change one way or another in the current welfare picture, an assessment challenged by Legislative Analyst A. Alan Post.

Overall costs, however, seem destined to go up. During a protracted battle with the legislature last year, Reagan finally was forced to accept a $123 million plan by Democrats to implement a federal takeover of welfare for some 500,000 aged, blind and disabled recipients.

The total was considerably more than Reagan wanted as the state's contribution to the federal program.

Besides that, annual cost-of-living increases were built into the 171 reform compromise for other welfare categories.

The administration rejects claims that unemployment and shrinking family size were important factors in reducing the number of welfare recipients.

Unemployment went down in other states and welfare continued to climb, unlike California, argues Philip J. Newlin, deputy director of the Benefit Payments Department.

He says the reduction in family size mostly is due to crackdown on the reporting of nonexistent children by families and social workers seeking larger welfare payments for recipients.

Basically, the reform was designed to attack welfare growth on three flanks: Tightening eligibility and reporting requirements, stiffening controls on Medi-Cal and putting the able-bodied to work through the commonly labeled "work-for-welfare" project.

The latter, known officially as the Community Work Experience Program, is part of a larger counseling, training and job assistance effort called the Employables Program.

The three-year experimental work-for-welfare project affects the smallest number of recipients of any of the reforms. Less than one in ten recipients is determined fit for work and only a tiny fraction—less than 300 at any one time--participate in the work project.

Highly controversial, the program is in effect in 34 counties and 2,561 persons have been enrolled. It will expire at the end of June, when the results will be evaluated and a decision made whether to seek legislation to continue it.

It operates like this: A recipient found able to work is registered with the Employables Program and if a job is not immediately available, he is assigned either to training or told to look for a job.

Failing both, and as a last resort, the recipient is ordered to work at community projects, such as gardening, up to 80 hours a month or risk losing welfare.

Included in the Employables Program are family-planning counseling services and expanded day-care facilities for working mothers.

Medi-Cal reform, on the other hand, affected millions. Nearly all welfare recipients were eligible for benefits.

Reform of Medi-Cal centered on stricter eligibility requirements, a reduction in services available, a lessening of the burden on county hospitals, experiments with cost sharing between recipients and the state, and efforts to encourage prepaid health plans.

The final area of reform involved eligibility and reporting requirements for the various categories of welfare.

Adult children were required to contribute more financial support to their elderly welfare parents, a greater emphasis was placed on searching out absent fathers for child support, widely varying benefit levels were trimmed to a more even system of payments in order to cut administrative costs, and efforts were intensified to reduce errors.

Federal Welfare Commissioner Robert B. Carleson, one of several high-ranking Reagan welfare officials to go to Washington, D.C., says the state reforms combined to save California taxpayers $1 billion between 1971 to 1973—roughly $50 for every resident.

From the viewpoint of the recipient, critics charge, "people-oriented" social workers have been replaced by cost-conscious managerial-types, and any savings have come from the needy.

Ralph S. Abascal, a leading welfare rights attorney who has directed an aggressive but so far inconclusive legal battle with Reagan, dismisses much of the reform effort as public relations.

"The real danger," he says, "is that Reagan will make this part of his presidential campaign and convince people in other parts of the country he has the answers.

"If Reagan is elected president, he will have real power, both through legislative influence and administratively. Then, he could make significant changes in the welfare system."

Changes are exactly what Reagan is pushing for. He touts California as the welfare leader among states and rarely passes up the opportunity to praise the reforms.

"Tremendously successful," he says.

Report Kissinger would quit if Nixon impeached

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has told some congressional leaders he would quit his post if the House should vote impeachment against President Nixon, the Washington Star-News said Thursday.

In a dispatch from Mexico City, the Star-News said Kissinger told congressmen who accompanied him to a meeting of Latin American foreign ministers of his intention.

The article said Kissinger felt he could not effectively conduct U.S. foreign policy should Nixon be impeached.

The House can impeach a President by a majority vote. It takes a trial and a two-thirds vote by the Senate to remove him from office.

Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., was quoted by the Star-News as saying: "We spent some time trying to persuade him not to make such a decision.

'Secret' marriages

No waiting, no witnesses, no publicity and no tests

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI) — Officials here hate to talk about it, but the figures plainly show the secret's out about what may be the biggest bargain around in these inflation-weary times.

In San Diego they call it the "secret" marriage. In other places it's "tainted" marriage. Under the law, it has no real name.

But whatever you call it, more and more Californians are learning the magic words that guarantee a marriage with no waiting, no witnesses, no publicity and no tests.

But before you rush in to sign up, here's why the state agrees to keep your marriage a secret.

You have to swear to a minister that you have been living together as man and wife and want to legalize the situation.

And that's just what lots of Californians are doing—whether their "living in sin" has gone on for a day or a decade.

And that's just what annoys the state.

In 1972 the legislature adopted the little-known statute, and for some very definite reasons.

Seems many older couples arrived in California from other states only to find the state didn't recognize their long standing common-law relationships.

Without a valid marriage, all kinds of legal problems developed.

So, presto, the secret marriage, a ceremony so secret that it takes a court order for the neighbors to find out you'd lived all those years without a license.

But instead of older couples, licensing officials here say a growing flood of youth in search of a bargain marriage has developed.

Going the secret route can save most couples about $50 for tests plus the inconveniences of some of the law's other requirements.

Under the "secret" law, no health certificates are needed. That means no blood tests (about $6 each) and no check of the bride for immunity to German measles (up to $30).

And on top of that, the license fee is $5 instead of the usual $6.

In San Diego County, secret marriages in the last half of 1972 totaled 56. A year later the secret was out and the total jumped to 623. Now about 125 a month are recorded and the figures keep climbing.

"We think in terms of the offspring of these marriages," said Wolford Weiner, chief of the county's business division, which governs issuance of licenses.

"Since there's no requirement that the couple be tested for syphilis, and the bride for immunity to rubella, some innocent children will be brought into the world diseased. That's what burns us up."

County Public Health Director Dr. J. B. Askew puts it even stronger.

"I think this is bypassing the intent of the original law. Perhaps this matter should go back before the legislature."

At least one San Diegan already is capitalizing on the legal loophole.

In the classified pages of daily newspapers here an ad reads: "Marry legally today. No publicity or tests. Rev. W. Joseph, D.D."

Rev. Joseph, who is the sole member of the United Family Community Church Inc., performs "secret" marriages at a local hotel for $15 each. He says he does about 20 a week and has for the past year.

"There's no California law against these 'ministers' and there's never been a turndown on any marriages performed by them," says Weiner. "The state requires no registration or license."

Group legal insurance program expanding

NEW YORK (UPI) — By the end of this year hundreds of thousands of American workers may have group legal insurance similar in operation to their group medical and health policies.

Persons who earn $6,000 to $18,000 a year find it difficult to pay for a divorce, the settlement of an estate or to defend themselves if they get arrested, says Russell M. Tolley of Tolley International Corp. of Indianapolis. Poor people often are served through the legal aid society or the public defender and the well-to-do can afford good legal talent.

Actually about 1,500 plans to provide prepaid group legal insurance to fill this need are in effect in the United States, but Tolley said they cover only 50,000 workers. The actuarial basis of their operation often leaves much to be desired, he said.

But last year Congress amended the Taft-Hartley labor relations act to make prepaid group legal insurance a proper field for bargaining between employers and unions. This makes the contribution of an employer to such a plan tax deductible. So, Tolley, whose company has spent two years working out several specific prepaid legal insurance programs at varying costs, says that many unions, starting in April, will demand legal insurance as part of their new contracts.

Although Tolley told United Press International that his company, an insurance and pension consultant firm, has an early start with legal insurance plans, scores of other firms with union clients probably will get into the field or prepare to before the year-end.

Tolley said he was not free to identify all the unions for whom he will bargain for prepaid legal insurance this year but he did name Teamsters Union locals in Kansas City, Minneapolis and Cleveland and in the state of New Jersey; Carpenters' locals in Illinois and Indiana and two big unions in California, the Operating Engineers and the Laborers Union.

Tolley and the unions he represents will propose several different packages to employers. The cheapest, which would pay only defense fees and costs up to certain limits in both civil and criminal cases might cost the worker as little as 2 to 3 cents an hour of his pay. More comprehensive plans would cost 5 to 10 cents an hour.

All the plans allow the covered worker to choose his own lawyer who may work for the prescribed insurance fee or accept that as part of his fee according to circumstances.

Excluded from the plan are suits against the employer or the union. Legal protection the worker may have under his automobile or homeowner insurance policies must be exhausted before the prepaid legal insurance coverage applies.

Medical experts at work on newborn mortality rate

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — If an infant survives the first month of life, his chances of dying won't be as high again until he's 67 years old.

Infant mortality—the fifth leading killer in the United States—has remained constant for the past two decades at 16 deaths per 1,000 births.

But doctors, nurses and technicians are moving to reduce that rate in the rapidly growing specialty of newborn care.

"Study of the newborn came last, after the elderly and even infants, in the study of medicine,' said Dr. August L. Jung, head of the Newborn Intensive Care Unit at the University of Utah Medical Center.

The problems of the newborn are unique—different even from those of infants just a few months old.

Don't show pain

They don't show pain and they exhibit the same symptoms no matter what is wrong with them, Jung said.

"Treating a newborn isn't just a matter of quantity," he said. "They have special problems."

One of the biggest is warming the infants brought to the center—nearly all of them born prematurely.

"Premature babies are somewhat like snakes," Jung said. "Their bodies respond to room temperature but they react like persons when they get too cold."

Many of the newborns require surgery, "an art in itself," according to the Utah specialist.

Treatment varies . . .

"Operating on a newborn weighing as little as two pounds to take out a section of bowel the size of your little finger requires incredible skill," he said.

Jung's department is considered a tertiary hospital for newborns—a place where the sickest babies come. It treats about 500 newborns a year, representing only "the critically ill 1 or 2 per cent.'

He said 80 per cent of the newborns referred to the center leave alive and healthy—a 44 per cent increase in just a few years.

"If we can help them through that period then they won't stand as great a chance of dying until they are 67 years old," Jung said.

Treatment for newborns is as varied as their problems.

Treatment expensive . . .

They are kept in special incubators with sensors to record respiration, heartbeat and other vital signs. Besides medical treatment, they also receive one-to-one nursing care. The care also extends to their mental well-being.

Jung said studies show a newborn needs to be held and comforted regularly to help prevent their growing up with emotional disturbances.

Each day the babies are taken from their incubators, fed and rocked by a mother, a nurse or women who work with a "foster grandmother" program.

The technology, the individual care and medical treatment are expensive.

Jung estimates the cost of newborn intensive care around the nation at $100 to $1,000 a day, depending on what is required. The average stay at the Utah center costs $3,000.

"I call this catastrophic medicine," he said, "not only for the newborn, but for the parents as well."

Jung added that newborn care must be improved at all hospitals

"We have to make people realize there are a lot of sick babies," he said.

Sets world record for blind driving

PRAGUE (UPI) — Antoni Masek drove 40 miles to set a world record for driving blindfolded, the Czechoslovak news agency CTK reported.

Masek eclipsed the previous record of 13.5 miles set by Jan Grosby of Norway, CTK said.

Masek managed to drive from Tyn Nad Vltavou, Southern Bohemia, to Ceske Budejovice and back "with assistance of the police", CTK said.

FUNNY BUSINESS By Roger Bollen

Guard has problem getting inexperienced recruits

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — The U.S. Army National Guard is having trouble recruiting young men that have no prior experience in the military, says its national director.

Maj Gen. Francis S. Greenlief said here that the National Guard is running well above its authorized troop strength of 400,000 men, despite the end of the Viet-Nam war and the draft.

But he said the guard is having trouble attracting young men just out of high school to its ranks and he would like to see Congress approve some sort of bonus payment as an incentive to join.

Greenlief said the department of defense had sent to Congress several bills to provide additional benefits for guard members. Another measure in the drafting stage would give recruits an $1,100 to $2,200 bonus for signing up.

"We have difficulty recruiting non-prior service men," he said. "We need this bonus to attract new personnel."

Greenlief also said, because of the energy crisis, some guardsmen may be riding the bus to summer training this year, instead of traveling long distances in convoys. But convoys to "close to home" training areas will continue, he added.

Practice for Cal 500 begins this week

ONTARIO — Racing teams entered in the fifth annual California 500 will begin finding the answers to their own energy crisis questions Tuesday morning when practice officially opens at Ontario Motor Speedway.

The California 500 has been moved to March 10 this year from its traditional Labor Day Weekend date and is now the first U. S. Auto Club championship car race of the season.

Thirty-nine cars, most of them designed since last season, have been entered in the California 500, the first test of USAC's new fuel restrictions. Each car will have only 200 gallons of methanol to burn during this week's four days of practice.

Mechanics on the teams will be trying to learn how they can average 1.8 miles per gallon, the minimum mileage for a car to go 500 miles on its 280 gallon fuel allotments for the race. Last year, each car was allowed 340 gallons for the race with no limit during practice.

The cars will be registered and inspected Monday and there will be an open house from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday during which racing fans will be given tours of the facility and be able to meet some of the drivers.

Practice will be held from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday through Friday. Two-lap timed trials are scheduled for Saturday from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. with two 100-mile qualifying races at 1:30 and 3 p.m. on Sunday.

Former Indianapolis 500 winners Mario Andretti and Al Unser will be among several drivers meeting with the public Monday evening during the special open house.

Many of the latest championship cars, which will debut in the California 500 will be on display, giving fans a chance to get a close-up look at these 200 mile per hour racers.

"We've heard many comments from fans wanting to meet the drivers and get close to the cars," says OMS general manager Jim Cook, "and they will have that opportunity during the open house."

Omen for a big year: Mounties win tourney

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

WALNUT — Back in 1971 Mt. San Antonio College set the stage for a 26 victory season by winning the championship of its baseball tournament early in the year.

If winning the tournament was an omen of good things to come in '71 it might hold true in '74 as well.

The way the Mounties are rolling—10 wins in 11 games—there's no reason to think otherwise.

MSAC claimed victory No. 10 of the young season Saturday afternoon with a 14-1 rout of College of the Canyons to win the coveted trophy for the first time in three years.

It was a cakewalk all the way for the Mounties and lefthander Bob Chaulk, a diminutive curveballer from Ganesha High, who put Canyons down on six hits. The freshman who won his third game in a row and who has allowed only three runs in 27 innings, struck out seven and walked no one.

On a blustery crystal clear afternoon, the Mounties complimented his pitching with 14 hits, including two doubles, two triples and two home runs.

Canyons picked up its single tally on a wild pitch by Chaulk in the ninth inning. They didn't even get close before that.

Shortstop Mike Parkinson, a freshman from La Puente's Wilson High, gave Chaulk a 2-0 cushion in the second inning with a two-run single that scored designated hitter Kevin Bell and second baseman Mark Bumstead.

Parkinson was the leading hitter for the afternoon, adding another single and a two-run homer in the eighth. He scored two runs and drove in four.

Bell, a stocky freshman from Northview High, gave Chaulk a four-run bulge in the third inning with a 400-foot shot over the leftfield fence.

Outfielder Jeff Corkill also stroked three hits—two singles and a double—to share hitting honors with Parkinson.

In other games on the final day of the tournament, Cypress outlasted Glendale, 8-5 for third place; Rio Hondo thumped East L.A., 12-4 for the consolation title and L.A. Harbor outscored Riverside, 14-11 for seventh place.

The Mounties swept past Riverside, 14-0, and Glendale, 8-6, to set up Saturday's championship game with Canyons. Canyons beat Rio Hondo, 3-0 and Cypress, 7-4.

MSAC returns to action next Thursday in a rematch with Glendale at Stengel Field in Glendale at 2:30 p.m. The Mounties open South Coast Conference play the following Tuesday (March 5), at Fullerton.

Wilkes nearly flawless in leading UCLA to win

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Senior Keith Wilkes, playing his final home game for UCLA, scored a career high of 31 points Saturday night to lead the third-ranked Bruins to a 99-65 victory over Washington.

Wilkes, who sat out more than 10 minutes of the second half, hit 14 of 15 shots from the floor and was a perfect 6-6 after the intermission. Center Bill Walton, also making his last home appearance, had 15 points and 14 rebounds.

Washington's junior forward Larry Pounds had a career high of 29 points to lead the Huskies' attack. Forward Ray Price had 16 for Washington and center James Edwards added 10.

After building up a 25-17 lead in the first 12 minutes, the seven-time defending national champion Bruins reeled off 12 straight points in the next three minutes, then coasted to a 49-34 halftime margin.

Four other UCLA seniors— Tommy Curtis, Greg Lee, Gary Franklin and Bob Webb—also played their last game in Pauley Pavilion where the Bruins have now won 65 in a row over four seasons.

The win was the Bruins' 24th straight over the Huskies, who last beat UCLA in 1963.

UCLA improved its overall season record to 20-3 and its Pacific-8 to 9-2. Washington, which lost by 52 points to the Bruins in Seattle last month, is 13-10 and 4-7.

With four conference games remaining, UCLA is deadlocked for first place in the Pac-8 race with Southern California, which defeated Washington State University Saturday night. UCLA faces the Trojans March 9 at the Los Angeles Sports Arena.

The Bruins travel to the San Francisco area next weekend where they play California Friday night and Stanford on Saturday night.

Trowbridge paces USC to 86-59 win over WSU

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bob Trowbridge connected for 25 points Saturday night as the University of Southern California avenged a 71-56 upset loss to Washington St. in January by whipping the Cougars, 86-59, at the Sports Arena.

The Trojans improved their Pac-8 Conference record to 9-2 to remain deadlocked for first place with UCLA, which walloped Washington 99-65.

The Trojans and Bruins have identical 20-3 overall season records and will meet for a possible championship showdown here March 9.

It was a highly emotional defeat for Cougars coach George Raveling, who had two technical fouls called against him late in the game.

USC went ahead to stay when Westra scored on a hook shot to put the Trojans ahead 6-4, with 3:49 into the game.

Anderson and Trowbridge hit on outside shots and they later also dropped in a field throw to boost USC's margin to 13-5.

Barnhill, a 6-4 sophomore forward, kept the Cougars in the ballgame by scoring 10 of Washington State's next 12 points to tighten the count to 19-16.

USC scored six straight points to pull ahead 25-16 and outscored the Cougars 12-3 in the final seven minutes of the first half to lead 39-25 at intermission.

Westra, Mike Chapman and John Lambert alternated in defending against Steve Puidokas, the Cougars talented 6-11 freshman forward who scored 22 points against the Trojans in January. They held him to three points in the first half. He had 11 for the night.

USC outscored the Cougars 10-2 in the first 2½ minutes of the second half to roll up an insurmountable 49-27 lead.

Goodrich's 28 lifts Lakers to 118-116 win

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — The Los Angeles Lakers had 28 points from Gail Goodrich and held off a furious fourth quarter charge by the Seattle Supersonics to register a 118-116 point win Saturday night in National Baksetball Association action.

Seattle fought back from a 17-point deficit late in the third quarter, 77-60, to take a 106-105 lead on a Fred Brown jumpshot with 2:48 remaining the game. Leading the Sonics' charge was Spencer Haywood with 10 of his game high 32 points.

But then Goodrich came to the Laker rescue by converting a three-point play with 2:28 remaining to give the Lakers a 108-106 lead. Goodrich scored the next four points as the Lakers built a 112-106 margin with 1:22 remaining.

Other Laker high scorers were Bill Bridges with 16 and Happy Hairston with 15. Sonic Jim Fox followed Haywood in scoring with 20 while John Hummer added 16.

Nips Northridge 85-84

Poly wins...on road!!

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

As unbelievable as it sounds considering the frustrating season the Broncos have gone through, they still have an opportunity to finish the California Collegiate Athletic Association campaign with an even 5-5 record.

Saturday's narrow 85-84 victory over Cal St. Northridge, Poly's first in 12 road games this season, gives the Pomonans a 3-5 conference record with two home games remaining next weekend against Cal St. Bakersfield and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

One thing is certain. Poly and Northridge are as even as two teams can be. Poly edged the Matadors, 95-93 in four overtimes in the first game. Saturday's rematch was just as close, with the Broncs recording the victory in the final seconds.

Northridge still had one shot left but Mike Scyphers' jumper went off the rim, and Newton grabbed the rebound with two seconds left on the clock. Newton was fouled on the rebound, but his miss of the free throw didn't matter as Northridge ran out of time.

It was a wild finish.

After Reggie Williams sank two free throws to cut Poly's lead to 83-82 with 36 seconds remaining, a brief fight broke out when Northridge's Jack Dyck and Poly's Horace Aubrey got a little physical on a jump ball call.

Dyck was charged with a technical, but Poly failed miserably to take advantage of it.

Aubrey missed the free thow and Poly's Alphonso Adair was charged with a foul for shoving when the Broncs passed the ball in to play.

"We needed that win," a happy Poly coach Don Hogan said. "I think we were a little down from losing to Fullerton Friday, but I was pleased with the way we played at the end of the game. We showed poise. It was a great pass from Carrillo to Newton. You know, we could still end up 5-5 in the league. That's not bad."

Aubrey led the Broncs with 19 points, followed by LeRoy Williams (13), Newton (13), Art Williams (12) and David Kennedy (11).

Art Williams was the big man in the second half as he scored all 12 of his points during the final 20 minutes and grabbed seven rebounds during that period. He helped Poly enjoy a big 46-28 rebounding edge with 12 rebounds total.

Poly also only committed eight turnovers, one of its lowest totals this season.

George Robnett, the CCAA's leading scorer, led Northridge with 22 points in setting a school season record with 591. Reggie Williams added 20 and Dyck contributed 18.

Northridge shot 47 per cent, making 33 of 70 shots, while Poly hit on 42 per cent with 36 of 85. The Matadors were especially tough at the free throw line in making 18 of their 22 free throws including all 10 in the second half while Poly could only make 13 of 22.

Eight valley wrestlers advance to state finals

By JIM McCONNELL
P-B Staff Writer

HUNTINGTON BEACH — Led by the efforts of Upland's Jack Glasheen, it was a banner night for local high school wrestlers in the CIF Southern Section Finals at Marina High Saturday.

Eight Pomona Valley grapplers advanced to the state CIF finals to be held next week at Cal State Hayward, which considering the caliber of competition and the fact that 100-plus schools had sent wrestlers to the Southern Section finals, was quite an achievement.

Glasheen of the Highlanders won the 115-pound class, defeating Larry Bosevear of Buena Park by a 6-1 decision in the finals.

The 115's proved to be nearly an all-local show, as Garey's Sergio Godoy nailed down a third place finish and Ontario's Roger De Santiago finished fifth. All three wrestlers now advance to the state finals.

Glasheen was nothing short of sensational in the 115-pound division, as he pinned two of his four opponents in route to the title. Godoy scored a big pin over Gerald Singh of Northview who had beaten him earlier in the year, in winning the third place award.

Paced by Glasheen, Upland wound up sixth in team scoring. West Torrance piled up a 52-39 margin over second place Mira Costa to win the team trophy. Upland had 17 points.

The win by Godoy marked the first time ever a Viking grappler had placed in CIF, let alone advanced to the state tourney.

SAL principals meet Monday

The meeting of San Antonio League principals to decide which one of the two third-place teams in the SAL basketball race will go to the CIF playoffs will be held early Monday morning, league president Louis Manville announced Saturday.

After the league season came to an end Friday night, Garey and Claremont ended up tied for third place with 8-6 records. At first it appeared the CIF officials would pass up a third place team from the SAL if there was a tie for the third spot. But CIF decided to pick a third team from the SAL, leaving it up to the league officials to decide.

Garey defeated Claremont twice in league play this season, but Claremont claimed a better seasonal record, 20-7 to Garey's 15-10. One of those two factors will probably decide it.

Ganesha and Montclair have already won berths to the playoffs, which begin Tuesday. Ganesha will host Monrovia at Mt. San Antonio College and Montclair will travel to Colton.

Messersmith signs '74 pact

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Los Angeles pitcher Andy Messersmith signed his 1974 contract Friday, leaving only four members of the Dodgers outside the fold.

The club opens spring training at Vero Beach, Fla., Wednesday.

Reliever Mike Marshall has agreed to terms although he has not inked a contract, the club said.

Rams to play 49ers on road

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — For the first time in the 22-year history of the series, the annual preseason football game between the San Francisco 49ers and Los Angeles Rams will be played in San Francisco this summer.

The date is Sept. 8 at Candlestick Park.

Stags, Hens drop league tiffs on road

Pomona-Pitzer and Claremont-Mudd both suffered cage setbacks in their next-to-last college games of the season Saturday night.

The Sagehens dropped a 49-46 SCIAC decision to Occidental while the Stags were on the short end of a 75-71 score with Whittier.

Paul Zyskowski paced the Tigers with 13 points and nine rebounds as Oxy had to stave off a late second half Hen rally.

Pomona had closed to a three point deficit with three minutes left in the game when Oxy went into a stall to preserve the win.

In going down to their eighth loss in 11 conference outings and 13th in 22 seasonal contests, Brandon Boyd led the Hens with 15 points and eight rebounds while Geoff Northrop added 12 markers while hitting only five for 21 from the floor.

Pomona was without the services of guard Norm Carter who was in Las Vegas high jumping with the Hen track team.

Whittier captured its second consecutive SCIAC championship with a four-point home court decision over Claremont-Mudd.

The Poets (10-1 and 18-7), who can duplicate last year's 11-1 record with a season finale victory Wednesday, was led by the 23-point performance of Jack Smoot while Alvin Hardin and Paul Caldwell added 14 and 12 markers, respectively.

CMC dropped to 3-8, in league play and 5-18 overall.

Red-hot Leos do it again

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

LA VERNE — The amazing La Verne basketball team did it again!

The fighting Leopards clawed their way past Redlands, Saturday night at Bonita High. The victory is the sixth straight for the red hot Leos and moves them into a tie with Redlands for second place in the conference, each with 8-3 records.

Art Bias, wearing a huge grin was waiting in the dressing room after the game. "What can I say," he exclaimed and then gestured towards his players. "They did a great job. When the chips were down, they came through."

Indeed they did. But Bias has to merit strong consideration for Coach of the Year honors.

The fighting Leos had to overcome a large number of turnovers, 23 to Redlands' 12, and something that is a rarity for them, foul trouble.

La Verne held a three-point lead, 35-32, at the half. They built it up to 43-36 4:10 into the second half.

Then they lost their momentum. In the next 11 minutes and 30 seconds they scored only three field goals. And Redlands had the lead, 50-48.

It became 52-48 on Mike Neal's two free throws. Washington's three-pointer pulled La Verne within a point, 52-51, with 3:43 left in the game. Neal made one of two free throws to make it 53-51.

Dave Castenada's bucket with 2:55 remaining tied the score, 53-53.

Carter put the Leopards ahead to stay with a bucket with 2:12 left to play. The score was 55-54. Washingon fouled out with 2:01 showing on the clock, but center Bruce Kennedy missed both free throws.

Neal was charged with his fourth foul and Bill Rockwood sank both free throws to make it 57-54. Mike Savage scored for Redlands with 1:03 left and it was 57-56.

It remained for Castenada, who didn't start until Chuck Davis quit in January, to cement the win. Castenada was fouled twice in the remaining 1:03 and sank four free throws in pressure-packed one-and-one situations.

Rockwood led all scorers with 19 points. Casenada had 14. Rockwood made eight of nine shots, all from the outside. Castenada was five of five and sank all four free throw attempts.

Final stats showed La Verne shooting 60 percent (25 of 41 to Redlands' 44 percent (27 of 61). The Leos wind up the season Wednesday night at Whittier.

Wrestlers do well in CIF's big showdown

Andy MacKnight of Chaffey showed his form in winning the third place award in the 136-pounders, while Mike Snipes of Nogales also finished third in the 148-pound class.

Mike O'Connor of Claremont was favored to due well in the 178's, but he suffered a shoulder injury in an early bout and had to withdraw. Karl Stupke of San Dimas did see to it that the Pomona Valley was represented, however, as he finished fifth in that weight division.

John Surby of Montclair finally met his match in the heavyweight division, but it did not come until the finals against Preston Stanley, who held a considerable height and weight advantage. Surby jumped off to a 2-0 lead in their championship match, but once the bigger Stanley got the upper hand there was little Surby could do.

Stanley, of Sonora High, wound up with 7-2 decision over Surby, who had pinned three earlier opponents in the finals. It was the first bout Surby had lost all year, but he will have a chance to avenge it at the State finals.

Any way one looks at it, it was a big night for the local high schools. With eight matmen going into the state meet, the local area could well come away with some more honors. Glasheen in particular might just go all the way in state, and if so he would be the first local grappler to ever accomplish that feat.

Ted Kelley of West Torrance made it a clean sweep for his school, as he won Most Valuable Wrestler of the tourney in the 148-pound class.

Accidents strike Santa Anita

The five-year-old stallion suffered compound fractures of the sesamoid bones in the left foreleg at the finish of the sixth race in which he finished third.

Gonzales was aboard Many Flags when his horse stumbled going into the stretch turn and dumped him to the ground.

At the Arcadia Methodist Hospital, the examination disclosed Gonzales had suffered a broken right collarbone. He will be sidelined for the balance of the Santa Anita meeting with the injury.

ALVARO PINEDA, one of America's top riders for the past decade, was honored Saturday at Santa Anita when he was presented the George Woolf Memorial Jockey Award for his outstanding performance and as a credit to his profession.

PRINCE DANTAN, closing with a rush in the stretch, raced to a nose victory Saturday over Forage in the 36th running of the $85,300 San Antonio Stakes at Santa Anita.

STAN SMITH and John Newcombe blasted their way into the finals of the $50,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament Saturday as Smith took less than an hour to put away second-seeded Alex Metreveli 6-3, 6-4 and Newcombe downed Brian Fairlie 6-4, 6-4.

JIMMY CONNORS, using his famous two-fisted backhand, crushed Alex Mayer 6-1, 6-1, 6-0 Saturday night to advance to the final round of the U.S. National Indoor Tennis Championship.

Connors will face Frew McMillan today after McMillan whipped Jim Delaney 6-2, 7-6, 7-5.

BJORN BORG beat Mark Cox 6-7, 7-6, 6-4 to win the singles final of the World Championship Tennis Tournament at London's Royal Albert Hall Saturday night.

Claremont's Tye Critchlow finished third in the classic and took home $4,500.

JACK PARDEE, general manager of the World Football League's Washington-Baltimore franchise, announced the signing Saturday of two assistant coaches.

Pardee said Andy Nelson and Ray Callahan will serve as defensive coaches.

RICHARD CHILDRESS turned in a speed of 89.337 miles per hour Saturday in his Chevelle to win the 11th starting position in Sunday's Richmond 500 stock car race in Virginia.

THE NEW ENGLAND WHALLERS, claiming to have lost $2 million in two years in Boston, announced Saturday that the World Hockey Association franchise will leave Boston next month and move permanently to Hartford, Conn., next year.

Long Beach buries UCSB

The 13th-ranked 49ers opened a 43-20 halftime lead and outshot the Gauchos 58 per cent to 32 per cent in the game to remain unbeaten in the PCAA with a 9-0 mark. They are 21-2 overal.

Glenn McDonald added 16 points for Long Beach while Leonard Gray had 12.

UCSB is now 6-4 and tied for second with Cal State Los Angeles in the battle for the all important runnerup spot in the PCAA.

Long Beach State is ineligible for the NCAA Far West regional because of recruiting violations and the second place team in the PCAA will advance to the playoffs.

Smith breaks vault mark

POCATELLO, Idaho (UPI) — Steve Smith, once again using his new self-made pole, vaulted to a world indoor best 18 feet, 1 3-4 inches Saturday night in the International Track Association pro meet to better the 18-1 he had set only the night before.

Panthers lose finale, 83-80

The loss had little effect on the Mission Conference standings. Second place Chafffey maintained a one-game advantage over third place Grossmont, while Riverside won its 16th conference game in a row, 101-77 over San Bernardino. Citrus dropped into a tie for last place with San Diego, losing a 71-63 decision to Southwestern.

The Panthers complete the season with a 20-7 record overall, 12-4 in conference play. Grossmont finishes with an 18-13 record overall, 11-5 in Mission play.

Phil Merenda, a sophomore making his first start at forward for Chaffey, led the second half comeback, scoring all 15 of his points in the final 20 minutes. He popped for nine of them in the last 9½ minutes as the Panthers outscored Grossmont, 24-14.

All-state forward Bob Kovach was limited to 17 points and nine rebounds, while guard Pierre Rankin led the Panthers scorers with 18 points. Center Randy Nickolei pulled down 10 rebounds.

Cal Poly tracksters post victory in season opener

POMONA — Cal Poly started its 1974 dual track season on a high note Saturday afternoon with a 110-53 romp over Azusa Pacific.

The Broncos were paced by the individual performance of sprinter Myron McGill who captured the 100, 220 and anchored both the 440 and mile relay teams.

Poly also made an impressive showing in the field events and enjoyed sweeps in the 440, high jump and 220.

Tim O'Connor enjoyed the success story of the day for the Broncs. He placed first in the hammer throw with a toss of 192-5. Last year, at this time, he recorded a 143-6 and by April threw a 198-foot effort.

The Broncs are idle until next Saturday when they hit the freeways and compete in the Long Beach Relays.

SANDBLASTER — Leonard Thompson watches his ball go for the pin through the haze of sand Saturday during the 17th hole of the Jackie Gleason-Inverrary Golf Classic. Thompson tied with Tommy Aaron and Roy Pace for the lead after three rounds of play.

Aaron, two others hold Gleason lead

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — Masters champion Tommy Aaron and two "hungry" young Southerners who never have won a major tournament, tied for the third round lead at six-under-par 210 Saturday in the $260,000 Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic.

Roy Pace, a 32-year-old Texan firing the best golf of the day, first posted a five-under-par 67 for his 210, then was followed by Aaron with a 68 and Leonard Thompson, a husky North Carolinan who carded a 69.

Three other players tied for fourth place with 211s. They were Buddy Allin and Chi Chi Rodriguez, with third round 70s, and Hale Irwin with a 69.

Kermit Zarley, the second round leader, slipped to a one-over-par 73 to head a group of five tied at 212, two strokes off the pace. The others included defending champion Lee Trevino, who scrambled to an even par 72, Jim Wiechers with a 68, and Tom Jenkins and Miller Barber, both with 70s.

The sentimental favorite of the huge gallery, 61-year-old Sam Snead, bogeyed the 17th hole when he landed two traps. He finished with a 73—213 which tied him with a half-dozen others. At the end of the day, 23 golfers were within a four-shot range of the first prize of $52,000 in this, the richest 72-hole tournament in the U.S.

At one time Saturday, there were eight shotmakers tied for the lead, indicating a mad scramble over the 7,128-yard Inverrary course Sunday for the title.

Pace, a native of Longview, Tex., has won only the 1971 satellite Magnolia tournament for his biggest paycheck to date of $7,000 even though he is in his 10th year on the tour.

"I have started off playing well this year, and today everything seemed to fall in place," the slender pro said.

He did not have to sink a putt longer than 10 feet to pick up five birdies in his round which included 13 pars and, surprisingly, no bogeys.

Aaron, who hasn't been close to victory since winning the 1973 Masters, appeared to be celebrating his 37th birthday which was Friday. He sank putts of 15 and 20 feet to collect two of his four birdies and played flawless golf until the final three holes when he scrambled to make his pars.

The 27-year-old Thompson has never won a tournament even though he collected more than $93,000 on the tour last year. He is now in his fourth year.

Thompson played erratically Saturday, collecting a double bogey six on the fourth hole and two bogeys on the back nine to go along with seven birdies.

The television audience could see the husky Southerner muttering to himself as he made his shots on the incoming nine.

Leos rally to win a pair

Clutch performances dominated Saturday's local college baseball action as La Verne and Azusa Pacific both enjoyed doubleheader sweeps while Cal Poly was losing its third straight contest at the University of Arizona.

The Leopards erupted for five runs in the ninth inning of the opener to take a 6-1 verdict and then rallied for three runs in the final frame of seven inning nightcap for a 3-1 decision.

Verhoeven pitched the complete-game victory, a seven-hit, eight-strike out mastery while Fielder clouted a ninth inning grand slam, Wayne Redfearn also had an important hand in the win, collecting two hits in four appearances while driving in a run and scoring another.

Dan Quisenberry then proceeded to stop Chapman on one run and five hits in the shortened (seven innings) nightcap.

Again the Leos last inning heroics provided the spark for victory.

Trailing 1-0, Mike Alonzo lead off the inning with a home run. Hank Merenda followed with a single which brought Art Sanchez to the plate.

The University of Arizona transfer was called on by coach Ben Hines to lay down a sacrifice bunt . . . but he missed. Sanchez then made amends by blasting a two-run homer.

Arizona battered four Cal Poly hurlers for 14 hits, including two doubles, two triples and a home run, scoring in every inning but the sixth and seventh en route to a 15-1 rout.

Poly (4-6) is idle until Friday when it opens California Collegiate Athletic Association play at UC Riverside in a 2:30 p.m. battle. The Broncs then host the Highlanders Saturday in a noon doubleheader.

Azusa Pacific (2-3) won its first games of the season with a non-league twinbill sweep over Whittier, 3-0 and 11-9 in 10 innings.

Mike Jones hurled an eight-hit shutout in the opener and Ted Dominguez collected two of the Cougars' seven hits.

Dominguez drove in both of APC's first inning runs with a single and scored the sixth inning tally after singling and riding home on John Tully's triple.

Bobby Nall's two RBI's tied the second game 9-9 in the ninth. Chuck Van Schoyck tripled home a run in the 10th and then scored the final run on Billy Story's single.

Claremont-Mudd split a doubleneader at Point Loma, winning the seven inning opener, 2-1, and dropping a 9-3 decision in the nightcap.

Mike Bruno hurled a two-hitter in the Stags' win and Andy Roundtree blasted a game-winning home run to left in the seventh. Gary Rattet collected three hits in four at-bats.

Pt. Loma took advantage of five Stag errors in the nightcap despite Jim Mullowney's roundtripper. Rattet picked up two more hits to run his three game totals to seven hits in 13 at bat.

Nash voted to All-SCC second team

WALNUT Mt. San Antonio College center Gary Nash was picked for the All-South Coast Conference second team this week by a vote of conference coaches.

Nash, a slender 6-foot-10 spohomore who never played high school basketball, was the only Mountie player selected to the All-South Coast squad. He led the conference in rebounding with an average of nearly 15 per game and was in the top 10 in scoring with a 19.6 average.

Other selectees included Cerritos' 6-foot-8 center Al Fruwirth who was a first team selection and the choice of coaches as the most valuable player in the conference.

Champion Santa Ana placed one player on the first and two in the second team. Runnerup Orange Coast had two first team selections. Forward Bobby Angel was the first team choice for the Dons, while forward Paul Lacher and guard Mike Adams was a second team pick.

First Team
Center — Al Fruwirth (6-8, 220), Cerritos; Forwards — James Robinson (6-6, 205), San Diego Mesa; Bobby Angel (6-4, 200), Santa Ana; Bob Manker (6-4, 200), Orange Coast; Guard — Tom Crunk (6-2, 180), Orange Coast.
Most Valuable Player — Al Fruwirth, Cerritos

Second Team
Center — Gary Nash (6-10, 202) MSAC; Forwards — Jeff Hutton (6-4, 175), Fullerton; Paul Lacher (6-5, 195), Santa Ana; Guards — Randy Small (6-3, 185), Cerritos; Mike Adams (6-2, 175), Santa Ana.

Chaffey romps in Mission opener

Chaffey College exploded for 21 hits, including six home runs, as the Panthers destroyed Saddleback 20-9 in their Mission Conference opener.

Gary Wagoner, who ended the day with nine runs batted in, blasted a two-run shot in the first, a double in the third, a fourth inning grand slam, and a three-run clot in the fifth.

Dennis Hawkins chimed in with three hits, including a homer and two RBI's, Dave Hill was three-for-six, Ralph Valadez picked up two hits, including a home run and Dave Chavez was two for three.

The Panthers, 1-0 in league and 6-3 overall, received a complete game decision from Greg Baughman (2-2, 1-0), and the team stole four more bases to run its season totals to 41 thefts in 44 attempts.

Chaffey visits San Bernardino Tuesday in a 2:30 p.m. Mission affair.

MSAC frosh defeat sophs

WANUT — Mt. San Antonio College warmed up for the Long Beach Relays next Saturday with its annual frosh-soph meet Friday afternoon, won by the freshmen, 64-61.

Bob Kramer paced the frosh with a double victory, taking the 220 in 22.6 and the 440 in 50 flat. Stan Bland, a freshman from Pomona High, took tw events also, winning the long jump with a leap of 21-feet, 4 inches, and the triple jump in 43-7.

Kings fight for 4-4 tie

MONTREAL (UPI — Don Kozak and Tom Williams scored for Los Angeles in the last three minutes of the game Saturday night as the Kings fought back to earn a 4-4 tie with the Montreal Canadiens.

The Kings were trailing 4-2 when Kozak, racing along the board, beat Montreal goalie Bunny Larocque with a 40-footer at 17:36. Less than two minutes later Williams tied the game as he picked up Gene Carr's pass from the corner of the rink.

Defenseman Guy Lapointe scored a power play goal and added another while the Canadiens were shorthanded, but it wasn't enough as the Kings snapped their five-game losing streak and kept alive their playoff hopes in the NHL West.

Lapointe's 60-foot drive in the opening period with Frank St. Marseille in the penalty box knotted the count 1-1 after Butch Goring had scored a shorthanded goal for the Kings.

Pomona's Red team triumphs

POMONA — Pomona High's track team enjoyed a finger-lickin good performance Saturday afternoon when the Red team downed the White team, 74½ to 42½, in a Chicken and Bean intrasquad meet.

The top performances of the day were turned in by Ken Dent, who won the one and two mile runs (4:29—9:54), Andre Hall enjoyed wins in the 120 high's (14.9) and 180 low's (19.8) while Arthur Hodges won the high jump (6-2) and long jump (22-0).

The Red Devils travel to Fontana for a non-league meet Tuesday at 3 p.m.

The intrasquad meet was sponsored by Primal Meet Company.

Tee to cup

A sharpshooting golfer—or a lucky one—can win an eight-day Hawaiian for two vacation in the Cal 500 Golf Invitational.

The 18-hole, shotgun tournament (blastoff is at 10:30 a.m.) will be played Friday, March 8, at Ontario National Golf Club.

The first contestant to make a hole-in-one on the par-3, 185-yard 16th hole will be the recipient of an eight-day vacation at the Waikiki Surf Hotel at Waikiki Beach.

Trade Wind Tours of Hawaii will handle the arrangements, and the winner will be flown round-trip aboard a Continental Airlines DC-10. If no one makes a hole-in-one, the player closest to the hole will receive the vacation plan.

The entry fee for this charity event is $100. Besides the shot at the Hawaiian vacation, a $100 sponsor receives two $20 tickets to the California 500 Race, two invitations to the Awards Presentation Party, free greens fees and cart, tee prizes and a chance to win individual and team wood celebrities and outstanding athletes.

Entry forms and further information may be obtained by contacting Helen Palmieri at the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, Box 31, Ontario, Calif. 91761. The telephone number is (714) 984-2458.

Lions International Clubs are selling tickets, priced at $2. Chairman Don Stone said proceeds will go to the Lions Sight Conservation Projects. Tickets are available at the OMSC as well as the Chamber of Commerce and Ontario National Golf Club.

Other women's club winners in recent tournaments were Marie Muchmore and Lucille Connors, who shot 67 and 53, respectively for low gross and low net honors in the low-gross-low net event. Phyllis Bass won the better nine tournament with a 25½ and Nancy Smith was second with 26.

In the blind partners event, Ardy Monroe and Joan Eggington tied for first with 122 while Della McCuiston and Lucille Connors tied for second with 125.

PHIL ROCHE, able Covina High golf coach and P-B deskman, watched his team beat Upland, 237-203 in a recent non-league golf match. Unfortunately, Phil dropped a 40-42 decision to his counterpart at Upland, Pat Bandy. Both are excellent golfers. Phil say he'll get Bandy the next time they meet. The matches were played at Marshall Canyon.

Moore leads 'Pack victory

CLAREMONT —Freshman Jimmy Moore, for the second straight swim meet, was a triple winner as Claremont routed Redondo Beach 114-55 Friday afternoon in a non-league meet at the Wolfpack pool.

Moore won the 200 yard freestyle in a time of 1:57.6, the 500 yard freestyle in 5:19.5 and swam on the free relay team.

Other fine performances were turned in by Tracey O'Neill and Julie Bailey, who finished second and fourth, respectively, in the diving event.

The Wolves, 1-0 in league and 3-3 overall, visit West Covina Monday in a non-league double-dual meet and travel to Chino Wednesday for a league battle.

Track boosters elect officers

Paul Boettcher is president. Bill Hill is vice president. The group elected three secretaries. They are Mrs. Amanda Harris, Mrs. Oletha Short, and Mrs. Myrtle Dent.

The organization announced that over $100 in donations was raised. The money is slated to be used for boys' activities and to buy shoes for some of the boys.

The group plans a "Las Vegas" night and will soon announce a rummage sale to be held at the school.

Won last seven

Nolan Ryan won his last seven decisions with complete games to finish with a 21-victory total. The seven wins in a row as well as the seven consecutive complete games are club records.

Harlem Clowns play Ontario High Alumni

ONTARIO — The Harlem Clowns will perform in the Ontario High Gymnasium on Friday, March 8, at 8 p.m. in a basketball game against the Ontario Alumni.

Opening the night's activities will be a 7 p.m. contest between the Girls Athletic Association's A basketball team and the Ontario girls' Alumni team. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m.

Some of the Alumni contacted for the game include members of the Hacienda League championship 1971 team including "Tops" Chalupnik, Dennis Haskvitz, Wendel Humphrey, Myron Lutz, Jim Miller, Doug Pearson, Terry Pugh and Alex Reid.

Opening the night's activities will be a 7 p.m. contest between the Girls Athletic Association's A basketball team and the Ontario girls' Alumni team. Doors will open at 6:30 p.m.

Price of admission is $2 for adults, $1.50 for students with student body card and $1 for children under 12. Tickets are on sale at the Ontario High Students' Store plus the Chaffey College Book Store.

Sponsored by the Ontario High Booster Club, proceeds will be used to purchase medals and trophies for the outstanding athletes and academic students at the school. Purchasing the film for movies of the football games is another service of the club.

Prep coaches honored at football workshop

Hitchcock has won four consecutive California Interscholastic Federation championships, and has posted a 128-19-4 record in his 14 years as head coach.

Hamilton has won Foothill League and Pacific League championships in eight of the last 10 seasons, recording a 112-28-1 mark in his 14 years as head coach.

According to Pasadena City College football coach Myron Tarkanian and assistant coach Harvey Hyde, who are coordinating the meeting, nine coaches in all will be on the agenda, including head coaches Jim Carlen of Texas Tech, Frank Kush of Arizona State, Bill Yeoman of Houston and Barry Switzer of Oklahoma.

Rounding out the program are Claude Gilbert of San Diego State, Al Baldock of Los Angeles City College, Ernie Johnson of Cerritos College, Marijon Ancich of St. Paul High School and Ralph Vidal of Gardena High School.

Both the mental and physical mechanics of the triple option will be explored by Switzer, whose Sooners posted a 10-0-1 mark in the coach's rookie season, including a 52-13 thrashing of Southwest Conference Champion Texas and a 27-0 pasting of Cotton Bowl victor Nebrasha, on Friday's program.

Saturday morning's program is comprised of discussions on pass defense by Vidal, morale by Johnson and total defense by Ancich.

On the final day, Gilbert will unveil offensive philosophy and pass offense specifically to the group—these techniques resulted in a 9-1-1 ledger last year for the Aztecs.

Wrapping up the clinic will be Kush's observations on the need for discipline plus a glimpse of Arizona State's trapping game that has averaged more than 300 yards and more than 41 points a game during the last four seasons.

According to Tarkanian and Hyde, tuition for the clinic is $18. Reservations may be made directly with them at Pasadena City College.

Third in history

Nolan Ryan of the Angels became the third pitcher in baseball history to strike out 300 or more batters in consecutive seasons. Rube Waddell (1903-04) and Sandy Koufax (1965-66) are the only others to accomplish the feat. Ryan joined Waddell, Walter Johnson (1910 and 1912) and Sam McDowell (1965 and 1970 as American Leaguers with two 330 plus strikeout seasons.

Kings' Rota just watching

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — After three years in pro hockey's minor leagues, Randy Rota made it to the big time this season.

But in his first year with the Los Angeles Kings, the 5-foot-8 left wing has been doing something he hasn't done much of in his hockey career—sitting on the bench.

"I guess everybody goes through it," said the 23-year-old Rota, "but it's tough sitting there watching. It's more frustrating than anything.

"It was a dream when I first got here, but it has worn off quite a bit now. You do learn by watching, and I'm sure it'll help me in the future."

Rota, who came to the Kings prior to the 1973-74 season in a trade with Montreal, has appeared in 39 games this season, scoring eight goals and four assists. In his three minor league seasons, two with Nova Scotia and one with Providence, Rota totaled 65, 55 and 72 points.

"I came to the Kings' camp knowing I had to prove myself to make the team," Rota said. "I worked hard during the summer and did a lot of road work. This is my big opportunity and I didn't want to lose a chance at making the team.

"I'd rather be playing now than watching, because I feel I can only learn to correct my mistakes by playing. This game is so much easier to watch than it is to play."

Rota, small by the standards of the increasingly physical National Hockey League, has gotten over his worries that his size would hold him back.

"At first when I came into the league I thought it was really going to hurt me," he said. "I've found it may be a disadvantage in the corners. But I rely on my skating and shooting game. I feel I can skate with most of the guys in the league.

"I've been on three different teams and every time they talk about the guy to watch out for on an opposing team, it's a smaller guy. He can do more damage to you than a bigger player."

Rota also has managed to seay away from hockey's growing ranks of thugs.

"They can't hit you if you keep moving," he said. "And I can't see a bigger guy picking on a much smaller guy anyway."

Rota has watched his team move into contention for a spot in the playoffs after a slow start. The Kings meet the Vancouver Canucks at the Forum here tonight.

"We shouldn't miss making the playoffs if we can keep the same pace up," Rota said. "We're more of a hitting team, now, more aggressive. The name of the game is to be aggressive. We're getting the breaks too."

Baseball mini-clinics slated at Garey High

The class (or mini-clinics) will meet every Wednesday night from 7-10 p.m. in Room 104 at Garey High. The class is under the auspices of the Pomona Unified School District's Adult Education program.

The purpose of the class is to orient the youth baseball coaches in the Pomona Valley to the finer skills and techniques of coaching baseball.

The classes will begin next Wednesday night with registration from 6:30-7 p.m. Pomona Post 30 American Legion baseball coach Woody Hansen will then speak on the topic of baserunning.

The following week, Citrus College baseball coach Skip Claprood will discuss hitting. The third week will feature Edgewood High baseball coach Gary Kretz, whose topic will be pitching.

Other speakers scheduled to attend the classes include Rio Hondo Junior College coach Jerry Schlegelmilch (practice organization, first base play and infield play), Fred Yanez (defensive team drills), Los Altos High coach Chuck Calver (double play combinations and infield drills), Ontario High coach Bob Beck (philosophy of coaching baseball) and Mt. San Antonio College assistant baseball coach Bill Kagy (catching).

The costs to attend the classes is $2.50 for persons 21 years of age or older and 25 cents for persons under 21.

Thirty high schools to enter Amat Relays

WALNUT — Thirty Southern California high schools, including Damien and Walnut, have been named to participate in the 12th Annual Bishop Amat Invitational Relays, scheduled for Mt. San Antonio College on March 30.

More than 1000 prep athletes will represent the schools in field and track seeded competition made up in the fast-moving 62 event program.

Contestants are seeded for each event according to their best 1974 performances and grouped with others of comparable ability. Each event then becomes a final "automatically" and awards are made to top finishers in every race and field event.

Without the trial runs of the elimination process, the track events move with machine-like precision, starting at noon and closing with the wrap-up competition at 4:30 p.m.

Field events get under way at 11:30 a.m. for both seeded divisions.

The other 28 schools competing in the Relays include: Alhambra, Bassett, Baldwin Park, Bishop Amat, Bosco Tech, Cathedral, Covina, Edgewood, Gladstone, Glendale, Glenn, La Habra, La Puente, Los Altos, Lowell, Loyola, Mater Dei, Monrovia, Notre Dame, Saddleback, St. Anthony, St. Francis, St. Paul, Santa Ana Valley, Schurr, Warren, West Covina and La Puente Wilson.

Football clinic offers leading prep coaches

NORWALK —The 17th Annual Southern California Interscholastic Football Coaches Association (SCIFCA) Football Clinic will be held Saturday and Sunday, March 2 and 3, at Cerritos College.

The clinic will feature two out-of-state high school football coaches. One is Gerry Faust of Moeller High in Cincinnati and the other is John Clark of Plano High in Dallas.

Each coach will discuss his football program and how he has been able to achieve success.

The clinic is free to 1973-74 members of the SCIFCA. Non-members will be assessed a $7 clinic fee. Anyone interested in the game of football is invited to attend the two-day football clinic.

Old master

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Early Wynn won his 300th major league victory in 1963 at the age of 43. Wynn, who pitched for Washington, Chicago and Cleveland, had five 20-game winning seasons, and was a Cy Young Award winner during his 23-season career in the American League.

Big week for NFL owners

MIAMI (UPI) — This could be a very important week for pro football fans in Seattle, Tampa, Memphis and Phoenix.

National Football League owners conduct their annual meeting this week and one of the major topics on the agenda is expansion. And those four cities are the leading candidates for inclusion should the NFL decide to expand from its current 26-team setup.

The birth of the new 12-city World Football league may hasten the league's plans to expand.

Dan Rooney of the Pittsburgh Steelers heads the four-man expansion committee, which includes Gerald Phipps of Denver, Tex Schramm of Dallas and Lou Spadia of San Francisco, and he'll report the findings of the year-old committee.

All four cities are confident of being awarded franchises. Seattle is building the modern King County Stadium and already has set up facilities for "The Seattle Kings." Former NFL star Hugh McElhenny is one of the key members of the group.

Tampa is planning to expand its stadium to 60,000 and possibly 70,000 seats and has averaged better than 42,000 Fans for NFL pre-season games in the current 46,500-seat setup.

Phoenix, probably the fastest growing city in the southwest, is in an area untouched by pro football, while Memphis recently turned down overtures by a WFL group in hope of landing an NFL franchise. Memphis officials claim they can provide an 82,000-seat stadium if a franchise is awarded.

All the cities already have long season ticket lists ready should the NFL make its move.

The owners will also decide on their plan of action for the upcoming labor contract meetings with the NFL Players Association. The players are seriously talking strike over such items as pre-season pay, abolition of the current training camp setup and free agent status of players and Cleveland Browns owner Art Modell, for one, has predicted, "the most difficult negotiations we've ever had".

One other key decision this week will be one the site for the next Super Bowl. It was awarded to Louisiana's new Superdome last April but labor problems have caused construction to drag and it may not be ready for the Jan. 12 title game. Commissioner Pete Rozelle has inspected the site and will report on the progress.

Should the NFL decide not to play in the Superdome, Rozelle has indicated that it will not be played in Tulane Stadium, site of two previous Super Bowls, but moved instead to another city, probably Los Angeles. Miami has been awarded the 1976 game as part of the nation's bicentennial celebration.

No rules changes are expected since the competition committee doesn't meet in full session until next month but one interesting item under consideration is changing the drafting order.

Currently, teams draft in inverse order of their final standings, with the exception of the Super Bowl teams, who select last. NFL owners will weigh a proposal that the eight playoff teams occupy the last eight slots, regardless of records, in order to provide more balance.

The meetings are expected to run through Friday and then will be adjoured until May in New York.

Podoloff, two others added to basketball's Hall of Fame

SPRINGFIELD, Mass. (UPI) — Maurice Podoloff, the first commissioner of the National Basketball Association, and two other pioneers from the game's early years have been named to the National Basketball Hall of Fame, it was announced Saturday.

Joining Podoloff in basketball's shrine are the late Harry Fisher, a star player for Columbia University in the early 1900's who went on to even greater fame as a coach at his alma mater and later at West Point; and Ernie Schmidt, a standout player for Kansas State College in the early 1930's and later a star performer in AAU competition.

The trio will be enshrined in the Hall of Fame here on Wednesday, April 24, 1974.

Podoloff is credited with bringing stability to professional basketball through his patient efforts in the late 1940's. A Russian-born lawyer from New Haven, Conn., Podoloff was president of the American Hockey League in 1946 when he was summoned to head the newly-organized Basketball Association of America.

Although not a basketball fan himself, he had excellent leadership qualities and the BAA became the first pro basketball league to have a national interest. In 1949 the BAA merged with the National Basketball League to form the NBA and Podoloff was chosen as the first commissioner.

During his years as commissioner he brought guidance and stability to the league and also landed the first television contract in 1954 for $3,000 a game.

Fisher, who was born in 1882 and died in 1967, was allconference selection as a player for Columbia in 1904-05, and from 1906 through 1916 he coached the Lions to a record of 105-39.

Later he coached West Point for three seasons and posted a 46-5 record. His 1923 Army team was undefeated and eventually won 33 consecutive games.

Schmidt was generally recognized as the greatest all-around player of his day in the Midlands. Throughout his playing days in junior high school, high school and college he never played on anything but a championship team.

Born in 1911 in Nashville, Kan., he attended Winfield (Kan.) High School where he made all Ark-Valley Conference and all-state for three years while leading his team to three straight state titles. Moving on to Kansas State College he played four years of varsity basketball and was an allconference selection each year.

Kansas State also won the conference crown for all four seasons and at one time won 48 consecutive games, an NCAA record that stood until the Bill Russell-led San Francisco Dons broke the mark in the mid 1950's.

Schmidt later performed for the Denver Pigley Wigleys and was selected as a second team AAU All-American in 1932.

QUINTESSENCE

by Florence Minto

Cruise craze! Everybody's doing it! Every sailing on the ISLAND PRINCESS and SPIRIT OF LONDON to Acapulco is heavily booked in advance. ISLAND PRINCESS can offer limited space on their 7-day cruises for April 12, 19, and 26 to Mazatlan, Puerto Vallarta, and Cabo San Lucas. We can still offer 4-berth family staterooms on the MARIPOSA sailing from Los Angeles on July 2 on its' 18-day cruise round trip to Hawaii and the outer islands. The gimmick is that the third and fourth person in the same room travels FREE. Staterooms which can accommodate the extra berths start at $1895 per adult so for $3780 a family of four, or two couples, or four strangers, can have a glorious 18 days heaven-sent to Paradise. Special Spring Bonus cruises of May 6 and May 27 spend two additional days in the islands and also include a day in San Diego at no additional charge. Rates begin at $1585 each in a two-berth room.

Our 8-day MAZATLAN "MANANA" junkets will be offered again. The Hotel Playa Del Rey will be used on April 14 and 21 departures, and Hotel Playa De Mazatlan will be used on April 28 departure. The tour price is $288 each and includes round trip jet air fare from Los Angeles to Mazatlan; hotel accommodations based on two persons sharing an air-conditioned twin-bedded room with private bath; full breakfast and dinner each day at hotel; city sightseeing tour; airport transfers/baggage handling and porterage fees at airport and hotel. The price is based on a group inclusive air fare. We will secure Mexican Tourist Cards when furnished proof of citizenship. Call POMONA TRAVEL AGENCY, 623-6474 "Pronto" for reservations.

STOP PRESS — All bookings under deposit or full payment at close of business on Feb 28 for "MARIPOSA" and "MONTEREY" will be exempt from new Fuel Surcharge of $5 per day per person.

Best gains in five months posted

Helped largely by hopes for a speedy end to the Arab oil embargo, the Dow Jones industrial average climbed 35.67 to 855.99, the entire advance occurring in the week's last three sessions. The gain in the blue chip indicator was the largest since the week ended last Sept. 21.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was ahead 3.12 to 95.39, and the NYSE index added 1.67 to 51.00.

Buying attention centered on oils, chemicals and natural resource stocks, but the rally was broadly based. Issues gaining in price topped losers, 1,320 to 429, out of 1,955 stocks traded.

The nation's many economic uncertainties kept enthusiasm low key, however. Volume for four sessions totaled 57,609,430 shares, compared with 61,718,200 a week earlier, and with 58,935,570 the year before.

Unquestionably, the key issue for most investors this week, as for 1974 so far, was the Arab oil embargo. On Monday, the Dow ran up a gain of 16 points in the opening hour on reports Egyptian and Saudi Arabian ministers would have "good news" at their meeting that day with President Nixon. The index gave up that entire advance, closing 0.78 lower, when the meeting failed to produce an instant solution to the embargo problem.

It was learned, though, that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger soon would be off on another Middle East peace mission, primarily to start the machinery of troop disengagement talks between Israel and Syria. That news apparently sparked hopes for the rest of the week that some progress would be made in ending the oil stoppage.

Technical market factors came into play during the week's rally, particularly shortcovering and bargain hunting, according to Bache & Co. analyst Larry Wachtel. But again, the bargain hunting was spurred by the belief that if an end to the embargo comes soon, the smart money would already be in the market.

Oil and energy-related stocks in particular benefited from the optimistic mood. Schlumberger spurted 13, Murphy Ail 10⅛, Getty 12, Atlantic Richfield 3¾, Exxon 2¾, and Mobil 2¼.

Halliburton, an oil field service stocck, climbed 13½ as the week's biggest gainer. The company increased its quarterly dividend by two cents to 30 cents a share.

Soviet workers receive raises

MOSCOW (UPI) — The government has decreed pay raises of up to 20 per cent for workers in the heavily industrialized Urals region of the Soviet Union.

There was no specific reason for the boost.

Language, cultural differences continue to divide the Belgians

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The signs for the town read "Mons" in Wallonia, "Bergen" in Flanders and "Mons-Bergen" in Brussels. All point in the same direction.

The signs are symbolic of the fact that here are two official languages in Belgium—French and Dutch.

It has tended during the nation's 144 years of independence to divide the country into French-speaking and Dutch-speaking societies, even to the point of bringing down governments.

The problem stems from Belgium's history of being traded off among empires until the 19th Century. Belgium was an annexation of France until it was united with The Netherlands in 1815-1830. When the country gained independence in 1830, the educated classes in Flanders used the French language and the lower classes used only Dutch.

The government in 1962 passed a law that roughly divided the country across the middle, leaving Brussels' province of Brabant a bilingual island between the two sectors.

The four Dutch-speaking provinces of Limburg, Antwerp, East and West Flanders lie to the north and west and the French-speaking provinces of Namur, Liege, Luxembourg and Hainaut in Wallonia to the south.

The dual language road signs, menus, cinema billings, department store directories, public transport schedules and commercial advertisements throughout Brussels are silent reminders that the debate has reached only compromise, not solution.

"There is no law voted on yet, although it is in the works, to add other languages such as German and English to the road signs throughout Brabant. But there is an enforced law that all road signs in Brussels and its 18 suburbs be in both official Belgian languages— Dutch and French," a spokesman for the Public Works Department explained.

"This law was enacted in 1962 when Belgium was divided into regions according to the majority's language," he said. "Therefore, we must have both the Dutch and French name of the towns on all the signs, although it can be confusing at times."

Sensitive subject

Often in the suburbs, the Dutch name will be painted over in a show of preference by a French-speaking group and the next week, in retaliation, the French spelling will be blotted out.

The language debate carries some of the same sensitivity involved in racial or religious disputes because it touches the nerve of ancestral pride and heritage, and filters down through politics, education and economics.

Several of the 21 post-war governments have fallen because of deadlock over the problem or have stumbled when the compromise of coexistence has faltered.

Over the years, it has been the French-speaking sector which traditionally has controlled and dominated executive, managerial and ownership positions in business, government and education.

But during the past few decades, the Flemings have made some progress in eradicating the idea they are second class citizens incapable of being equals. They comprise more than half of the nation s 9.7 million population.

Dispute continues

In recent years there has been a steady decline in the number of French-speakers. In 1947, they made up 34.5 per cent of the population, 33.6 per cent in 1960 and 32 per cent in 1970, according to census figures.

The Flemings' insistence in 1968 that 10,000 French-speaking students and professors leave the University of Louvain —which is in Flemish territory —brought down the government.

Most recently in September, 1973, the government passed a law making Dutch the obligatory language in all businesses in Flemish areas.

But the dispute over the question etched on a World War I memorial in Diksmuide, 70 miles west of Brussels in Dutch-speaking West Flanders, remains:

Mrs. Braudrick, police said, rammed the North Hollywood district station repeatedly with her car last month, crashing through the doors and battering out the doorframe. After each blow she backed up, took aim and accelerated into the building again, as officers took cover behind a counter, police said.

Geological Survey keeps check on volcanoes

MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists at the U.S. Geological Survey are monitoring 16 volcanoes in four states and four foreign countries for quick warning if there should be any sign of activity.

The Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS) Data Collection System, as the monitoring project is called, uses seismic counters and tiltmeters to transmit information to a satellite which in turn relays the information to ground tracking stations at Goldstone, Calif., and the Goddard Spaceflight Center in Maryland.

This data is processed at Goddard and then relayed within 90 minutes by teletype to the National Center for Earthquake Research at the U.S. Geological Survey at Menlo Park.

"The number of earthquakes and ground tilts typically increase before ground eruption —somewhat like a blister before it bursts,"s aid Peter L. Ward, one of five scientists working on the program. 'But there is no way to predict an eruption no matter how many instruments you have."

Ward said ultimate prediction of eruptions is one of the goals of the program but he emphasized that at present it is not possible to forecast them.

Quake increases

Scientists have observed a sharp increase in the number of earthquakes around a volcano and a change in ground tilt before an eruption, but there have been occasions when increasing temblors didn't result in an eruption.

"If we continue to collect the data we ve been getting, we'll be able to double the amount we know about volcanoes," Ward said.

"The unique feature of the system is that we're able to do something that wasn't feasible before —to collect data from all over the world.

"What we're doing is finding an inexpensive way of monitoring activity at many volcanoes and giving an early warning of activity."

Before, routine observations had been feasible at only a few volcanoes. Besides the prohibitive cost of constructing and maintaining an observatory — often at remote and inaccessble areas —Ward said that interest in an observatory was often spurred after there has been an eruption. By the time an observatory was built, the volcano might be inactive.

Battery operated

Ward and his colleagues are monitoring volcanoes St. Augustine and Iliamna in Alaska; Kilauea in Hawaii; Baker, Rainier and St. Helens in Washington, and Lassen in California.

In cooperation with local scientists, the system was completed at volcanoes Santiaguito, Fuego, Agua and Pacaya in Guatemala, Izalco in El Salvador and San Cristobal, Telica and Cerro Negro in Nicaragua in April, 1973.

And they are also monitoring a volcano in Iceland.

The seismic counters and tiltmeters run on batteries that need to be changed only about once a year. Ward said the compactness, portability and low power consumption of the instruments makes them practical for operation in remote locations during all types of environmental extremes.

The scientific team hasn't yet had a chance to test the early warning capabilities of the system. Volcano Fuego in Guatemala erupted nine days after the equipment was installed there in February, 1973. But teletypes to the survey were not set up and by the time the scientists received data of high seismic activity prior to the eruption, the eruption was over.

An eruption at Kilauea in Hawaii occurred just about the time the team had started receiving data and Pacaya in Guatemala has been very active for about two years.

"What we're looking for are long-term changes," Ward said.

Scientists estimate that there are more than 500 historically active volcanoes in the world. Ward says it would be possible to install the system at 1,000 volcanoes throughout the world for a cost of $2.2 million per year for five years.

"The $2.2 million," Ward said, "would include the cost of all the equipment and would include all the gathering of the data. That kind of money could be spent by many countries."

Chess

It's simple; just do it

There is a certain kind of player who has appeared on rare occasions in the history of chess. He is the strict logician, who will achieve a slight advantage and then with relentless technique and subtle ingenuity subdue his opponent.

The clarity and simplicity of Capablanca's play established him as supreme in this category. Bobby Fischer has been compared to Capablanca many times but his play is too rich in overt tactical complexities and too eclectic for him to be considered of the same genre.

Recently a man (or a boy, if you wish — he's 22), has established a style that invites comparison. He is Anatole Karpov, of course, who many think will be Boris Spassky's main obstacle on his long journey back to the world championship. Karpov is especially an anomaly today, when contemporary players shun "simplicity" for daredevil battle.

This is not to say that Karpov is not tough and aggressive but his play is unique for his ability to achieve clear goals with a minimum of means and elegance of execution. If you want a textbook lesson on how to play chess, study Karpov's games.

(Diagram 1)

Here's a case in point. Consider the position given in diagram one. White has just played 1. RxR, capturing black's (Karpov's) rook at Q5. White's rook must be recaptured. Most players would play . . . RxR, which would 1) avoid an isolated pawn (a potential target) and 2) keep the queen file open so as to cut off the white king.

But Karpov is an especially clear thinker. Static generalizations did not guide his thinking here. He played PxR. Karpov judged that the isolation of the queen pawn is irrelevant. In fact, the black king can more easily defend it at Q4. Even more important, the black pawn at Q4 will prevent white's bishop pawn from advancing and interfering with black's plans. A pawn ahead, Karpov has defined his essential task as the exchange of his queen knight pawn for white's queen rook pawn. Then his "passed" queen rook pawn should make the win easy. In this light, the blocking of the queen file is also an issue of non-consequence.

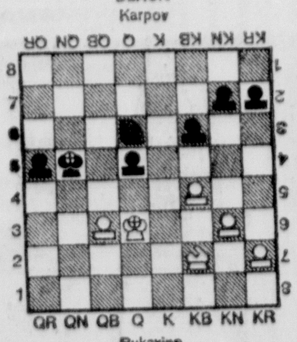
White "breaks through"; black gives up

Five more moves pass. Karpov has prepared the breakthrough, as seen in our second diagram. He now plays 7 . . . P-QN4. After 8. PxP RxP, Rukavina gives up the ghost.

Aware of Karpov's merciless technique, he realizes that the extra black pawn is too powerful. If yu're not convinced try the line: 9. RxR, KxR. Look at our third position. The black knight will go to QB and force the white king to the extreme queenside. The kingside will then succumb to a black invasion.

(Diagram 3)



It's all over; try it

She stuck with flute

By JEAN ADAMS

FLUTE SONG: (Comment) A girl who wrote you wanted to quit taking flute. I also started on the flute in fifth grade and did not particularly care for it the first two years. But in the seventh grade the school got a new band director.

I took lessons from him for two years and played in a lot of concerts and earned trophies too. Now I'm 15 and still playing. I really enjoy it and have worked hard at it. Last year at audition I made first part, third in county, in All-Aroostook. This year I again made first part.

I find my flute a way to communicate. I meet many people by it. I wish I could convince that New York girl to love it as much.—Music Lover in Maine.

(A.) It's beautiful to find fullfillment in music, a hobby that can give pleasure to so many others. Many teenagers have been able to turn hobbies they love into paying careers. This is what I've done with writing. I have received much happiness and satisfaction from it.

FINDING OUT: (Q.) I would like to know how you can tell if a girl likes you for a boy friend or not.—Curious in Alabama

(A.) The best way to start finding out is to ask the girl for a date. If she says yes it may not mean that she wants you for a boy friend. But at least it tells you that she is willing to try being more than just a friend to you. If you get along well on the date, others can follow, and your friendship can grow.

Birth decline in U.S. laid to abortions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two years experience with New York state's liberalized abortion law indicates legalized abortion has contributed to a decline in the birth rate in the United States, according to the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc.

Citing figures for New York City, the Federation notes that, taking into account changes in the age distribution of the population, births in New York City declined between 1970 and 1972 by 25 per cent, or 7,809.

"Of these," according to the Federation, "about one-half (between 17,000 and 21,000 avoided births) were directly attributable to impact of the state's liberalization of the abortionlaw in1970."

For the United States as a whole, a 6 per cent decline in the birth rate was reported for 1970-71 against an 11.7 per cent decline in California and 12 per cent in New York state.

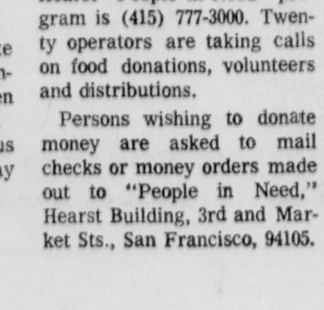
"While a number of forces determine fertility,' the Federation noted, "the far steeper drops in New York and California after reform of state abortion laws compared with over-all U.S. decline suggest that legal abortion was a factor."

A Louis Harris poll taken in April 1973 surveyed a national sample as to whether people favored or opposed the U.S. Supreme Court decision making abortions up to three months of pregnancy legal. It reported that 52 per cent favored the decision, 41 were opposed to it and 7 per cent were undecided.

Wet metal

Mercury will not solidify until frozen to minus 38.85 degrees Centigrade, or become a gas until boiled at 356.9 degrees C. Glass dipped in liquid mercury emerges dry. The "metal of a thousand uses" is produced at an annual rate of 10,000 tons.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS



Johann Sebastian Bach was a German musician and composer known for his church organ music. Describing his music, Bach wrote: "The aim and final reason ... of all music ... should be none else but the Glory of God and the recreation of the mind." He added: "Where this is not observed, there will be no real music but only a devilish hubbub," The World Alamanc notes.

M-A-S-H star far different from character he portrays

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Larry Linville is every bit as square as Maj. Frank Burns, the humorless fathead he portrays in the "M-A-S-H" television series, but that is the only common characteristic the two share.

Major Burns, although married to a girl back in the states, has a passionate crush on Hotlips Hoolihan in the series.

Linville, on the other hand, is a devoted husband to his wife of 12 years, actress Kate Geer. She is the daughter of actor Will Geer, the garrulous grandfather in "The Waltons' series.

Until "M-A-S-H" came along Linville's prospects weren't too bright. Their house is one of many in a middle class development in the San Fernando valley. There are no real luxuries nor can he afford servants.

Larry mows the lawn himself and helps with the housework. Not infrequently the Linvilles go to the supermarket together, taking along their daughter, Kelly, 5.

A large, covered porch is the focal point of Larry's offhour activities. It is occupied by a full-sized glider in the process of being built —and has been for the better part of a year.

Larry got the gliding bug as an 11-year-old in Sacramento, Calif. Pilots at a local airfield befriended him and took the boy aloft. By the time he was 13 years old he had soloed.

Since that time Larry has had his heart set on owning a glider. He couldn't afford to buy one, so he is now nearing completion of his dream.

One of Larry's friends is Bill Conrad, the star of "Cannon," who is also a glider buff. They enjoy getting together and comparing notes on the thermals in various parts of the country.

Larry has converted one of the three bedrooms of his home to an office-workshop. Bits of glider parts can be found on chairs and a desk. But the principal reason for the office is a typewriter where Larry spends a good deal of time writing scripts.

He has sold a movie screenplay to Disney titled "Grandpa's Fantastic Flying Ragwing Machine." It's about an antique airplane and an old man who keeps it in his barn. The old man part will be played by Will Geer. There's also a role in the film for Larry.

From time to time Larry, Kate and Kelly troop over to Geer's house for family dinners —usually attended by 20 or more relatives, in-laws and old friends. Often that is the extent of the Linvilles' social activities.

They do have a small ritual on Saturdays. Kate parks Kelly at the home of a neighbor — who has a houseful of children —and the Linvilles go to an afternoon movie. Thereafter they have a candlelight dinner at a good restaurant. Then they go home to watch "M-A-S-H."

Both are fascinated by the CBS series and delighted with its popularity.

But Larry does have reservations about the character he plays: "Frank Burns is a jerk. I couldn't stant being in the same room with him. He's pathetic because he can't relate to people."

Larry does well in this department. The crew of the series is close-knit and often give parties for one another.

Hiatus for the year is coming up. Larry and Kate will spend most of the time house-hunting near the ocean. They want to move to bigger and better quarters, and to be nearer 20th Century-Fox Studios where the show is filmed.

As it is, Larry must spend more than an hour commuting to work on the freeway, and he figures only a dumbell like Frank Burns would put up with that nonsense

Musicians chosen for Bach event

CLAREMONT — Five young musicians have been chosen from the Pomona Valley branch of the Music Teachers' Association of California to take part in the finals of the Southern California Junior Bach Festival at USC next month.

The five performers, selected at the recent Junior Bach Festival at Scripps College, are Suzanne Scott, pupil of Marguerite Green; Bonnie Carter, pupil of Eloise Wilder; Charity Book, pupil of Yvonne Gordon; and William Marsden and Peggy Losh, pupils of Helena Johnson.

In addition six other pianists were named for honorable mention. They are Sharon Paul, pupil of Lorraine Friedman; Jean Schwartzkoph, pupil of Ralph Pierce; James Petrello, pupil of Eloise Wilder; Terry Quester, pupil of Yvonne Gordon; and Mary Draayom and Leslie Bergstron, pupils of Helena Johnson.

Bush admits concern over GOP's defeat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Republican National Chairman George Bush conceded Tuesday that Michigan's Fifth District was one seat the GOP felt confident of holding in the House and that "we are concerned" about a Democrat winning it.

Bush said in a statement that the victory by Democrat Richard Vander Veen Monday over a Republican seeking to take Vice President Gerald R. Ford's former place in Congress "doesn't coincide with anything we have seen" in other election races.

Vander Veen made Watergate his principal issue in the campaign, calling repeatedly for President Nixon's resignation. Bush noted this and said Watergate had been injected in other races before "with no measurable adverse effect" on Republicans.

"Candidly, this is a seat we felt confident we would hold in spite of the national problems," Bush said. "Only in-depth analysis will tell us what went wrong."

He said: "Of course we are concerned. It doesn't coincide with anything else we have seen in the elections during 1973 and 1974."

Albania-Soviet freeze thawing?

BELGRADE (UPI) — Albania, whose only political allegiance for the past 14 years has been to Communist China, is looking for friends closer to home and may even be contemplating patching up old quarrels with the Soviets.

The Communist ministate, which in 1959 broke with Soviet party leader Nikita S. Khrushchev and became the only Maoist outpost in Europe, has begun to feel very nervous about its position since China has opened up to the world.

With the Chinese opening their own embassies in the West, Albania has begun to feel less needed and in recent years has resumed diplomatic ties with its Balkan neighbors. Full relations have even been reestablished with right-wing Greece after a 32-year break.

The only Balkan nation which still does not have full diplomatic links with Albania is Bulgaria —largely because of Bulgaria's staunch allegiance to the Soviet Union.

But feelers being put out by the Russians indicate that, too, could soon change.

Soviet overtures

The Soviet news magazine, Novoye Vrenya (New Times, which is regarded as a reliable indicator of Soviet foreign policy, said in a recent article:

"The Soviet people are convinced that reestablishment of normal relations between the Soviet Union and Albania and the return to friendly cooperation between the two peoples will be to the benefit of the fundamental, long-term interests of uniting all antiimperialistic forces."

On Albania's National Day the Soviet Party newspaper Pravda made a similar appeal to bury the hatchet and diplomatic sources in Belgrade said the Russians would not make such overtures if they thought they open to a snub.

So far there has been no known response from the Albanians but Albania-watchers in Belgrade say that pro-Chinese propaganda had been toned down over the past eight months, particularly on the Sino-Soviet dispute. The local press in Macedonia, a Yugoslav republic on the Albanian border, has published similar reports.

The main bar to renewed Soviet-Albanian ties is Albanian party secretary Enver Hoxha, who has been called the "last Stalinist leader in Europe" and has run his predominantly rural 2.5 million population country with an iron hand since he took power in 1944.

Hoxha, who insulted Khrushchev to his face and after the 1959 break squashed Soviet attempts to unseat him, has remained vehemently anti-Russian.

But further down the hierarchy, particularly in the army, there is thought to be a significant body of opinion in favor of a new relationship with Moscow.

Three years ago a move came from within the army hierarchy to renew Albania-Soviet ties but it was put down by Hoxha.

Diplomats point out, however, that Hoxha has switched sides before. After being violently anti President Tito, relations with neighboring Yugoslavia are now quite good and there would be certain clear benefits from friendship with Moscow.

Times have changed

Although the Chinese have provided interest-free loans and technical help, particularly in the field of agriculture, Russian technology and expertise could make a far greater contribution to the nation's development.

Soviet help during the postwar period in construction, industrialization and fighting illiteracy was stressed by Novoya Vrenya, implying readiness to do so again in return for use of strategic submarine pens off Albania's Adriatic coast.

One Western diplomat interested in these developments told UPI: "For the moment I don't think there are going to be any sudden changes of policy. Tirana (the Albanian capital is still denouncing imperialists (the West) and Soviet revisionists alike but they are clearly feeling the way for a new set of political alliances in the realization that times have changed."

Andre Brink

South Africa's literary dissident

JOHANNESBURG (UPI — Literary dissidents here have a new hero. They call him South Africa's Alexander Solzhenitsyn.

Andre Brink is a little younger, and doesn't often wear the Russian writer's public frown, but he is the victim of the same kind of official prohibition on literature that questions government policies.

The South African government and the Dutch Reformed Church have called his latest novel, "Knowledge of the Night," pornography. Interior Minister Connie Mulder, ultimately responsible for approving its banning, said it may be "brilliant and challenging" but it contained about 20 indecent paragraphs.

Critics, however, said perhaps because of its lurid descriptions of sex across the color line, it was a telling indictment of apartheid, South Africa's racial policy which, among other things, outlaws miscegenation.

Afrikaner youth hero

Scores of books are prohibited in South Africa, but "Knowledge' or "Kennis van die Aand" is the first Afrikaans novel to go on the list. The banning, and Brink's solid Afrikaner pedigree, have made him a cult hero among Afrikaner youth, who would accept no English writer in the same way, says "The Star", South Africa's largest daily.

For the first time, the traditional rift between English and Afrikaans writers has been bridged.

"It would have been wonderful if the reaction to those earlier bannings of English books had been matched by the present furor over "Knowledge," said playwright Athol Fugard, just back from London.

Brink, a curly-haired, bespectacled lecturer in literature at Rhodes University, Grahamstown, who waves his arms gently in conversation and speaks in a low voice, says his greatest fear is that he might have to leave.

"I don't think in terms of leaving. By writing in English or leaving the country, one defeats the object of writing. The only course open to me is to stay and fight it out," he said, his dark-haired wife, Alta, at his side. She hasn't read the book, and Brink would break the law by lending her his copy.

Colored victims

He wanted to show how coloreds "have always borne the brunt, always been the victims of South African society."

Opinions on the book's literary merit have been mixed, and one critic laments she has to defend it solely on the political grounds of opposing censorship.

Brink is adamant that he will not go pleading to Mulder to have the ban lifted, and Mulder shows no signs of yielding.

His attitude is supported by the Dutch Reformed Church whose approach to "Knowledge" has been articulated by the Moderator of its General Synod, Dr. J.D. Vorster, who said if the book "is art, then a whorehouse is a Sunday school."

New Zealand: April 3 — 4c — Centenary of Napier, featuring the Fountain "Spirit of Napier"; 5c and 8c — Centenary of the Universal Postal Union. The 5c value shows the Clock Tower Berne and the 8c one reproduces the U.P.U. emblem.

India: Dec. 25 — 20 p stamp honoring Chakravarti Rajagopalachari, General Secretary of the India National Congress 1921-1942, 1946-47 and 1951-54 who was imprisoned five times for participating in the Indian freedom movement.

The U.S. Postal Service announced that a set of stamps will be issued in June to commemorate the centennial of the Universal Postal Union. The stamps will be issued in Washington, D.C.

Also a postage stamp for the Skylab Orbiting Space Laboratory is to be issued, to honor all those who participated in the project. Design, date and place of issue to be announced, as well as its value.

In connection with MILCOPEX, the 75th anniversary of the Milwaukee Philatelic Society the Bureau of Engraving and Printing will issue a philatelic souvenir card. The event will take place March 8-10. The vignette reproduced in a block of four on this card was taken from an original engraving prepared for the 15 cent value of the series of airmail stamps issued in 1949 to commemorate the 75th anniversary of the Universal Postal Union. Copies at $1 each may be ordered by mail from the Bureau of Engraving & Printing (MILCOPEX), Washington, D.C. 20228. Not more than five to a customer.

Bob Bickford, 9600 Colesville Road, Silver Spring, Md. 20901 is the editor of THE SENTINEL, devoted to the collecting of plate numbers. He will also furnish information on the Plate Number Society.

A. Greblis is editor of The Baltic Philatelist-Numismatist. His address is P.O. Box 5, Roxboro, Quebec, H8Y 3E8, Canada.

The Philatelic-Numismatic Guild, Box 525-D, Derby Line VT 05830 has issued hand-antiqued solid silver Posta-Ingettes which are reproductions of postage stamps featuring American Presidents. The first three are a ½c Franklin, 1c Washington and 1½c Martha Washington stamp. Three are scheduled to be released each month to their members.

Water project requests 50% up over 1973

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Requests for water from the California Water Project this year are up 50 per cent over 1973 deliveries, state Water Resources Director John Teerink reports.

Teerink recently said the project has received requests for 1.53 million acre-feet of water already for 1974, compared to 988,000 acre-feet it delivered last year.

The project, he added, is expected to deliver more than 2.5 million acre-feet a year by 1980.

But the project will need additional energy after 1976 to meet pumping needs, he said in presentations to two legislative committees that deal with water.

In an attempt to meet the growing energy need, Teerink said the Water Resources Department was studying the possibility of joining the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power in constructing a nuclear power plant in Kern County. He said the state's share of the cost of the plant would be about $250 million.

Strong sales reported at Lewis homes

The three and four bedroom homes, priced from $27,700, occupy a site on 6th Street between Aldon Avenue and Fulton Road.

The homes, each with two bathrooms, also feature fireplaces, cathedral ceilings, cultured marble pullman counters, and garden kitchens with indoor-outdoor serving bars.

Immediate occupancy is available. Persons can reach the homes from Foothill Boulevard by going south on White Avenue to 6th Street.

Prank backfires

The attorney, Phillip Lowthian, had worn the mask to a party in a local hotel and carried the prank into the street. But police arrested him on a city ordinance prohibiting masks that date back to 1941.

Said a city official: "Not even the Lone Ranger or Santa Claus is legal here."

1.8 million units

Good housing market projected

DETROIT — The U.S. economy is recapitulating the conditions that in late 1970 triggered the record 1971-73 housing boom.

Money will not be a problem for builders this year and the housing market could hit a total of 1.8 million starts before the year is out — if builders are not swamped by all their other problems.

This year will be a testing period for the proposition that financing determines the housing trend, said Irving Rose, Advance president.

"Money is coming back into the thrift institutions with a rush. Mortgage rates have already fallen on the average more than a percentage point from their credit-crunch peak and some additional decline seems in early prospect.

"But it's hard to recall a time when builders had so many other problems," said Rose.

He outlined other elements of strength in today's housing market:

There is strong demand in the rental sector, though not the outright shortages that existed in 1970. As in 1970, there is now federal intervention to subsidize interest rates, affecting 200,000 new units.

As a result, the Advance survey projects starts this year escalating from an annual rate of some 1½ million in the first quarter to a more than two-million rate in the final quarter. Rental starts should lead the recovery in the early quarters and condominiums should contribute a push later in the year with the aid of the federal interest-rate subsidies.

In 1973, there were 2,054,000 housing starts, fourth highest total ever. But the annual rate fell as money tightened, from a record 2,445,000 in the first quarter to 1,590,000 in the fourth. The fall between the first and second half was greater in the nation's major markets than in the less populous areas.

Rose hedges the 1974 forecast: "There are limitations on the housing market's ability to respond to financial easing that did not exist in the 1970-71 recovery."

One is costs. Materials shortages plus plain old inflation are driving up construction costs. The combination of environmental restrictions and energy crisis, limiting the sites suitable for new projects, is driving land costs up.

Another is the state of demand. It remains strong overall. Sales and traffic in local markets are rebounding from a dismal fourth quarter of 1973. But there is no longer the 1½ million unit backlog that existed in 1970. And there are spots of local overbuilding, particularly in condominiums. Much of this, but not all, was a result of financing problems of the credit crunch. In Chicago and Atlanta, areas with low interest-rate ceilings, some completed condominiums have been without a mortgage commitment for as much as six months.

"Florida remains a special question mark," Rose said. "It will remain for years to come the hottest U.S. housing market, absorbing more units than anywhere else in proportion to population. But it cannot sustain the extraordinary level of the past two years when it accounted for some 12 per cent of all U.S. starts. Whenever it adjusts down to absorb the volume of recent and forthcoming completions, a good-sized chunk will be broken off the total U.S. market."

About the energy crisis, Rose observes, "This is undoubtedly the problem, after money, that is of greatest concern to builders. But it is not clear that it is causing a net loss to the housing market, except in the short run. Until the crisis is better defined, and there is enough information to permit rational calculations of the extra cost of owning a home in a far suburb compared to one close-in near a bus line, much decision-making of both buyers and builders will be paralyzed. But this indecision will help fatten rental occupancy rates.

"And then there are the usury laws. In 1970-71, conventional loan rates bottomed out below the interest ceiling of almost every state. The current average rate and even that which we project for next month (8¼ per cent) are above the interest ceilings in Chicago, Minneapolis-St. Paul, most of the Washington market and are just barely under the ceiling in New York. One would have to be a dreamer to speak of significant early easing in these mortgage markets."

Nearly all the major markets with the sharpest second-half declines in 1973 were usury-law affected, the Advance survey found. These included not only those named above but Altanta, which has a 9 per cent ceiling, and the Southern California markets, where the 10 per cent usury ceilings on out-of-state lenders doesn't have much effect on residential mortgages but limits the supply of construction loans.

The mobile home industry suffered through its own version of tight money in the fourth quarter and shipments for that period fell off 20 per cent, the industry's first decline in nearly four years. Nevertheless, the annual total of 580,000 mobile home shipments was over the year-before figure (572,000) and the 1974 total is projected to hit 615,000 shipments, after a relatively slow first and second quarter.

The industry's larger units, the double-wides, which approach conventional-home-size, and the 14-foot models, showed strong growth all year long. The 12-foot models, though still more than half the total mix, have begun to decline.

JOHN "SKIP" CHODAK has been appointed sales manager of the Herbert Hawkins Realtors branch office in Pomona. He has been associated with the firm's Pasadena office for the past two years and is a member of the Million Dollar Sales Club.

Visitors may tour mobilehome factory

COLTON — The public is invited to visit the Bendix Home Systems facility here today to see how mobile homes are constructed.

Tours will be conducted at noon and 2 p.m., with doors opening at 11 a.m. Admission is free.

The Bendix facility is located at 2245 W. Valley Blvd. Persons can reach it by taking the San Bernardino Freeway to the Riverside Avenue turnoff, go north to Valley Boulevard then right to the plant entrance.

Gets worse every year

Hawaii has housing problem

Neither government housing agencies nor private industry has solved the problem which grows worse every year. The population is soaring and the need for housing is enormous, but Hawaii has the lowest home ownership ratio of any state.

The newly arrived resident from the United States mainland who lived in a spacious $50,000 home goes into shock when he finds that the same amount in the Aloha State will buy a tiny dwelling on a small piece of land in rural Oahu.

Mayor Frank Fasi put the problem in perspective by saying, "When developers on Oahu call $48,000 units 'low-cost housing' we are in real trouble."

Situation gloomy

"Crisis" is the word many lawmakers and residents use in describing the shortage and astronomical costs.

William Sewell, the past president of the Home Builders Association of Hawaii and a contractor, told just how gloomy the situation is state," he said. "Sixty-two per cent of the residents rent and only 38 per cent own condominiums or houses," Sewell said. "On the mainland it's the other way around.

"The lowest priced home on the market is $48,000. The average resale price in 1973 was $85,000. For that the buyer got an older home with four bedrooms, two bathrooms, outdated fixtures on a 7,000 square-foot lot."

Land costs are sky high and keep climbing.

A lot that cost $30,000 three years ago goes for $60,000 today. Much of the land is leasehold and the homeowner pays a fee knowing that eventually he will have to renegotiate when the lease expires and the cost will go up.

Sewell explained that because there is so little flat land left, the cost of constructing homes is heightened by building on hilly, rugged terrain. Dynamite is needed, Sewell said, and the cost is increased by sewage considerations and modifications and predicted it won't be getting any better in the near future.

"Hawaii has the lowest home ownership ratio of any warding off Hawaii s flash floods, such as unusually large storm drains and overhangings.

Although single walled construction was the pattern for many years, builders are now turning toward double walled construction in a California ranch style. Homes are usually wood and sometimes stucco on a concrete foundation.

Hawaii's warm climate makes heating units and cellars unnecessary and louvered windows take advantage of the trade winds and eliminate the need for air-conditioning.

Skyline changes

Families desperate for housing are turning to condominiums, and Hawaii's once unblemished skyline is now a panorama of highrises. A small two-bedroom condominium can be bought in the $40,000 range while below the studios are available.

The shortage for low and middle-income groups runs from 30,000 to 60,000 units. Although Hawaii has what is considered one of the best state housing acts in the country, the crunch doesn't ease up.

The $100 million omnibus housing act passed by the 1970 legislature and administered by the Hawaii Housing Authority aims at giving the state agency money and muscle. The agency can offer interim loans to house builders, go into joint ventures with them, arrange for short or long term financing and even act as a developer of housing project on its own.

But the HHA's efforts haven't even started to fill the need. The chief reasons are the cost of land, the lack of staff to process applications and the agency's inability to get more private companies to go into joint ventures with it.

Groups formed

Construction firms make more money with less trouble by building private housing. The HHA has held a construction firm's profit down to an average 7 or 7½ per cent, and a company often can make 10 to 20 per cent on $60,000 and $70,000 homes.

Frustrated citizen have formed several groups which offer solutions, but there's little action.

He has 16 years experience in the general brokerage business, land development and subdivisions. He also owned a general brokerage office in Upland for 11 years. Porter is a graduate of Chaffey College and Claremont Mens College.

GERARD POPE of La Verne has been appointed manager of Herbert Hawkins Realtors branch office in Glendora. He is an associate broker and has worked in the Glendora office for nearly seven years. He was named as one of the top three salesmen for 1971 by the Azusa-Glendora Board of Realtors.

Russia, France aligned in oil crisis

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Because the Soviet Union has no love for the European Common Market, it comes as no surprise that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko has endorsed France's odd-man-out handling of the energy crisis.

The Soviet Union, he said, "shares" the French view of the crisis brought on by the Arab oil embargo.

France has rejected a U.S. proposal accepted by the eight other members of the Common Market, Canada and Japan to seek a joint solution to the oil problem, and instead has proceeded to make its own deals with oil producing nations.

It has signed agreements with Saudi Arabia, Iran and Libya providing French technical aid in exchange for oil and is working on others with Iraq and Kuwait.

In Iran, the French have agreed to build a string of nuclear power stations and a pipeline to carry natural gas to Europe.

Other details have not been disclosed, but even in France the enormity of French proposals has been criticized as beyond French abilities to produce and for the oil producing countries to absorb.

Within the Common Market the effect of the French action has been to produce an air of crisis and to touch off new fears that the market founded in 1958 is on the verge of collapse.

Despite Russian hopes and European fears, any prediction of the market's early demise must be considered exaggerated.

In the years since its founding it sometimes is forgotten that the Common Market and the European coal and steel community which preceded it were established with one basic thought in mind —to so intermesh French and German industry as to make impossible another war between them.

Largely, this has been accomplished.

As the market has grown and prospered, a chief beneficiary has been French agriculture.

However determined the French may be to set their own course in the energy crisis or to mold the Common Market in their own pattern, it is wholly unlikely that this determination would be carried to the point od deliberately sacrificing the great economic gains made under the market.

Nonetheless, the French action has led to delays on important joint projects and a new impatience among the market's other members.

One example was a decision to postpone probably until next month a meeting of the nine foreign ministers which originally had been scheduled to seek a way out of the oil crisis. Also postponed has been a decision on regional aid which would be of special help to Britain, Italy and Ireland.

Impatience with the contradictions in French policy has taken concrete form in a proposal by West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel that most decisions within the market's council of ministers be reached by majority vote.

President of RAM to speak here

The program will start at 7:30 p.m. at Griswold Restaurant's Fiesta Room.

"We have an exciting story to tell about the future for real estate in the South Bay area, where we plan to double our present 18 office complex," he said.

"We are coming to Southern California to talk with professional-type real estate licensees who may be seeking a new frontier," Rooney explained.

"Actually the whole idea of bringing our story down here originated with people from this area who had already become associated with our operations up north. They were so excited about prospects for the future they wanted others in the business here to know about it."

Wives and husbands of brokers and associates are welcome.

The lighter side

New etiquette puzzle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I ran into Preston Goldang at a party the other evening and I almost said "How's your wife?"

Then I remembered that Goldang and the woman he is living with aren't married. This brings up a problem.

What is the proper way to refer to single people of the opposite sex who move in with each other?

But now the practice is widespread enough to require a whole new chapter in the book of etiquette.

I would have felt a little foolish going up to Goldang and saying "How's your mistress?" That might be acceptable in Paris but it sounds much too quaint, melodramatic and sophisticated for the Washington suburbs.

"How's your girl friend?" doesn't do it either. "Girl friend" is far too casual for the relationship involved here.

On the other hand, I didn't feel I knew Goldang quite well enough to ask "How's the woman you've been living with?"

So I ended up asking "How's your roommate?"

Judging from the look he gave me, that also failed to capture the essence of their arrangement.

The nomenclature on the male side of these in-house affairs also is a bit awkward.

"Lover?" It's difficult to think of Preston Goldang as a lover in the classical, Don Juanish sense of the world.

"Paramour" has a distinctly foreign ring to it, conjuring up visions of Italian balcony hanky-panky. As for "boy friends," see "girl friend" above.

Other terms that spring to mind —sweetheart, beau, steady, suitor, swain, sugar daddy, etc. — must be rejected as ambiguous or hopefully old-fashioned.

What is neded is a new title or two along the line of the "Ms." invented by women's liberation leaders.

Although "Ms." has its uses, you wouldn't ask a bachelor "How's the Ms.?"

Until someone comes along with a better suggestion, perhaps unmarried couples who are living together could be identified as "pad partners."

Which could be abbreviated as "Ppf." for females and "Ppm," for males.

This may not be the perfect solution to the problem. But at least it answers the question of how to address their Christmas cards.

Arkansas' Wilbur Mills is healthy; he will run again

Editor's Note: As chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee Wilbur Mills is one of the most powerful men in Washington. In 1973, for health reasons, he indicated he might retire. Now, healthy again, he's getting ready for the next election—and that suits the folks back home just fine.

By ROBERT CAREY

KENSETT, Ark. (UPI) — On this morning the ground fog which sometimes gathers in the bottom land between the Little Red River and the Des Arc Bayou was holding later than usual and the pick-up trucks that pulled up in front of A.P. Mills' general store still had their lights on.

It was 10 a.m. on First Street although the lingering fog made it seem much earlier. It didn't seem to be hurting business though as there were several customers in the store, named for Wilbur D. Mills' father, who bought it in 1908.

It was here that the chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, called by many the most powerful man in Congress, first learned that work and lots of it was a necessary ingredient to a successful life. He worked regularly in this store before he was 10 years old and then later at the bank, just a half block down the street, which was also a family business.

Mills, 64, who hinted strongly last year that he might retire if corrective surgery to remove a ruptured disc in his spine was not successful, is expected to announce soon he will run for a 19th term.

One thing is certain, Mills says. He won't be trying for president again. Nor will he be anybody's vice presidential running mate under any circumstances. He is flatly positive about that. "No sir," he says. "No way."

Chairman since 1958

Ways and Means is where he came to power. And Ways and Means is where he figures he'll stay.

Since 1958, when he assumed the committee chairmanship, Presidents Eisenhower, Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon have had to come to terms with Mills to get their tax programs through Congress.

They have in turn found him helpful, exasperating, cautious, friendly, but above all, very necessary.

A remarkably skillful and personable politician, as well as a hard worker, the man from Kensett (Population 1,144) has never had a serious opponent since he was first elected to the House in 1938. He seldom draws opponents anymore at all. The last time was in 1966 when he wiped out two challengers in the first primary with 74 per cent of the vote.

Mills' support in Arkansas is broad and solid despite a political philosophy that to some might seem narrow.

Civil rights

Like most of his Southern colleagues he has voted against almost every major piece of civil rights legislation in the past 15 years, yet there are few state black leaders who say anything unkind about him. Most are highly laudatory.

Dr. Jerry D. Jewell, the state's first black senator in the General Assembly since Reconstruction and the immediate past president of the state NAACP, is an enthusiastic Mills booster.

"Mr. Mills' office has always been open to those of us who have gone to him for assistance and counsel," Jewell said. "In spite of his votes across the board (on civil rights issues), it is our feeling that the man stands in tall, that the citizens of this district of Arkansas— more specifically black citizens —will benefit by having a man like Mr. Mills continue inoffice."

Blacks also know that Mills has never made race an issue, preferring to soft pedal what little he has had to say about it.

Mills' voting on labor legislation has in labor's eyes been favorable only a little more than 50 per cent of the time, but Arkansas' labor leaders are not nearly as harsh in criticsm as one might suspect given the Congressman's voting record.

"Let me put it this way," said J. Bill Becker, president of the state AFL-CIO. "We can talk with him, we can work with him, but we feel he can do more to solve the problems of tax reform, health insurance and imports which are hurting the working man in this country, so we have those hangups with him.

"I like him He's a very personable individual. And we supported him. We have not backed a candidate against him and we have no intention of doing so." But, Becker said, "it's about time we had a decent health insurance bill and I think Mills is the key man. There have been extensive hearings and all I can say is it's about time something is done."

Although Mills has talked much about tax reform over the years, critics believe he has done little to shore up loopholes that allow some citizens with great incomes to pay less tax than those who make much less. Foot-dragging on the side of entrenched interests seems to be the primary criticism of tax reform groups when they speak of Mills.

"Look, I like Wilbur Mills personally very much," one of the state's leading liberals said. "But his policies stink. However, I have been able to work with him and get things from him and on the whole I'd say he's been more helpful than anyone else in the (Arkansas Congressional delegation.

"I believe Mills would like you to think he is for tax reform. But the present tax structure with all its inequities still stands. Wilbur Mills is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee and has been for a long time. The inequities are still there."

Federal projects

Mills' 2nd Congressional District is awash with federal projects, highways, post office buildings, dams and other money programs which help to make Arkansas recipient of three federal dollars to every one paid out. Others, to be sure, can claim some credit for all this first class pork-barreling, including Arkansas heavyweight Sens. John L. McClellan and J. William Fulbright. But Mills has helped immensely.

Mills is accessible. His constituents can get in to see him. He is home at every recess and adjournment of Congress plus other times that put him back in Arkansas on the average of once a month. He spends a lot of that time seeing people in his office at nearby Searcy, the county seat, or at a second office in Little Rock, 50 miles southwest of Kensett. He listens to their problems and gets things done, sometimes spectacularly.

Earlier in the Nixon administration a city official wanted some help on a problem with the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and asked if Mills could get him in to see someone when he went to Washington. The city official arrived at HUD at the appointed time and was flabbergasted to find George Romney himself—he then was running HUD—waiting to talk to him. Mills had made a phone call and like most people in Washington, Romney had wanted to keep Mills happy.

Inside the front door of A.P. Mills general store on this morning there are some customers in the back and an elderly woman seated on two packing boxes in front of shelves containing Miracle Whip and ketchup. She is looking out the big storefront window onto First Street watching the traffic and people go by. She is Mrs. A.P. Mills, whose youngest son, Roger, runs the store and whose oldest son, Wilbur, is chairmans of Ways and Means. She is 88 years old.

Typical day

"Wilbur was a good boy," she said when asked about him. "He began working right here in this store when he was seven and a half years old. I mean working. He could do the books, order groceries. He was the best clerk we ever had."

When Wilbur Mills is in Arkansas he spends a lot of time in his Little Rock office. Little Rock is the biggest city in Arkansas as well as being in his district so there are a lot of people there who want to talk to him.

This day was typical. There were three people waiting to see him and he had someone else inside. The reporter who had come to interview him was told it might be an hour past the scheduled time as "Wilbur" was very busy. It was 12:25 p.m. and the chairman had taken lunch at his desk, his secretaries said, a ham and cheese sandwich and a pint carton of milk purchased at the concession stand in the building. Cost: 75 cents.

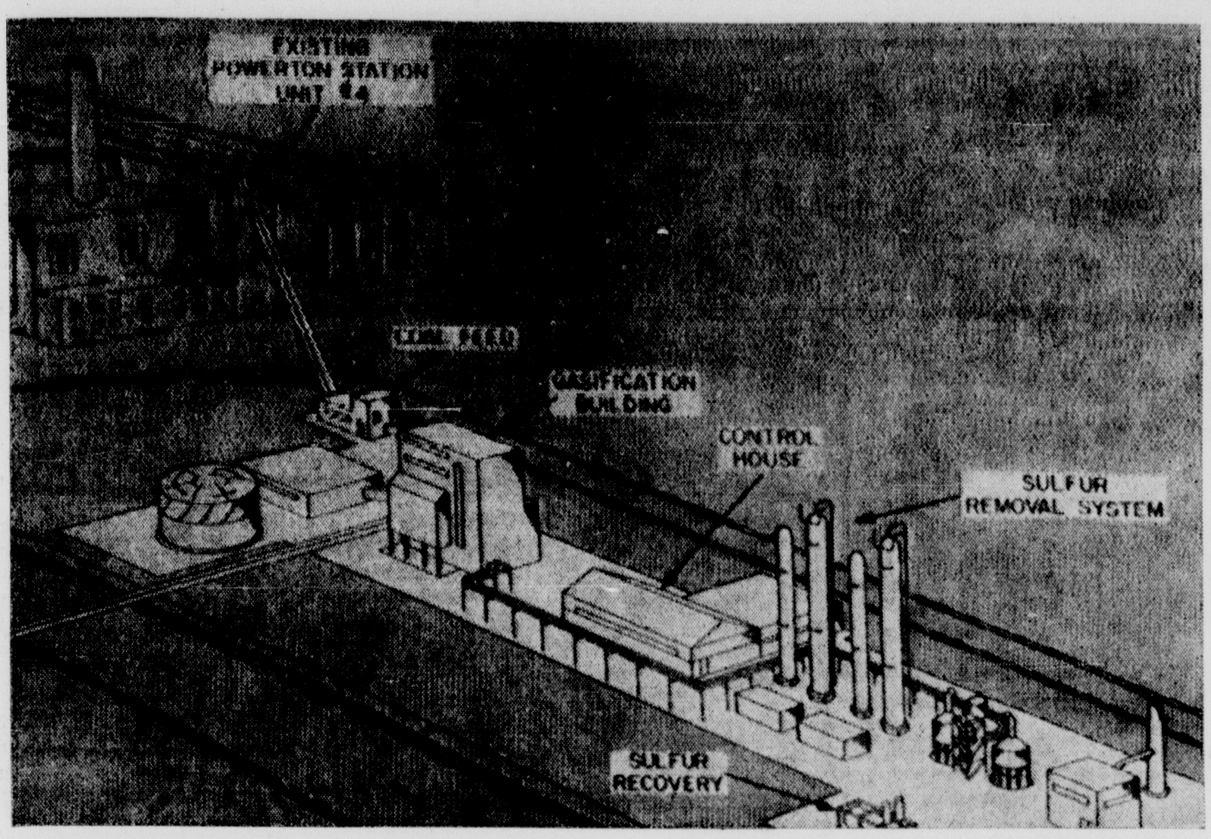
EXCELLENT FINANCING—CALVET AVAILABLE



COAL FACILITY — Commonwealth Edison Co. announced last week it will begin construction next fall on a $19 million coal gasification test facility at its Powerton generating station near Pekin, Ill. Edison president Thomas Ayers said the plant, expected to be in operation by the end of 1976, will attempt to convert 60 tons of coal an hour into clean gas suitable for fueling of the Powerton plant. Coal gasifier combined with a purification process removes nine-tenths of the sulphur from coal.

The two girls were banging away at separate typewriters and the phone never stopped ringing. They also ate at their desks between phone calls and jabbing at the typewriters. Dolores McDougal spread pimiento cheese on rye bread and Patsy Thomasson ate cottage cheese from a plastic container and for dessert had some pecans which she cracked herself. Was it always this busy? No, just when the Congressman was in town, they said.

There was time to thumb through a Congressional Directory. Mills only gives himself seven lines, about a third of the average length for congressional biographies in the directory. Born in Kensett May 24, 1909. He graduated from high school (valedictorian) at Searcy and attended Hendrix College and Harvard Law School. Married Clarine Billingsley of Kensett, May 27, 1934; two daughters, Martha Sue and Rebecca Ann; admitted to the bar in Arkansas in 1933; elected county judge of White County 1934, and, finally "elected to the 76th and succeeding Congresses".

Tax Reform

Then he was ready. He had on a grey, long-sleeved sports shirt open at the neck. He fitted a filtered cigarette into a holder. When he held it in his mouth it jutted up and off to one side reminiscent of FDR, one of Mills' early heroes.

The Mills voice is a rumbling baritone to bass, his speech is full of throaty vocal pauses, countless ahhhhhhhhhs, and ummmmmmms, like a man gargling warm salt water.

No, he did not think it equitable for the President of the United States, a millionaire, to pay less income taxes than the average Arkansas school teacher.

"No, it isn't fair," Mills said. "I think the President's disclosure of his income tax return has given a lot more impetus to tax reform than existed prior to that."

Mills said he was hopeful of some sort of tax reform bill this year although he did not want to talk about details. He said it would eliminate inequities "to the extent that we can. Bear in mind you can't always get a majority to do what you want them to. Many times we've been unable to do that in the field of taxation."

Re-election plans

Since he was talking of legislation to be offered in the coming year, it appeared he was planning on remaining in Congress and did this mean he had decided to seek re-election?

"I said last year if I didn't get some relief from the intensive pain I was having in my back that I would retire," Mills said. "Of course, the operation's been very successful. I'm practically free of any pain. My strength's coming back very rapidly. So I've said since that chances are better than 50-50 that I probably soon will announce that I am running for re-election."

One of Mills' youthful idols was Arkansas Sen. Joseph T. Robinson, who ran for vice president on the Democratic ticket with Al Smith against Herbert Hoover in 1928. "I always thought a lot of General Eisenhower, Roosevelt, of course, and Truman. I still think probably that Truman will go down in history as being the greatest of all of them." Why? "He was a man of great courage. He made up his mind. And he stood up for the Presidency. He stood up for himself. He didn't waiver in the face of criticism. He worked at his job awfully hard."

Works awfully hard

As everyone hereabouts knows, Wilbur Mills works "awfully hard" too. Other than watching an occasional baseball game and giving careful attention to the Sporting News each time it comes out, he has no hobbies at all. He and his wife until only last year lived in the same modest apartment they moved into when they first came to Washington 35 years ago. The only reason they moved to more fashionable quarters in suburban Virginia was because their building was being torn down for construction of a subway.

Mills likes to turn in around 9:30 p.m. and he and his wife rank among the seldom-seens in Washington night life.

The interview had been set for 30 minutes. When it had lasted 33 minutes a secretary opened the office door, Mills leaned back, and it was time to go. Four more persons were waiting to see Wilbur.

Italian-U.S. satellite up

NAIROBI (UPI) — A joint Italian-American satellite was successfully launched Monday from Kenya's offshore San Marco platform scientists said.

A four-stage U.S. Scout rocket boosted the 462 pound Italian instrument package into orbit 800 miles above the earth. The satellite, one of a series launched from Kenya, will probe conditions in the upper atmosphere.

Unless you mean business . . . We are now considering qualified applicants in your area to become a working part of our National "Hot Food" Distributor System. You are not applying for a job! You are applying for a very high profit business of your own. NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY—NO SELLING INVOLVED! This business can be started part time—no need to quit your job. Can be expanded full time with company financing. We need people we can depend on. Our products are nationally famous "hot food" items. We have over 36 varieties of Hot Soups and Hot Entrees, such as Beef Stew, Chicken and Dumplings, Chili and Beans and on and on. We have all of America's favorites. All these delicious products are sold from the latest in automatic vending equipment. Your route will be established and installed by us. Your age is not a factor, if you qualify. Perfect for a nice couple to operate as a family business.

GOOD VALUE IDEAS

FROM

WRIGLEY'S GUM

If your letter is going more than 500 miles, don't waste money on an air mail stamp. More often than not, all first class mail going over 500 miles goes by air.

Butcher's tip on Ham value. A bone-in ham should cost 25% less per pound than a boneless type to be of equal value.

To compare dress quality, inspect the seams and insides. Cheaply made dresses have as few as seven stitches to an inch of seam; good dresses about fifteen.

DEAR POLLY — A simple way to eliminate a steamed-up bathroom mirror is to place a towel over the mirror before you take a shower or bath. When the bath is over remove the towel and have a clear mirror. — MRS. E. D. F.

DEAR POLLY — If a fruit pie seems too full when baking and starts to run over the sides I use a turkey baster to remove some of the juice. This can be saved for the next pie. —PAULINE.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — Mothers will find that wrapping masking tape around an empty plastic thread spool will come in handy when putting disposable diapers on baby. The tapes often pull off or the diapers have none. —MRS.H.P.D.

●

DEAR POLLY — I never discard my children's old lunch pails. They make great containers for silverware and cooking utensils for a picnic or camping trip. You can use them to hold things for a first-aid kit and to make tool boxes for the car or snowmobile. We put our film in such a box when boating so it does not get wet. —VELDA.

●

DEAR POLLY — Have you ever been on a trip and forgotten a net to put over your nice hair set? I have used clean panty hose by slipping the body on my head and then tieing the legs under my chin. The next morning my hairdo looked like it had just been done. — LEE.

DEAR POLLY — If you have a leather belt that would look good if reversed except for the lettering on the inside, put some nail polish remover on a cloth or tissue and rub it off. This worked great on two imitation leather belts (one white and one brown) with smooth backs. — MARGUERITE.

●

DEAR POLLY — When a swimming cap is too tight, put the cap over a wig head form, leave it for a week or 10 days and it is then no longer too tight. After swimming put the cap back on the head. It dries much faster. —LENORE.

●

DEAR POLLY — Wrap yarn around plain wire coat hangers. Silk and satin dresses will not slip off. —C.T.L.

●

DEAR POLLY — It is annoying and dangerous when the car windshield gets road film on it. We cut the foot-part off an old sock and use the ankle part. Sew one end shut, put in some powdered detergent and sew that end shut. These are very handy in rainy weather. —J.S.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

EDDIE WILKINS OF MEMPHIS, TN, ASKS:

"WHY DO WATCHES HAVE JEWELS IN THEM ?"

THE BEST WATCHES HAVE MOVING PARTS WITH BEARINGS MADE OF JEWELS. LONG AGO, WATCHMAKERS BEGAN USING TINY JEWELS INSIDE WATCHES TO MAKE THEM RUN BETTER. THE JEWELS ARE PLACED AT THE ENDS OF THE PIVOTS WHICH CONSTANTLY MOVE IN A WATCH. THE JEWELS, WHICH ARE USUALLY SAPPHIRES, RUBIES, OR GARNET, ARE SO HARD AND SMOOTH THAT THEY MAKE THE FRICTION IN THE WATCH MUCH LESS. A WATCH MAY HAVE 7 TO 23 JEWELS. THE MORE JEWELS, THE LESS LIKELY IS FRICTION TO WEAR OUT OR SLOW UP THE MOVING PARTS IN YOUR WATCH.

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR HELEN HAYES

I keep reading that you are going to retire from acting, and then I see you appear in another part. When will you* really *retire?—J. D. F., Indio, Calif.

● For the last several years I have been trying to retire by burning all of my bridges. That's why I made so many announcements that I wouldn't act anymore—to embarrass myself sufficiently so I wouldn't go back to work! But it hasn't succeeded. All along I've had this inner feeling that the theater is not good for me anymore, because whenever I've appeared in a play recently, I've become ill. The last time, I got so sick that I ended up in the hospital. The doctor told me that I was allergic to theater dust. Now, at least, I've made up my mind that I will no longer act in the theater. But I do plan to continue acting in television and movies.

FOR JACK NICKLAUS

Many experts say you're a greater golfer than Bobby Jones and point to the fact that you've won more titles than he did. What's your reaction?—Michael Mathewson, Austin, Texas

● Bobby Jones won his major titles in a much shorter period of time than I did. There's no way of telling how many he would have won if he'd taken as many shots as I have.

FOR PAT MORROW,
Rita Jacks Harrington of "Peyton Place"

I read in FAMILY WEEKLY that you are interested in politics. Isn't this unusual for a woman—especially an actress on "Peyton Place"?—M. N., Columbus, Ohio

● I come from a family of lawyers, and when I was a little girl my grandfather had us watching "Meet the Press" every Sunday. At the dinner table, we children were not allowed to talk. While the adult conversation went on, we listened—so my political ambitions began early. Besides, I was taught I should pay back to America what I was blessed with.

FOR JULIET PROWSE

How do you keep such a marvelous figure? Do you keep dieting all the time?—F. S. S., Watsonville, Calif.

● I used to. Whenever I was on layoff between television shows or films I put on weight. Once I even put on eight pounds in two months! But since I had my baby a year ago, I no longer have any such problems. Don't ask me why, because I don't know.

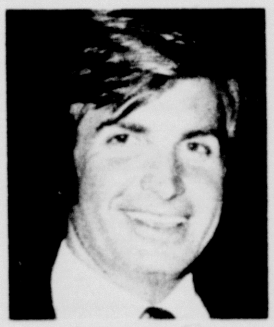
FOR MONTY HALL of "Let's Make a Deal"

Is the money you give out on the stage real or fake?—James R. Schlegel, Dubuque, Iowa

● It's real. But in case you're wondering if I carry lots of money in my pocket during the show, the answer is no. Between deals, an associate backstage gives me the money I will use in the next deal, and then I return what is not used when the deal is completed. For very large amounts, we use checks.

FOR GEORGE HAMILTON

I saw you in "The Man Who Loved Cat Dancing," and you played such a weak-spirited, foolish character. How does it feel to play character parts after having been a leading man for so long?—N. Koenig, Ft. Mitchell, Ky.



● It's true I've been a leading man since I was 18, but I like playing the heavy. In fact, I think I'm better suited for it. Besides, Burt Reynolds deserved to play the lead.

FOR SEN. SAM J. ERVIN (D-N.C.)

I hear you want to make the Department of Justice independent of the Executive branch. That sounds good in light of Watergate, but would it be constitutional?—B. Foustin, Cedar Falls, Iowa

● Yes. The office of Attorney General was established by the Judiciary Act of 1789. It was not until 1870 that the Department of Justice was established by act of Congress. The time has come for Congress to seek ways to improve the administration of justice and to insure its independence and fairness.

FOR SUSAN DEY, Laurie on "The Partridge Family"

Do you think the new morality has made you freer than your mother?—D. A. A., Appleton, Wis.

● Yes, of course. But if I had lived in her day, I'd probably have been as she was. I hate to use the phrase "society dictates," but it seems to be true. Society does change. And because of changing attitudes, I am probably less restricted than my mother was at my age.

FOR SEN. BARRY GOLDWATER (R-Ariz.)

I keep hearing we've got too many generals and not enough troops in our armed forces. Just how top-heavy are we?—Thomas Lang, Canton, Ohio

● We aren't at all top-heavy. Of the leading military countries of the world, with the exception of the Soviet Union (material cannot be gathered on them), the U.S. has 54 generals and admirals per 100,000 active-duty servicemen. Only one country in the world has fewer, and that's West Germany with 47.

FOR SEN. THOMAS F. EAGLETON (D-Mo.)

Fuel shortage or not, I thought we had some sort of price controls. What's going on?—G. G. S., Logansport, Ind.

● Some increase in the price of fuel was predictable in the wake of the Arab oil boycott and the general increase in the price of imported crude oil. But I can't find any reason for the kind of increases now being freely passed to the American people. I think the Administration should order an immediate rollback of the latest round of price increases, followed by a top-to-bottom investigation of possible profit-gouging by the oil industry.

Can you spot the Camel Filters smoker?

© 1973 R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Co.

1. Sorry. Meet "Clean Ed" Mealmangel, discount diner owner. Gimmick: Leaves his thumb print in mashed potatoes. Smokes ABL's "Any Brand Left" in the ash trays. 2. No. And no. Tex'n'Tilly, icky-poo radio-TV personalities. Gimmick: If it moves, interview it. They once even used a stethoscope to talk to a mole. 3. Jerry Jibroni. Spends so much time setting up, he never sees parade. Smokes cigarettes so super-long he almost needs binoculars to light them. 4. He's Tom Thump. His bass drum really is a gimmick: Can't stand the noise, but he likes to wear it. Puts cotton in his ears and in his cigarette filters. 5. Right. He enjoys the passing parade, without any gimmicks. That's why he smokes Camel Filters. They're good tasting, easy and honest. His kind of cigarette. 6. He's "Sweeps" Streate. Hopes mounted police won't parade. But they always do.

Camel Filters. They're not for everybody (but they could be for you).

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Toyota introduces ESP.

ESP is a built-in feature located above the driver.

Toyota created ESP to monitor 11 key service areas. If just one of them needs attention, ESP pops a light on to let you know. Before you find out the hard way.

So if your brake pads are wearing thin, or your brake fluid level is low or your brake vacuum booster is losing pressure, ESP tells you. If you need oil, or water in your battery or radiator, ESP warns you. And if one of your stoplights burns out, ESP is the first to let you know. Even in the daytime.

ESP works constantly when the car is running. And it gives you advance warning. So you can correct the problem before it becomes critical.

ESP is standard equipment on the Corona Hardtops. It's a built-in feature located above the driver. To check the system, turn the key, and ESP lights up momentarily to show you that it's working.

We designed ESP to save you both time and money. But there's more. We feel that ESP takes a lot of the worry out of caring for a car. And to us, that's important. A real innovation. But then, that's what you'd expect from Toyota.

How Not to Raise Your Kids

The Candid Confessions of a Permissive Parent

By Sloan Wilson
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

FAMILY WEEKLY/Elizabeth Gee

Sloan Wilson, surrounded by his children, David, Rebecca, Jessica and Lisa. He says, "My three daughters and my son survived and prospered by the grace of God, their mother and their ability to ignore almost everything I said."

Any library has shelves bulging with books by people who claim to know everything about how to raise children. But I am probably the only self-proclaimed expert on how not to do it. My credentials may in some ways be suspect, since my four children, who range in age from 27 to nine, are doing surprisingly well, but that's not because I didn't make every mistake in the book. My three daughters and my son survived and prospered by the grace of God, their mother and their ability to ignore almost everything I said.

Now one big mistake you can make when you raise children is to believe you know what you're doing. Young educated women who read a lot of books on child psychology often make this mistake, and so do old ladies with dozens of grandchildren, and so do writers like me. The truth is that the development of a child, like its birth, is fundamentally a mystery that has to be approached with awe and respect, not brash self-confidence. What works for one child may not work for another, and what works for one parent may not work for another. The reason that children are not born with sets of directions for raising them is that the emotions of human beings are too complex to be put into words.

Another big mistake you can make is to admit you don't really know how to raise them. Fathers cannot just go around blurting out the truth all the time, because children expect them to have some sort of wisdom and self-confidence. If you spank a child, you have to pretend that you're dead sure that that is the right thing to do, and if you let little Johnny smash his sister in the face with a toy train without anything but a gentle reprimand, you have to pretend that you're dead sure that this is the best way to teach self-discipline. Parents by nature have to be fakers, and that's why children are created in such a way that they really remain quite stupid for five or six years at least. If kids realized how little their parents know and how little self-confidence any intelligent mother or father has, they would be too scared to grow up at all.

"I was extremely thankful for the fact that my children turned out to be rebels, not against society, but against me, and all the permissive fathers like me. Somebody, they said, had to set the rules, and if I couldn't, they would."

Almost everybody knows nowadays that one of the worst mistakes a parent can make is being too strict. This is the way my parents ruined me. Back in the twenties, when I was raised, mothers were warned by doctors to avoid spoiling their children. Following the best scientific advice of her time, my mother gave me a bottle of milk every four hours when I was an infant, and if I got hungry before feeding time, I was just forced to cry it out—a process that, I am told, almost drove my parents and the neighbors crazy.

Cuddling a baby a lot was also supposed to spoil it. And devoted mothers spent a great deal of time keeping everything that might touch their infants surgically clean, because they knew about germs, but had not yet heard much about antibodies.

Toilet training became a grim struggle between every conscientious mother and baby. There were no sugarcoated pills in those days. When my mother decided that I needed castor oil, which the unfortunate young of that period were supposed to require frequently, she held my nose until I had to open my mouth for air and then jammed in a tablespoon of the horrible stuff. Later I had a nursemaid who washed out my mouth with soap whenever I said a bad word. When I was rude to adults, I got spanked with an ivory hairbrush, the back of which was carved with garlands of flowers I still remember vividly. When, at the age of 12, I went hunting with a shotgun my father had told me not to touch, he hit me hard with his belt. I never did that again.

My education about sex consisted almost entirely of the word don't. My father was the descendent of eight generations of New England preachers and schoolmasters, and he strongly felt that sex was for married people and nobody else. All a boy had to know, he thought, was the dire results of sin. He didn't talk to me about it much, but he used vivid language, and I got the general impression that if I kissed a pretty girl, she would have a baby on the spot and I would turn blue and drop dead.

When I got married some years later, it seemed clear to me that though my parents had been well meaning, my early youth had been unduly miserable and their methods simply had not worked. Despite my mother's valiant efforts to avoid spoiling me, my wife kept saying I was the most spoiled man she had ever met. The strict emphasis on cleanliness in my early youth had left me with an unabashed love of sloppiness. I read a lot of the new books on child care and thought I found authority for doing in reverse almost everything my parents had done.

My children were allowed to eat whenever they wanted to and almost anything they desired. It had been discovered that children toilet train themselves and that a child's body is good at fighting the germs that scared my mother so much. The medicines my children took were made to look and taste like candy. When they said dirty words, I knew that was natural, and sometimes they sounded sort of cute, so I just laughed.

As my children grew older, I gave them so many clinical details about sex and prattled so much about the beauty of it all that they soon begged me to stop. There must be something else interesting to talk about, my son said when he was about 12, and I found myself calling him a prude.

In my permissive plan for bringing up children, I had a lot of support from most of my friends in the suburbs where we lived, and some went a lot further than I did. One physician I knew was proud of equipping his 16-year-old daughter with birth-control materials and advising her to enjoy love and youth without guilt. My faith in permissive parenthood began to be shaken when his child went from promiscuous sex to heavy drugs to a serious breakdown, all before she was 20. I was also shocked when the son of another friend of mine was hit on the head by a policeman when he was caught trying to burn down a college building. It wasn't the crime or the punishment that astonished me so much as the young man's surprise. He apparently thought he could express his political beliefs by trying to burn down a building and could attack a policeman without anyone saying no and forcibly restraining him. The discovery that the world was not as permissive as his home seemed profoundly unfair to him.

Of course many of the children of the permissive parents I knew turned out fine, but there was more trouble in those suburbs where so many of us had moved for the sake of the kids than I ever could have imagined. Despite the much-advertised advent of the Pill and sex education, the local schools reported an alarmingly high rate of juvenile pregnancy and venereal disease. We started being scared by reports of marijuana in the high schools and ended by being terrified by reports of elementary school students experimenting with LSD. I was extremely thankful for the fact that my children turned out to be rebels, not against society, but against me, and all the permissive fathers like me. Somebody, they said, had to set the rules, and if I couldn't, they would. Some of their friends called them stuffy little squares, but my older children went on to good colleges and careers.

The fact is that a parent can ruin his children by being too strict and also by being too permissive. I have never found a way to map out a middle ground. Doctors and experts on child care are of almost no help because they follow as well as create the fashions of their era. My mother was following the best scientific advice available when she was so strict. Thirty years later the experts emphasized the need for love so much that my wife hardly dared to put our first daughter down long enough to cook a meal. Now the pendulum seems to be swinging back. Dr. Benjamin Spock once told me, when I interviewed him, that mothers follow the dictates of their hearts, not their heads, and he doubted that any book could change a woman's conduct. The fact that some people are too hardhearted and others too softhearted is a problem he did not answer.

Now that I have, in the person of my nine-year-old daughter Jessica, a second chance at fatherhood, I find that I don't know much more than I did with my firstborn 27 years ago. I try to avoid the crime of vacillating unpredictably between too much strictness and too much permissiveness, but when Jessica makes me angry by making too much noise when I'm working, I'm much tougher than when she annoys somebody else. Jessica has already begun to suspect that I have no idea what I'm doing, but her mother feels that one hug is worth more than a thousand words, and when I make mistakes, Jessie goes to her. The child recently said that she always knew I loved her, because when she did something bad I yelled so horribly, but then I always came in and said I was sorry. No book on child care could recommend such a procedure, but sometimes even the mistakes work.

"If kids realized how little their parents know and how little self-confidence any intelligent mother or father has, they would be too scared to grow up at all."

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

IN THIS GRIND-EM-OUT WORLD, IS THERE SUCH A THING AS A QUALITY CIGARETTE?

If the cigarette is Kent there is.

We try to get rid of any taste-robbing imperfections before a Kent ever sees the light of a match. (Over 200 different quality checks in the manufacturing end, alone.)

To complement this blend, we even invented our own filter, the famous Micronite filter—to smooth the flavor of Kent.

Why are we such sticklers about how Kent is made?

King Size or Deluxe 100's.

Kent.

Kings: 16 mg. "tar," 1.1 mg. nicotine; 100's: 19 mg. "tar," 1.2 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette, FTC Report Sept. '73.

Why Models Stay Young Till Sixty!

—rinse so much shine into their hair that it has to be powdered down so it doesn't glare into the TV cameras!

These Beauty Secrets—And Dozens More Just Like Them—Earn These Women Up To $100 An Hour! Now They Are YOURS For Only A Few Pennies Apiece!

What we are offering you, in fact, is the world's first "inside" manual on how ordinary women (with perhaps a slightly better face and a slightly better figure than yours) are transformed overnight into stunning beauties! With pounds carved painlessly off their figures! Years smoothed effortlessly off their faces! Every good feature perfected, and every bad feature either corrected or disguised!

And then—when the absolute exquisite face-figure has been created out of the raw girl who first came into the studio—this dazzling physical beauty is then "frozen" against time and weight-gain-of-even-an-ounce for ten . . . twenty . . . even forty years!

For great models are not born; they are made! (On page 10 of this eye-opening volume, you are taken behind-the-scenes in the most glamorous "sorority" in the world, and you are shown that there is scarcely a model alive who did not need to have ten or twenty pounds whisked off her figure, and a major transformation made on her face, before a top model agency offered her a contract!)

But these women made themselves slim, and made themselves radiant far more cleverly and easily than you have ever dreamed. Let us prove that to you right now:

Take Slimming, For Example! How Would You Like To Eat What You Want, When You Want It—And Still Get And Stay Slim Forever!

Let us just quote one of the models whose "forever-young, forever-slim" secrets are revealed here! She says, quite frankly, "I positively adore food. And I never, but never, starve myself. Yet I weigh the same today as when I started modelling more than ten years ago." (Italics ours.)

Why? Because she uses the "Self-Maintaining Diet"! The diet that's fun, that's the happiest of adventures! That actually tames, overnight, those sudden wild urges that destroy your figure! That re-educates your taste buds and your metabolism, so that you find yourself able to eat what you want, when you want it, without gaining so much as an ounce—and (at least at the beginning) losing as much as a pound a day!

Using this diet strategy, food becomes an ally rather than an enemy! It fills you up, but never out! Using this strategy, one model went from 140 pounds to 123 pounds in well under a single month—and she still ate what she pleased on weekends!

Using this strategy, every other model (with the exception of one or two) who faithfully followed it for ten days lost ten big pounds—to start! Another (a perfectionist) went from 133 to 97 pounds! Another, who was bottom-heavy, not only shed ugly pounds all over her body—but spot-exercised the flab right off her bottom so perfectly that she now does bathing suit ads!

For example:

Of all women, a successful model must always be a healthy, sexually vibrant, powerhouse of energy! She must be able to "turn on the dazzle" at a moment's notice—despite the fact that she has been dashing all over the city, toting pounds of clothes, a make-up kit, and often a wig box! Here are the "glamour vitamins" that turn on such amazing stores of physical vitality—ready to go to work for you within seconds after you read page 42!

Nor can an $80-an-hour model afford the slightest trace of dandruff! After trying all the expensive treatments and preparations, here's how they simply rinse the ugly flakes away, at home, in seconds—for pennies! (Page 63.)

And glasses are out too! Weak eyes, aging eyes, dull eyes can cost a model her career! These top models believe that most women take to spectacles simply because of lazy eye muscles, just as most women take to girdles because of lazy body muscles! And if you want to escape the "eyeglass-prison"—perhaps far faster than you've ever dreamed—check page 68 the moment you get this book!

And how about strong, sexy teeth! Did you ever hear, for example, of the new sealants that can be applied to your teeth in seconds, to shield them from harmful bacteria! (See page 73.)

SPECIAL BONUS SECTION: Tips from top hand models that may solve your rough, red problem forever! They say bluntly that there is simply no excuse any longer for hands that are anything else but silken smooth—and nails that are as strong as steel! One glance at the "magic" hand exercises on page 81 may convince you, for good!

PLUS, of course, the same "million-dollar know-how" for your feet as well! Including a natural-fruit way to keep their skin exquisitely white and fine-pored! And a simple little action that builds a natural-shield against calluses right into them!

Just MOVE the way you're shown on pages 89 to 103 . . . and watch inches seem to evaporate into thin air—as though you could practically "smile" them away!

Here are special, super-effective slimmers for the stomach, legs, hips, calves, derriere, arms, bosom—and especially that embarrassing "below-stomach bulge" that otherwise grows larger and larger! Also two startling "firmer-uppers" for neck lines and for bags under your eyes that you must try at once if you suffer from either one!

How to achieve the illusion of a near-perfect face (for example, if you have a receding chin, how to "add" to it in seconds) . . .

And Much, Much More! But Read Them All—Prove Them All, From Cover To Cover—Without Risking A Penny!

This book is for people who want to get things done! You owe it to yourself to try it! We take all the risk! Why not send in the coupon—TODAY!

The last time I saw Jack Benny was in his beautifully furnished, immaculate Beverly Hills mansion. This time I faced him across his cluttered desk in his Beverly Hills office. He turned 80 on Valentine's Day, and we began talking about his proposed retirement.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Tell the truth now—could you ever think of yourself as not working?

BENNY: Let me put it this way. I could retire up to a certain point. And I'll tell you what that point is. If I made a business of my concerts—and you know I give concerts for charity all the time—if I could do enough throughout the year, then I could probably retire. You see, I LOVE to play the violin. But I also love to get laughs. And I love to talk. So when I give a concert, I can do everything I do in Las Vegas. The difference is, the people who come to concerts are pretty sophisticated—the same people who maybe come to hear Isaac Stern, or Heifetz. In fact, Isaac Stern acts as an agent for me because he tells me where they need the money. I always say he gets ten percent of nothing.

"Everybody knows my stinginess is a joke. But in order to compensate, it costs me a bloody fortune!"

BENNY: It's too bad. Producers are taking the easy way out. And the fact that the films are rated means nothing to me. I mean, either a picture should be permitted to be shown, or not, and not have an X rating or a G rating, or however they rate them.

FW: During the last election there was a Proposition 18 in California that, if passed, would have prohibited the showing of a lot of films. What did you think of that?

BENNY: I voted no because while I don't like obscene films, I don't want censorship. Of any kind, anywhere. Otherwise someone can suddenly say, "Well, we don't want this Jewish joke!" or "We don't want this Italian joke." If a proposition like that went through, there's no telling how far censorship would go!

FW: As you grow older, are you growing more conservative?

BENNY: Not if conservative means stingy, careful with money. This I have never been. Neither has my wife. If I had, I should be the richest actor in show business. But politically—well, I am not a party man. I've never been a Democrat or a Republican. I don't want to get hooked, I guess—I just want to vote for who is right.

FW: You say you aren't stingy. How did that joke start?

BENNY: By accident. In one of my old shows there were a couple of jokes about my being stingy. The audience laughed. A little later, when I did a weekly show, we used the same gag and it worked again. All of a sudden I became a stingy character. And then I realized how humorous it was, an element that is easy to laugh at. It's easy to relate to.

FW: Has this ever gotten out of hand?

BENNY: Sometimes when I do guest shots, they plan on doing too much, and I'll say, "Hey, wait a minute, fellas! I can't be stingy throughout the entire show! There must be other things to do." I'm so identified with it now that I don't have to spell it out anymore. For instance, on the Dean Martin show I walk into a restaurant and a reporter comes out and says there's a big comet in the air and it's going to hit the earth in about five minutes and the earth will be destroyed. I don't say a word, but I go to the phone, and I say to the operator, "Who do I see? I just put a dime in the phone box. . . ." I don't have to go any further. Just my going to the phone gets the laugh.

FW: Did anyone ever take your stinginess seriously?

BENNY: No. Everybody seems to know it's a joke. But in order to compensate, it costs me a bloody fortune! Even with charities. I'm forced into giving a lot more than I can afford sometimes.

FW: How about your insistence that you are 39 years old? How did that get started?

"I don't give a hoot how much people liked me on radio or in vaudeville. That's gone."

BENNY: I kept the year 37 for a couple of years. When I was 38, I kept that up for about another three years. Then when I got to be 39, for some reason or other we thought 39 was a funny number. Also, a lot of little kids think that when you are 40, you are an old man. And who wants to be old?

BENNY: Well, once we decided, for the publicity, to have a big 40th birthday. You can't imagine the letters I received, including one from The Christian Science Monitor, begging me not to do it. The Monitor's letter wasn't humorously written, it was serious. They said that most people know my right age [Jack was born Benny Kubelsky on February 14, 1894]; but the people say, "Well, if Benny stays 39 and keeps working, I can keep on working, too!" So I stayed 39. But we don't play that bit much anymore. Or the Maxwell car joke. That's old stuff now—it's become corny.

FW: You don't look much older now than you did 20 years ago. How do you manage to stay in such good shape?

BENNY: Luckily I don't care much about eating. I love breakfast, but after that I can go on practically nothing. And I play golf—not as much or as well as I used to. But I think the most important thing is to do things mentally. I love to work.

FW: You once told me that one of the reasons you stayed young was because your grandchildren kept you young. Is that still the case?

BENNY: Maybe that was right at the time, but today I feel it's my work that keeps me young. I like practically everything I do, and I don't delve into myself. I don't give a hoot how much people liked me on radio or in vaudeville. That's gone. And when somebody asks me, "What did you like best, radio or television?" I say, "When I was in radio, I liked radio. But I couldn't wait to get into television. If there is something after television, that's what I will like!" You don't live for yesterday or even today. You live for tomorrow.

FW: Did the fact that you and Mary worked together for such a long time help your marriage?

BENNY: Yes. But you know, it was quite by accident that we became a team. When I met her she was selling ladies' hosiery at the May Company. In those days a lot of comedians would bring a girl out onstage to work for them. They were supposed to be dumb girls. All the comedians had dumb girls. Well, one day the one working for me became ill and Mary knew the part, and I said, "You know, you could do this beautifully!" And she did.

FW: After that, did you teach her a lot about the business?

BENNY: Mary's knowledge about show business is absolutely amazing. She claims she learned certain things from me, which she probably did, but there are certain things that you instinctively have to do correctly to succeed. Like she would know enough not to try hard for jokes, that if it was written correctly on paper all she had to do was read it. That's why Ronald Colman and his wife were great on my show. They were dramatic actors, but all they did was read the comedy lines exactly as they were written.

AMAZING $1 OFFER

HARVEST UP TO 40 LBS.—HUNDREDS OF TOMATOES YEARLY (THOUSANDS OF TOMATOES OVER 10 YEARS) FROM ONE SINGLE TOMATO TREE INDOORS OR OUTDOORS

New Zealand Amazing Exotic

TREE TOMATO

ACTUAL FRUITING SIZE

Grows Huge Hanging Clusters of Succulent, Red Tree Tomatoes Borne in Successive Waves Month After Month

- Grows As A Tree — Outdoors!
- Grows With Tropic Ease — Indoors!
- Foot-Long Exotic-Shaped Leaves Add Unique Decor to House
- Produces Fruit Up to 10 Years
- Bears a Colorful Array of Flowers from Spring to Fall, Followed by Hundreds of Plump, Juicy Red Tomatoes

FROM NEW ZEALAND'S FAMOUS HORTICULTURE RESEARCH GROWERS COMES AMAZING NEWS! WELLINGTON'S RARE — EXOTIC — ASTONISHING TREE TOMATO is now available in the U.S.A.!

And in a newly-developed super-hybrid variety that harvests up to 40 lbs. (hundreds of tomatoes) a year — thousands of tomatoes up to 10 years — FROM ONE TREE TOMATO!

An astonishing South American tomato fruiting tree that gives stunning blossoms for months, blooms yearly even in the North, grows as a tree outdoors and with tropic ease indoors, now is perfected and made available by New Zealand plant scientists, to you in the U.S.A.

What Happened In Palliser Bay!

The growing fields of Southern Auckland are located in Palliser Bay and there New Zealand's Horticulture Experts married Brazil's tree tomato to the fertile rain forests of New Zealand.

South America's luscious tree tomato was discovered by Brazilian Indians; brought to richest, fullest flavor and lushness by Portuguese missionaries; and hybridized to a super-resistant super-easy-to-grow variety.

There are 30 different varieties of tree tomatoes in South America but only one is the lushest, most delicious and easiest-to-grow of them all! And that one was made over after four years of hybridizing at Palliser Bay — working with various universities — discarding weaker, keeping stronger strains — until the final super variety was ready for you.

Who Put All Those Tomatoes In That Itty Bitty Seed

And New Zealand's super Tree Tomato is so easy to raise that 80% of normally-planted seeds take. So easy it will grow inside anyplace a philodendron will grow! So easy that outside in actual tests seeds thrown at random in plowed fields, grew naturally with no human care.

Each seedling grows to 3 or 4 ft. indoors or up to 8 ft. outdoors or you can stop the growth of the tree at any height you wish between 3 and 8 feet. It is super disease-resistant.

Imagine stunning exotic-shaped leaves up to one foot long! Imagine the constant changing show. First the lovely leaves — then a shower of delicate, fragrant flowers — and finally a beautiful array of juicy luscious tomatoes.

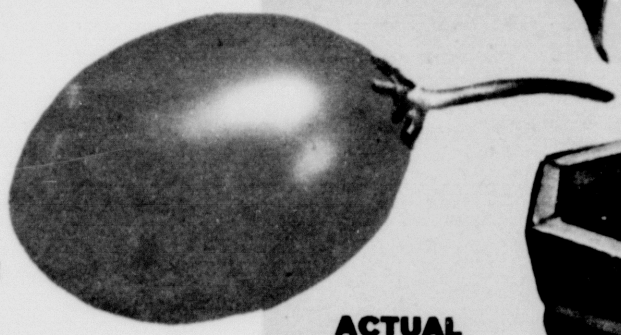
And so prolific that as one crop ripens, Mother Nature sees to it that another crop is taking its place, and this fruiting period goes on for five months.

A Family Delight

Show your children nature's mysterious way of bringing a New Zealand fruit-bearing season right into your own home and reversing the U.S. season. Surprise and delight your friends.

Enjoy delicious, mouth-watering salads, freshest sauces, special jams and deserts — all winter long. See huge hanging clusters of succulent red and plump and juicy tree tomatoes in successive waves month after month.

Grow indoors. Pluck your dinner tomato from the tree. Grow on the patio or in the garden. Indoors or outdoors, see a colorful array of flowers from Spring to Fall.



Each Tomato Costs Tiny Fraction of a Cent!

Accept our introductory offer. Frankly we want everyone who enjoys delicious fresh tomatoes and gorgeous beautiful blooms and blossoms to enjoy this super-hybrid Tree Tomato.

And we are shipping you a full season's supply of these super seeds for $1. But the Tree Tomato, up-to-now too rare and difficult to obtain, is in demand. It's first come, first served.

16 Answers To The Questions Dieters Ask Most

Answered by the Doctor Behind The "Computer Diet" Program

By Evan Frances

Marvin Koner

Dr. Georgina Faludi

If you are like most Americans, you are currently on a diet, you have recently abandoned a diet, or you are considering going on a diet tomorrow (or next week, or next month). And, if you are like most Americans, it has not worked, is not working, or will not work.

How come? We asked a renowned medical authority on obesity, Georgina Faludi, M.D., Director of the Obesity and Diabetic Clinics at Hahnemann Medical College and Hospital in Philadelphia. The Hungarian-born Dr. Faludi has studied the cases of thousands of frustrated dieters in the course of her distinguished career. She knows just about every reason (and excuse) for failure in the book. She also knows the nutritional hazards of dieting. And she has invented what she feels is the answer–a new individualized diet program wherein the dieter's regimen is mapped out by a computer capable of making 600,000 separate calculations a second!

Here are some of the most-asked questions Dr. Faludi encounters–the kind that helped her formulate her program–plus more facts about how the computerized program works:

1. Do you think most fat people eat from loneliness, lack of self-esteem or frustration?

Yes–from one or more or a combination of all. The trick is to do something about it. Join a club, change your job, or if you can't do that, learn a new skill or hobby or craft. Start a weight-whittlers group, meet once a week and weigh in "publicly." Don't spend the evening talking about weight. Once the weighing is over, plan to go to a movie or have a discussion about a best seller or a headline story. Then reward your top-loser by paying his or her movie ticket or by giving him or her the best seller.

2. How can I keep myself from midnight-snacking?

If willpower alone won't do it, keep sliced carrots or celery in ice water in a see-through glass jar up front in your refrigerator so they're the first thing you see when you open that verboten door. Also–wrap no-no's in opaque paper and keep them way back in the refrigerator.

3. Must I stop using salt?

No, but use it sparingly. There's enough salt in food without you adding it. If the taste is flat, try lemon-pepper, onion powder, garlic powder, basil and other herbs. They add fillip to foods without adding calories. In any case, promise not to add salt before tasting your food.

4. I never eat breakfast. Must I?

Skipping meals is not good practice. You may not notice it, but you build up an appetite for the next meal and overeat then. If you skip breakfast, your daily consumption will usually be higher than normal. And, although skipping may make you feel noble at the time, by the end of the day you'll be irritable and mad at yourself. This kind of thing is destructive–does terrible damage to a diet regimen.

5. How much should I lose?

There's no general rule. Statistical tables are for the majority. It's a good idea to ask your doctor what he considers an ideal weight for you. When you begin to diet, you'll lose weight

by Gary Halbert

Dear Taxpayer:

What do you get?

The "poor" get federal housing, food stamps, and other welfare benefits. The rich get oil depletion allowances, lower interest rate loans, and expense accounts.

What do you get?

The answer to that one is easy. YOU GET TO PAY TAXES! Isn't that nice? It is a bit depressing, isn't it? To work so hard for your money and then each year give Uncle Sam a bigger and bigger share of it.

Well, you could always cheat. Or move to another country.

But seriously, if you are already claiming all of the legitimate deductions you are entitled to, there is still something you should do. And that is...MAKE SURE THAT YOU ARE GETTING EVERY PENNY'S WORTH OF GOVERNMENT BENEFITS THAT YOUR HARD-EARNED DOLLARS ARE PAYING FOR!

Millions of Americans just like you are already collecting on them. For example, RIGHT NOW, you and your family may well qualify for one, several or all of these government benefits:

- $5,000 in government loans at below market interest rates—if you know how to apply for the loans!
- Full scholarships and other financial assistance for education. Uncle Sam is paying good money just to locate deserving students!
- Low cost insurance. You can save hundreds of dollars with special government policies!
- A 5-acre vacation hideaway for you and your family. Prices begin as low as $25 an acre!
- Social Security benefits before you reach your sixties. One and a half million children receive social security checks each month!
- Free employment assistance if you are having trouble finding a job because you're not a youngster anymore!
- Free help from the U.S. Secret Service to protect you against counterfeit money and forged checks!
- Free plans and architectural designs for 12 different structures—from a 3-bedroom house to a boat landing!
- A $25,000 start-your-own-business loan, with 15 years to pay it back!
- Free aptitude tests (that would cost you up to $25) to find the job you are best suited for!
- 25% to 75% of your rent paid by Uncle Sam—if you qualify and know how to apply!
- Free government land to stake your claim when prospecting for gold, silver or other valuable minerals!
- Free government service to help you locate lost marriage or divorce records!
- Free protection for your children against hazardous toys provided by the government Office of Consumer Affairs!
- The right to enter a fabulous government sweepstakes—a public drawing to claim oil and gas rights to public lands. Profit potential ranges from $5,000 to $75,000!

You know, a person could fill an entire report just listing little-known government benefits that are available to every U.S. citizen. I know, because with the help of a friend, I did. It's titled "HOW TO GET WHAT THE U.S. GOVERNMENT OWES YOU". It has 320 government benefits that most people have never heard of. But it doesn't just list them, mind you, it tells you how to get them! It tells you how to qualify, who to contact (including all necessary addresses) and what to say.

I am thinking about publishing the report in a hard cover edition selling for around $8.95. Perhaps I will. But this has been a labor of love for me. And right now I'd like the satisfaction of immediately getting the information into the hands of as many short-changed taxpayers as possible. So I've had a local printer reproduce the manuscript in report form and bind it with a soft cover. And I am offering it, personally, direct, by mail, for only $3.00.

If you are interested, please let me know right away as I have only ordered a small press run.

P.S. If you don't take advantage of these benefits, you are only cheating yourself. After all, you've already paid for them. So, order today and see for yourself the hundreds of FREE and inexpensive things the government has for YOU and your family!

P.P.S. Two extra reports, FREE, when you order right away! Free Report No. 1: "Who To Complain to in the U.S. Government"—the complete details on who to contact when you have a problem! Free Report No. 2: "Directory of Regional and Local Addresses of U.S. Government Agencies—so you don't have to go to Washington to get information and satisfaction!

Dieters' Questions

rapidly; then, as you continue, you'll probably slow down to two pounds a week. Later still, you may only lose a pound or so a week. Don't forget: A pound a week is 52 pounds a year!

6. I've been told fish is a dieter's best friend. Why?

Because pound for pound fish has far fewer calories and just as much protein as choice beef. And by the way, another "best friend" is water. You can't drink too much of it. Drinking water not only helps ward off constipation, but taken before meals, a glass of water inhibits your appetite. Sip it slowly—in fact, learn to sip all liquids and chew all foods slowly.

7. If I eat healthy food, why do I have to control my portions?

Because a properly balanced diet means eating the correct portions of food from each of the food groups.

8. Is saccharin safe to use?

It has been used for many years. If you must sweeten your coffee or tea, saccharin is the best bet.

9. Can I include margarine in my diet instead of butter?

They have precisely the same number of calories. But diet margarine has more water and therefore fewer calories. Whenever possible, avoid butter, margarine or diet margarine. Use non-stick coated pans for frying.

10. Why is buttermilk okay if butter isn't?

Buttermilk is what's left over when the butter is taken out. It is an excellent source of protein and has fewer calories than either butter or milk. Try to cultivate a taste for it.

11. Can I use a cream substitute in my coffee?

No. Most such substitutes are made with vegetable oils and have as many calories as cream. Learn to like black coffee or tea with lemon. After two weeks, you'll never miss the cream or milk.

12. Must I do without ice cream forever?

No—not after you reach your ideal weight. For now, substitute ice milk or give yourself a "malted" treat before bedtime by electric-blending one cup of modified skim milk with two ice cubes, a powdered-sugar substitute and/or two rings of canned, unsweetened pineapple or four fresh strawberries or a tablespoon of instant coffee or a teaspoon of vanilla extract.

13. If I try your computer diet, do I have to eat everything on it?

No, but in order to keep a balanced nutrition you should eat at least a part of everything prescribed. Try not to make up for the difference you missed. Just because you skipped something at lunch does not entitle you to a bigger dinner.

14. Do I have to count calories?

No—the computer has done that for you. We just want you to make certain you measure amounts prescribed and adhere to them.

15. Why is this diet better than the "new revolutionary" no-carbohydrate diet I read so much about?

Because any diet that deprives you of essential food ingredients or nutrients is unhealthy. There is a certain amount of protein, carbohydrate and fat needed for your general well-being and maintenance of health. It is possible to lose weight faster in the beginning on a crash diet, but there is no diet that is safer for you than our individually-computed-for-your-needs diet. Besides, our diet alters your eating habits for life.

16. Can my friend go on the same diet I go on?

Why haven't you gotten the message?

There were a lot of people ready for Vantage when we were ready with Vantage. And you wouldn't believe how quickly they began buying them up.

Apparently, many smokers were concerned about 'tar' and nicotine and wanted to smoke a cigarette that reduced 'tar' and nicotine without reducing flavor.

And that's the idea behind Vantage Filter. It gives you the flavor of a full-flavor cigarette. Without anywhere near the 'tar' and nicotine. And it does that better than any other cigarette on the market.

With one exception. Vantage Menthol.

But the problem with Vantage Menthol is that a lot of smokers don't even know that there is a Vantage Menthol.

And there we failed.

In our effort to let smokers know about Vantage, we allowed our menthol to play second fiddle.

Vantage Menthol has the cool fresh taste all menthol smokers go for, and at the same time reduces 'tar' to 11 milligrams and nicotine to 0.9 milligrams.

Now we don't want to fool you. You will find a few menthol brands with lower numbers, but you won't find one that you'll enjoy smoking as much.

Vantage Menthol is here.

If you're ready for us, we're ready for you.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Filter: 10 mg. "tar," 0.8 mg. nicotine; Menthol: 11 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine—av. per cigarette, FTC Report Sept. '73.

Smart Cooking

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a pot roast in plastic roasting wrap. Marilyn says: "Cooking in the heat-proof plastic keeps in moisture and vitamins, and makes cleaning up easier, too!"

Pot Roast, Cooked in Plastic Wrap!

Chilled Clam and Tomato Juice
Lemon Wedge
Dinner Special Pot Roast*
Buttered Green Beans*
Assorted Pickles
Whole Wheat Bread
Butter or Margarine
Baked Apples with Raisins*
Coffee Tea Milk

*Recipe given

Ready for the family: Dinner Special Pot Roast surrounded by vegetables makes good eating. Other go-withs are whole green beans, baked apples and whole wheat bread.

DINNER SPECIAL POT ROAST

Clear cooking wrap with foil edges
3 lbs. beef, brisket or round
1 envelope from 2¾-oz. pkg. dry onion-soup mix
1 tablespoon flour
1 lb. carrots (about 4-5), quartered
2 lbs. potatoes (about 4-5), peeled
1 green pepper, seeded and slivered
¼ lb. fresh mushrooms, rinsed and sliced

1. Preheat oven to 400°F. Line a large 1½-2-inch-deep roasting pan with cooking wrap long enough to enclose Dinner, plus 3-inch overlap.
2. Trim meat of excess fat. Center meat on wrap in pan, sprinkle soup mix and flour around it.
3. Surround with vegetables.
4. Double-fold wrap, leaving 3-inch overlap, and seal foil edges; pierce wrap on top with meat fork 6 times.
5. Bake 1¾ hours, or until meat is tender and vegetables and potatoes are cooked through.
6. Unfold wrap carefully. Serve Dinner from wrap if you like or arrange it on platter. Makes 6 servings

BUTTERED GREEN BEANS

Clear cooking wrap with foil edges
1 lb. fresh, stemmed, whole green beans
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
4 tablespoons water
2 tablespoons butter or margarine, if desired

1. Place green beans on sheet of cooking wrap long enough to loosely enclose vegetables, plus making a 3-inch overlap. Season with salt and pepper. Sprinkle with water; dot with butter.
2. Double-fold plain edges of cooking wrap and foil ends to form package.
3. To cook in oven: Pierce top of wrap with meat fork a few times. Place package in pan and cook with meats about 30-35 minutes, depending upon oven temperature for meat roasting.
4. To cook on range: Place package in skillet with 1 inch boiling water. Cover; cook about 15-20 minutes, or until tender. Keep water boiling in pan at 1 inch throughout cooking time. Makes 4-6 servings

Editor's note: We don't suggest cooking more than 1 lb. beans in package. To cook more, use another package.

BAKED APPLES WITH RAISINS

Clear cooking wrap with foil edges
6 (2½-3 lbs.) medium Rome Beauty or Greening apples, washed and cored
6 tablespoons brown sugar
6 tablespoons raisins
6 teaspoons butter or margarine
¾ cup orange juice, apple juice or cider

1. Preheat oven to 400°F. Line a 2½-inch-deep baking dish with enough cooking wrap to enclose apples, plus 3-inch overlap.
2. Place apples on wrap; fill centers with 1 tablespoon each of brown sugar and raisins, and 1 teaspoon butter. Pour orange juice over all.
3. Double-fold plain edges, making 3-inch overlap; double-fold foil edges to seal; pierce top of wrap 6 times with meat fork. Bake 25-30 minutes, or until apples are fork-tender.
4. Serve warm with syrup from pan. Makes 6 servings

AN EXPERT EXPLAINS WHY IT'S NOW EASIER THAN EVER TO KEEP FIT

More men everyday are becoming aware of the importance of keeping their bodies fit. Once having decided to do something about it, however, they find themselves confronted with a bewildering array of health plans, training techniques and equipment. Which one to choose? We decided to ask an expert: Paul Graham, Mr. Universe 1972 and leading fitness authority.

Q. What does it take to keep fit?

A. Physical fitness is primarily a matter of getting enough of the right type of exercise.

Q. Don't we get enough exercise in our daily lives?

A. Unless you're a professional athlete or a manual laborer, the answer is probably no.

Q. Won't sports do the job?

A. Of course they will, provided you engage in a "complete" sport like swimming, jogging, squash, etc. often enough and for a long enough period. An hour of training a day should put any man in top shape.

Q. Isn't there an easier way?

A. Yes. There is one outstandingly effective training method that is also fast and easy—the one I use and recommend—the new Bullworker system.

Q. What's that?

A. The Bullworker is a revolutionary new exerciser based on Isometrics, the science that increases muscular strength up to three times faster than conventional methods.

Q. How long does Bullworker training take?

A. The complete training program, covering all the major muscle groups: arms, shoulders, chest, abdominals, back and legs, requires just 5 minutes a day.

Q. But it's hard work, isn't it?

A. Absolutely not. Bullworker training is progressive. You start out using only 60% of your strength so there's no danger of muscle strain. That's why I recommend it particularly to men who haven't been exercising regularly.

Q. How long before I can see results?

A. With the very first workout you'll feel your muscles coming back to life. Then day by day you'll see your strength growing on the built-in Powermeter. After two weeks you should be able to see a change in your body in a mirror and measure your improvement with a tape measure.

Q. Will Bullworker training work even for bodies that are weak and skinny or fat and flabby?

A. Definitely. It's been proven by more than a million men of every shape and size all over the world.

Q. Is there an age limit?

A. Generally speaking, men between 15 and 65 in good general health can expect to benefit from fitness and strength building training.

Q. How can I find out more about Bullworker training and maybe try it myself?

A. I understand the United States distributor is offering new users the right to try the Bullworker free for two weeks. I suggest you contact him.

HELPS RID LUNGS OF EXCESS PHLEGM.

Clinic-tested Bronkaid combines three important ingredients, in one tablet, to help clear clogged air passages and restore free breathing for hours. An expectorant works to loosen sticky, stringy phlegm while two bronchodilators help relax tightened bronchial muscles...and ease the distress resulting from air trapped in the lungs. Of all leading tablets, only Bronkaid works these two ways to give you rapid relief from coughing and wheezing of bronchial congestion and bronchial asthma. Available without a prescription.

The Doctor Lets You In

Why You Can Feel Pain In a Leg That's Not There

Perhaps you've heard that when a person loses an arm or leg, he often still feels pain in the amputated limb. This is called "phantom pain" or "phantom limb." The person does not imagine the pain—it is really there. But it is produced psychologically. How? Subconsciously, everyone has an image of how he looks—a "body image," if you will. This image tells us we have two legs, two arms and other structures. But suppose we lose the lower part of a leg. Now, nerve endings at the knee feel sensations and relay a message of pain to the brain. Our brain, patterned to keep our body image intact, interprets the sensations as coming from the missing foot. There is no successful way to treat such pain, except perhaps by suggestion, hypnosis or acupuncture (although eventually changes may take place in the central nervous system and the pain will go away by itself). It all goes to prove that the mind and the body are very complex in their interrelations.

The year was 1773....and in color... America small bands of patriots ga... ered together in what was to beco... America's Colonial Army of Independe... Now, more than 200 years later, pat... Americans everywhere are celebrating th... tion's Bicentennial of freedom.

And what better way to join in the celebrat... by bringing "The Spirit of '76," struck in high ... richly layered Gold on Solid Pewter, or proof-finish... ter, into your own home. You can display it with pride ... your wall, mantle, or table, not only as a mark of your ... otic feeling, but as an artistic masterpiece.

An Outstanding Collection

Master Sculptor Alfred Brunettin has re-created four of the most significant events in our long struggle for independence: "The Spirit of '76";"Paul Revere's Ride"; "Betsy Ross Creates the First Flag"; and "Washington at Valley Forge." Each plate measures a full 9" in diameter. Group them side by side on your wall. Or showcase them on the custom easel that comes free with each plate and display them on your mantel or table. Together they are a living re-creation of the American Revolution which your friends and neighbors will admire and envy. You can hand them down with pride to your family for generations to come.

Your first plate, "The Spirit of '76," will be sent to you as soon as your order is received. .Please remember, your order must be postmarked before July 4, 1974. No orders will be accepted after this date. Then, every three months thereafter, you will be notified by mail of the availability of the next plate in the series. You will be under no obligation to order. It is important to remember, however, that only those individuals who order "The Spirit of '76" Bicentennial Plate now will be given the opportunity to collect the remaining plates in this historic series.

Available in 24 Kt Gold on Pewter and Solid Pewter

Pewter has traditionally been the metal of America's finest craftsmen for over 200 years. Our first American Continental Dollar was actually fashioned from Pewter. Therefore, Pewter has been selected as the most appropriate metal for this collection. It has a unique ability to reflect the finest details of the designs that are struck into its surface. And its brilliance resembles fine silver.

This Plate Collection is available in your choice of 24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter for only $40 per plate and Solid Pewter for just $25 per plate. If you prefer, you may order and pay for all four 24 Kt Gold on Solid Pewter plates for just $145 complete (you save $15), or all four Solid Pewter plates for just $90 complete (you save $10).

Each plate in the series will be individually minted by The Hamilton Mint. Each subscriber will receive a registered Certificate of Authenticity attesting to his status as a collector of this limited edition series and will also receive a free custom easel for display.

Remarkable Investment Opportunity

Even though prices in the International Metals Market have soared greatly during the past few years, The Hamilton Mint will commit for a sufficient quantity of Pewter and Gold to fully cover each subscription. Therefore, you are guaranteed that these prices will not be increased for any plate in this series...no matter how high the price of Pewter and Gold rise in the months ahead.

SCAMPY
Super-mutt

"If all humans had the good qualities she has, the world would be a wonderful place to live in." This was the letter and the dog that won the hearts of the judges who recently chose "Scampy" Mutt of the Year—a title we think this floppy-eared bundle of fuzz certainly has earned. Her entry was submitted by the Marlfield Old People's Home in Hampshire, England. Scampy, who is nine years old and who lives at the Home, was awarded this handsome silver trophy and a year's supply of dog food.

What do you do if you are a middle-aged woman who has gone back to work after the children are out of the house and your new boss makes a pass at you? "Frankly at my age, I'd like to be flattered by the thought, but I would be more likely to think that he needed a new pair of glasses," says Nancy Cory of Asheville, N.C., an author of "The Kelly Girl Second Career Guide"—a new source of information for women who want to return to work (Little Brown, $3.50). For Mrs. Cory, the hardest thing to face when she embarked on her second career was "suddenly finding myself taking commands instead of issuing them. Most women are so used to running husband, children, volunteer organizations, etc., it's hard to adjust to 'not being the boss.'"

Wide World

ALEX KARRAS
Like reaching for an apple . . .

What did the Detroit Lions' former defensive tackle, Alex Karras, used to think about while the quarterback called the signals? "Well, if it was fairly sure to be a pass play, he was the one I thought about. The quarterback. He's the guy I had to get to. I couldn't think about the man in front of me; I had to get around him as quickly as I could. One could say that the offensive lineman has no more significance than the fence you climb over to get an apple off the neighbor's tree. The apple is what has all your attention. Any time I began to think about killing the man in front of me, then I was not going to be able to rush the passer." From "Mad Ducks and Bears" by George Plimpton (Random House, $7.95).

NEW TWIST

They've bottles, now, for medicine
That have a special lid.
They can't be opened, it is said,
By any prowling kid.

This special lid or top is safe
It will not yield to childish yank
Or common twist or turn.

I have a bottle full of pills
I keep upon a shelf.
The top's secure—I've tried, and I
Can't open it myself.

Middle age is that time of life when you finally know your way around, but don't feel like going.—Lane Olinghouse

Did you read about that trucker who parked illegally in the middle of the road and walked away, backing up traffic for 15 miles? So the cops arrested him—for impersonating a doctor.
—Robert Orben

All that stands between us and a home of our own is our teenage daughter. —Thomas LaMance

The pedestrian had been standing on the corner for hours, while cars and trucks streamed by continuously. He couldn't get up enough nerve to risk a crossing, but finally spied a man on the other side of the street and called to him. "Hello! How in the world did you get over there?" The other man cupped his hands to his mouth and shouted back: "I was born over here!"

When our marriage didn't work, my husband and I decided to get a divorce. Sometime later, I was quizzing my six-year-old son to see if his father was planning to remarry. He looked thoughtful for a moment and then replied, "Yeah, I think so. His first wife died, you know."

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects, (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out,

We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.

'AMERICAN BAG'

"American Bag," a topical comedy special with grass roots humor zeroing in on conditions which affect most Americans today—from the battle of the supermarket to the energy crisis—airs on NBC, Tuesday at 10PM. Dennis Weaver, star of NBC's McCloud, is the on-camera host. Weaver will be the central figure in the show. He will turn the spotlight on the foibles of contemporary America, both social and political, much as Will Rogers did in a bygone era. The comedy will be played against a backdrop or recognizable settings—supermarket, gas station, television studio, town hall.

Allan Blye and Chris Bearde are the producers of "American Bag." The company of players includes Nina Wayne, Phyllis Davis, Emily Yancy, Dena Dietrich ("Mother Nature"), Lincoln Kilpatrick, Micky Dolenz and Gabe Kaplan.

Matchmaker

Barbra Streisand stars as Dolly Levi, the matchless matchmaker, and Walter Matthau is Horace Vandergelder, the cantankerous merchant of Yonkers, in the film version of "Hello, Dolly!," a 3-hour presentation of the CBS Thursday Movie at 8P.M. Michael Crawford and Marianne McAndrew are featured in the film, which was directed by Gene Kelly and based on the long-running, multi-Tony-Award-winning Broadway musical of the same title, with music and lyrics by Jerry Herman.

Frozen World

The third of four Undersea World of Jacques Cousteau specials on the Antarctic will air next Sunday, March 3, at 7:30PM on ABC, as the divers from Calypso descend to previously inaccessible sites beneath the ice of the frozen continent. The divers haul their equipment across ice shelves by sledge to seal holes in the ice to accomplish their descent to the previously unexplored ocean floor. The semi-transparent ice fish, with "antifreeze protein" instead of red blood cells or hemoglobin, is photographed for the first time underwater, and the divers also study krill–a tiny red planktonic shrimp upon which most of the food chains of the Antarctic Ocean are based.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'TRAVELIN' SHOW

What is the shortest route between Leo Carrillo Beach in California and Staten Island in New York? Advocates of the straight line theory may be surprised to discover that producer Greg Garrison makes the trip in 60 minutes and tosses in stops at plantations in Savannah, Lookout Mountain in Chattanooga, Stone Mountain National Park near Atlanta, an Andalusian horse ranch in Southern California, scenic Lake Tahoe in Nevada, the banks of the Cumberland River plus two of Tennessee's top breeding farms for steeplechase champions near Nashville, a railway station hotel in Chattanooga, the Capitol building in Washington, D.C., the Governor's mansion in Atlanta . . . and even a visit to Wall Street in New York City. This impressive list of actual settings provides a panoramic outdoor stage upon which Garrison showcases no less than twenty individual musical numbers spotlighting the nations' top country western stars.

LYNN ANDERSON

Appropriately titled Music Country, USA, the production (airing Thursdays at 10PM) is literally as big as the entire nation. The unique format of Music Country could set a new trend for variety shows in general. Armed with three mobile units and four free lance camera crews, Greg Garrison literally takes the entire production to the stars and select scenic settings around the nation.

It was a cold day in Dixie when Music Country moved one of its three mobile units through the south to film country-western stars in Tennessee, Georgia, the Carolinas, Florida and Louisiana. Average temperatures during the production period settled around the 30-degree mark with the chill factor ranging between 10 and 20. While this may seem tame to some folks, it posed plenty of problems to many of the singing stars who, for obvious reasons, do not perform in winter clothing. "By and large the ladies fared best," reveals one wardrobe mistress. "You'd be surprised how easily we couid hide slacks or ski pants under floor length country dresses. The men were less fortunate—they had to settle for a blanket and a cup of coffee between scenes.

Shooting the show was not unlike moving a small army around the nation when you consider their mobile crews covered twelve states and the District of Columbia shooting the first four shows. One mobile unit alone has logged 8,000 miles thus far and, from all indications, an impressive TV "first" will be chalked up by the time this series covers all 52 states.

DOUG KERSHAW

when filming was done there. He stopped by to watch his daughter's clog dance group appear in a segment of the series and could not resist acting like a proud papa when the cameras were turned his way.

Music Country passes along a tip on what may well be the last bargain transportation we may encounter for a while. While filming aboard New York's Staten Island Ferry, they discovered the fare is still a nickle per person . . . which makes it just about the most inexpensive location site for the entire series. That is, if you don't include air transportation from Los Angeles, hotels and meals, cab fare to and from the ferry dock, a mobile tape unit, etc., etc.

Location ideas for the show come from just about everybody who has seen the show, according to producer Greg Garrison. Guest star Jerry Reed turned them on to the famed Stone Mountain Park in his native Georgia, a policeman in Chattanooga suggested Lookout Mountain, and members of a state historical society pointed out some classic plantations in Savannah.

ACTORS LEARN FROM ACTORS

Sharon Farrell as the owner of a shop, pleads with Jackie Cooper, who portrays a psychopath, not to harm her in this scene from "The Night Hunter."

"In acting you can know the calesthenics but you want someone knowledgeable to watch and see if your doing them properly," says Jackie Cooper. This is one of the reasons Cooper left Hollywood in 1947, where he had been a star for more than a decade, to go to New York and study acting. "I didn't like the work being offered to me in Hollywood," he remembers. "They just wouldn't let me grow up. So I thought the theater would be a good place to learn, and exercise."

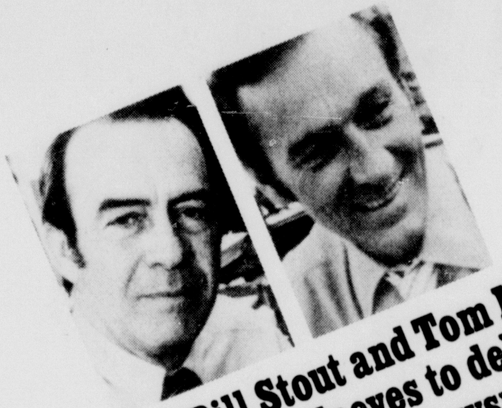
Jackie, who guest stars as a sought-after killer in Screen Gems' "The Night Hunter," a special 90-minute Police Story drama on NBC, Tuesday at 8:30PM, soon found that producers on Broadway didn't want you learning at their expense. So he began working with acting classes. He was accepted by Actor's Studio but soon vetoed that because, "I really couldn't accept most of the techniques they were using."

He found that by joining small groups, headed by actors like Eli Wallach, he began to gain discipline as an actor. "Discipline is important in everyone's life, but especially to an actor's performance," he says. "Discipline is really a matter of personal taste, but taste has to be acquired by work and experience."

Jackie, who from the time he was eight had been the center of attention on a sound stage, discovered that observing other actors is the greatest teacher of all. "Everytime I worked with anyone on stage, I would study them," he recalls. "You know actors, in the long run, really teach each other. That's the most effective way to expand your talents."

Cooper cites the time he spent in the play "Mr. Roberts" as his greatest experience during this period. He toured the country with the show and also portrayed the Ensign Pulver role in London. Josh Logan, the play's director, allowed Jackie to direct and teach the understudies in the English company.

"We set up a group and worked together everyday, with me as the teacher," Jackie remarks. "I gained so much confidence in myself, both as teacher and a director, during that time. It was a wonderful feeling."



At 5:30 Bill Stout and Tom Kelly roll up their sleeves to deliver the news from the Newsroom.

The constant gripe about violence on television has some interesting sidelines. Many of the winter replacement shows and the fall starters, too, are police shows of one kind or another. A realistic police series certainly must show a certain amount of gunplay if it is to be believed. Occasionally an episode might get by without it, but only occasionally. The networks, the censors, and the sponsors all allow scripts to be written and filmed with gunplay, chases and fist fights. The shows are then shown on nation-wide television for every red-blooded American to see. One of the interesting sidelines follows:

Some of the new series have trailers (coming attractions running one-half minute in half-hour shows and one minute in hour shows) to titillate the viewer so he will tune in again the next week. For some odd reason no guns can be shown in the trailers of one certain network. They must be edited so that very little violence is seen and absolutely no guns or gunfire are allowed. Naturally this makes for an extremely dull trailer and probably a misleading one in addition.

Why, I ask, do the people in power try to kid the public to this degree? If no gunplay is allowed in the trailer, then no gunplay should be allowed in the show itself. It is not only deceitful, but a shoddy way to treat the public. Maybe the network look at the public as simple people, however. That would account for one of the reasons the public is given such a tremendous amount of bilge to view.

The constant talk that motion pictures are dying is just that—talk. It's true that not all of them get back their negative costs, but when one does manage to catch on it seems to catch on with a vengeance. There is no doubt in anyone's mind that THE EXORCIST will wind up being the highest grossing picture of all time. No one will even venture a guess as to when it will start tapering off at the box office. Then it will be neatly hidden away and re-released in a couple of years until the end of time as with GONE WITH THE WIND. It's fairly obvious that it will never see a television airing. Then there's that pitiful little porno titled DEEP THROAT. It was made for a paltry sum and the final product lives up to its budget.

Both the above-mentioned films are, however, making tremendous amounts of money. There are others, too. BILLY JACK is still a box office bonanza, thanks to Tom Laughlin's perseverance in battling the major studios. So is THE WAY WE WERE and AMERICAN GRAFFITTI. I can't help but wonder what all the talk is about movies being dead. A good film, on any topic, can make money if it's merchandised correctly. Even a bad film can do it with proper advertising and exploitation. Joe Levine proved that with the inferior Italian production, HERCULES. BONNIE AND CLYDE fell on its face when first released. Only through the dogged persistence of Warren Beatty did it get called back and re-released with a strong advertising campaign. Beatty is personally responsible for the film's ultimate success.

What I don't understand is how a pair of actors like Beatty and Laughlin, untrained and unskilled at selling films, can personally make a success of their pictures when staffs of so-called experts drawing fat salaries from the major studios can't do it. Is it the Peter Principle again? Are the studios still so full of dead wood that nothing can be accomplished? I freely admit that I don't know.

'TURNING THE CLOCK BACK'

Writer Sam Rolfe had no idea that he was setting off a nationwide search when he conceived the scene which introduces the leading character of his latest television script.

Dave Barrett, the character played by Ken Howard, is first seen stepping off a bus in "Manhunter," Rolfe's action-drama in which an ex-marine pursues a gang of notorious 1930's bank robber-killers. It was filmed on location in northern California for broadcast on The New CBS Tuesday Night Movies at 9:30PM on CBS.

Mary Cross, who plays Ken Howard's one-time sweetheart in Quinn Martin Productions' 90-minute movie special, "Manhunter," park themselves in front of a mid-30's Essex Terraplane, one of the many vintage cars used in the production, filmed entirely on Northern California locations. Howard plays an Army veteran who, when Mary is killed by a band of Bonnie and Clyde type bank robbers, dedicates himself to capturing the hoodlums. Gary Lockwood and Stefanie Powers guest star.

The hunt wasn't for Howard, the film's star. It was for the bus. Because the movie is set in the 1930's, the bus had to be authentic to the era. Howard Alston, executive production manager for the movie, points out that the search for the bus consumed ten man days of work, which works out to one man, working eight hours a day for ten days.

"The end result," says Alston, "was that we located two buses that were authentic to the year of our film." One was located in the Midwest and the other was in Sacramento, Calif., only an hour away from the Stockton location where the film was shot.

The other problems concerned locations—farmhouses, small towns and buildings—that could reflect the depression look of the American Northwest in the 1930's. One of Alston's assistants, using Stockton as his base, travelled nearly three thousand miles by car in seven days and succeeded in finding every location called for in Rolfe's script.

"We even found a building in a small town outside of Stockton that had been a bank in the Thirties but is now being used as an insurance office," Alston points out. "The fellows who run the agency were as cooperative as they could be. They let us move out all of their office furniture and move in our desks, safes and tellers' cages."

For two days, at least, Alston's crew had managed to turn the clock back forty years.

BARBRA STREISAND HAD AMBITION

Barbra Streisand is the first to admit she was not a beautiful baby. Nonetheless, her fortune has been her face, her voice, her talent and individuality as a performer. The star, who has earned fame and major awards—including an Oscar, an Emmy and a Grammy—heads the bill as the matchless matchmaker, Dolly Levi, in the motion-picture version of the Broadway smash, "Hello, Dolly!," on The CBS Thursday Night Movie at 8PM.

Ambition has always been the governing force of Miss Streisand's life. Her family had clues to that strength early. "My mother says I had lipstick smeared on my face and was acting on a dresser when I was two," she notes. "She caught me before I fell. Maybe that was the first time I actually acted."

"When I was a kid—a poor one—I was certain I'd be famous one day," she says, noting that success has changed her. "It's made me nicer. My need to become famous was so strong I would have been bitter had it been frustrated. In school I was an ugly duckling and a loner. Nobody believed I could ever be a great actress and singer except me. My own mother laughed at my ambition and told me I was too skinny to aspire to the stage. Now she doesn't know what to make of my success." There are times when Miss Streisand herself is floored by her success. During the filming of "Hello, Dolly!" autograph seekers constantly were invading the set.

"People asked me to sign autographs," she recalls, "and I forgot how to spell my name—does the 'e' come before the 'i', or vice versa? It's scary. The public creates stars and there's an illusion, and the public doesn't like that illusion to be broken. So people don't really want to know about the real me."

Although Miss Streisand has attracted success in massive doses, she doesn't find it's quite added up to the measurements of her youthful dreams. "It doesn't even come close," she says. "The excitement of life lies in the hope, in the striving for something, rather than the attainment. I'm a practical person. To me, it's a real drag that you can't hold success in your hand like a hard-boiled egg."

'A FAMILY AFFAIR'

At the taping of NBC's second 90-minute late-night country music special of the season, "Johnny Cash's Country Music," a friendly family atmosphere prevailed. "This is a real family show," the program's writer Chet Hagan said. Hagan was referring to the fact that the 90-minute special would be providing entertainment for the family and that many of host Johnny Cash's guests were also family.

For example, the show will include Johnny's wife, June Carter Cash, and their two teenage daughters. Also, June's famous mother, Maybelle Carter, and her two sisters, Anita Carter and Helen Carter, perform during the program.

"The original Carter Family is in the Country Music Hall of Fame," Johnny said, "but the Carters are ageless."

Then Johnny introduced the 1974 version of the Carter Family, including Mother Maybelle, Anita and Helen, and Anita's daughter Lorrie Davis.

Johnny's brother, Tommy Cash, a country star in his own right who made a 27-day tour of Europe and performed in England, Greece, Germany, Turkey and Italy, also appears on the special.

But it won't be all family. Also guest-starring on the program will be 15-year-old Tanya Tucker, who will sing two of her current hits, "Blood Red and Goin' Down" and "What's Your Name"; Bill Monroe and the Blue Grass Boys; an act that is one of the originators of "Bluegrass" music; the Statler Brothers, who were discovered by Johnny and have won a dozen awards since; Larry Gatlin, a recent discovery of Johnny; Carl Perkins, who will sing his classic hit, "Blue Suede Shoes"; and Brush Arbor, a young singing and instrumental group.
